Barter Theatre Manager To Be Heard On Allen Program

Garden Products Taken At Box Office In Lieu Of Cash By Town Hall Guest Star

Robert Porterfield, managing-director of The Barter Theatre of Abingdon, Va., where produce is accepted in lieu of cash at the box office, will be interviewed by Fred Allen, leading thespian of "Town Hall Tonight," over WEAF Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Allen, who long ago learned something about receiving unsolicited and aged vegetables over the footlights, will discover how to make theatre goers deposit garden products at the box office for profit. Porterfield, an F. F. V. who turned actor, will become mathematical to report on the rate of exchange between Shakespeare and spinach.

Porterfield launched his Barter Theatre on a shoestring potato in the midst of the depression in 1932 because most of his fellow actors were facing the dullest season in theatrical history on Broadway, and many were broke and hungry. He had just finished a nationwide tour with Walter Hampden and found people thruout the country doing business with barter.

The drama of "One Man's Family" centers once more on Beth Holly's baby son, David, in the episode of the serial that's broadcast Wednesday.

The title of the chapter is "The Barbours Take Beth Holly Under Their Wing." Altho the discussion is mostly about baby David, he doesn't appear on the program that's heard over WEAF at 7:00 p. m.

One comedy scene features the antics of Wayne and Teddy, while Jack and Betty kid each other in another. Claudia and Nicky return to "One Man's Family" after a week's absence.

How much do you know about American heroes? Probably you could name Lindbergh and "Wrong Way" Corrigan — but could you name the man who bottled up the English fleet on Lake Erie in the War of 1812? If you have to think twice before you name Commander Oliver Hazard Perry, you'd better check your history book for a perfect score in Jim McWilliams' Ask - It - Basket, Wednesday, 6:30 p. m. over WABC.

With a round of questions on "American Heroes," McWilliams is reviving his weekly "specialty basket" which gives Ask-It-Basket listeners a chance to "bone up" each week on some particular subject of general interest. This is the genial quizman's answer to a landslide of letters from his radio audience—all demanding the "specialty basket."

Lowell Thomas, famous NBC news commentator, will head the list of guests on Dave Elman's Lobby program Wednesday, from 7:30 to 8 p. m., over WJZ. Thomas' hobby is managing the "Nine Old Men," a softball baseball team composed of celebrities, whose annual skirmishes with George Bye's "Prehistoric Men" provide amusement to spectators and players alike. Six other persons will appear with Thomas to describe their unusual hobbies.

A special ceremony planned to mark Ned Sparks' election by Kappa Kappa Gamma girls at Northwestern university as Hollywood's most "lovable" personality, will be held on the Star Theatre Wednesday, when Tom Brown and Anne Shirley guest-star on the show. Frances Langford will do a repeat on "Rhapsody in Blue" with Gus Kahn lyric authorized by Ira Gershwin, and Kenny Baker will sing "Don't Worry About Me." David Broekman's orchestra will play "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

An enthusiastic group of candidates for degrees at the College of Musical Knowledge will undertake the oral examinations proctored by Professor Kay Kayser during the WEAF broadcast Wednesday, from 9 to 10 p. m., over WEAF. Prof. Kayser will call on candidates for correct answers to questions based on contemporary music and musicians, and will award diplomas to students surviving the examination. Dance by Kayser's orchestra, with vocals by Virginia Simms, Harry Babbitt and Sully Mason will be heard during the recesses.

United States government officials estimate that the American public suffers a loss of about $3,000,000,000 annually from worms, bugs and flies. The warfare waged against insects, alone, costs $200,000,000 a year.

Bette Davis Is Starring In Dramatic Film At The Ohio

"Dark Victory" Tells Story Of Tragedy In Life Of Girl; Ameche Heads Cast In Quilna Feature

Continuing at the Ohio is the great dramatic story of a young girl into whose life tragedy creeps just when life for most young people begin. "Dark Victory" the title of the film, stars Bette Davis, George Brent, Humphrey Bogart and Geraldine Fitzgerald.

Don Ameche as Bell, the great inventor of the telephone, Loretta Young as his wife and Henry Fonda as Bell's assistant, head the cast in the magnificent picture, "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell" which is now showing at the Quilna theatre.

Adolphe Menjou in the type role which has made him famous is seen in "King of the Turf" one of the features now at the Sigma. Rosella Towne heads the cast in the title role of "The Adventures of Jane Arden" the first in a series of pictures taken from the comic strip, also at the Sigma.

Wednesday is the closing day for "Trade Winds" starring Frederic March and Joan Bennett and "Little Tough Guys in Society", starring Mischa Auer, Edward Everett Horton and Mary Boland, at the State. Opening Thursday will be "Fast and Loose" a romantic detective comedy and "Sunset Trail" one of the Hopalong Cassidy series.

"Just Around the Corner" starring Shirley Temple and "I Stand Accused" featuring Robert Cummings are the two pictures closing Thursday at the Lyric. The first is another of Shirley's delightful pictures with the little miss doing some fancy dance steps with Bill Robinson. The latter film is a dramatic story of a criminal condemned to die.

QUILNA

Don Ameche brings another immortal character to the motion picture gallery of the great in the title role of Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," which is currently at the Quilna theatre.

Ideally cast as the young genius who invented the telephone, inspired by the unfailing devotion of a beautiful young girl, the popular actor offers his great portrayal in this stirring romantic drama which symbolizes the tradition of America.

Sharing stellar honors with him in this production are Loretta Young, as the deaf Mabel Hubbard, whose affliction was the inspiration for his great accomplishment; and Henry Fonda as Thomas Watson, the untiring and devoted assistant who shared the early years of hope and struggle of Alexander Graham Bell.

Poverty, starvation, disappointment and ridicule were faced by the young dreamer. So intense was his struggle that he halted on the threshold of his great invention, ready to sacrifice it so that he might find happiness with the girl whose love kept the flame of his genius alight thru the years. It was she who made him go on!

Ironically enough, after all the drama and suffering of these years, the moment of discovery had a humorous angle.

OHIO

If real-life criminals got as big a thrill out of the chance to "go straight" as film killers do at the opportunity to reform, the country would have no crime problem, police forces could be disbanded, prisons closed, and the taxpayers would save a lot of money.

The authority for that statement is Humphrey Bogart, who should know what he's talking about, for he is one of the prize criminals of the screen and recently he enjoyed the rare thrill of playing a comparatively sympathetic role in "Dark Victory," the picture starring Bette Davis at the Ohio.

"I doubt if any actor really enjoys playing a vicious killer," Bogart said. "I know I don't, and I have played about as many of them as any man in pictures. Gangster roles have done all right by me, it's true, and I have no cause to complain.

"Nevertheless I'm delighted to be playing a sympathetic role in 'Dark Victory,' even tho I lose Bette Davis to George Brent.

"This is my first sympathetic part since 'Crime School' and one of the very few I've had.

"My current reformation won't last. I'll be at outs with the law again. But if Hollywood would let me, I'd go straight from now on. I wouldn't even have to be placed on probation."

During the Victorian age, a whiff of onion juice frequently was used to bring around fainting damsels.
