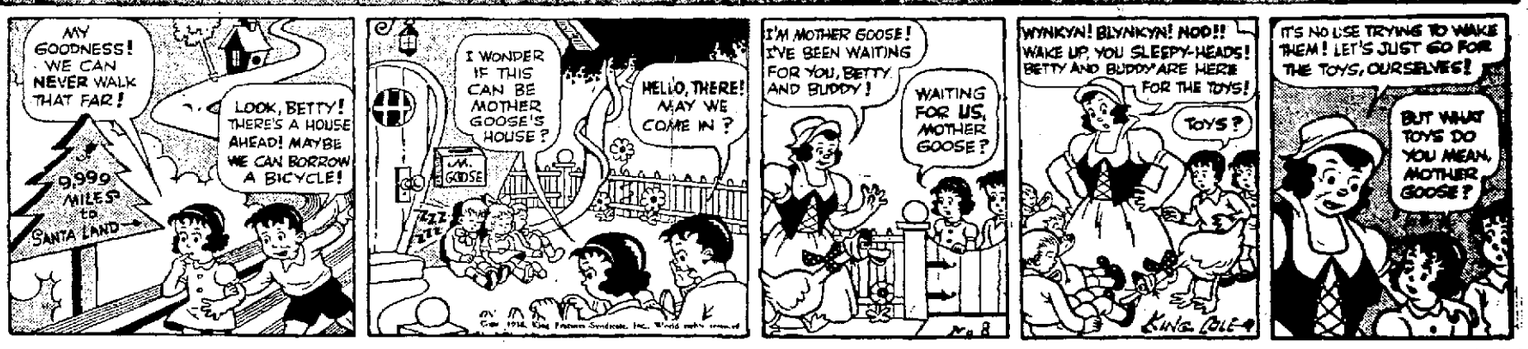
SANTA CLAUS EXPRESS — By KING COLE



Pitt's Frosh May Receive 'Outside Aid'

PITTSBURGH— (INS) — The muddled situation regarding Pitt's frosh gridders today was unofficially solved by Chancellor John G. Bowman himself.

The freshmen, said Bowman in an interview, may receive aid in payment of their tuition from outside sources, provided such aid is given openly and not made in the form of a lure to prep school athletes to go to Pitt or to others to stay.

Must Pay Tuition

The statements by Bowman, however, are not the official reply to be made to the gridders, it was emphasized. Late Monday, Business Manager John Weber said school executives had decided the frosh must pay full tuition starting in their sophomore year, thus practically duplicating former demands. But the chancellor said:

"There is nothing in the code which prevents ambitious athletes from receiving help. That would be discriminating against boys because they are athletes and would be as unfair as doing the same thing to certain other students who happened to be members of the band, or some other student organization.

"Furthermore, there is no rule preventing a bright student from obtaining a regular scholarship, but we will certainly not give any scholarships merely because students are athletes."

Opens Way to Aid

Bowman's stand apparently opens the way for alumni and friends to provide aid if they so feel, but it must be done according to the university's rules and regulations.

Freshmen are doing janitor jobs which pay them about $48 a month. They have held meetings together and presented "demands" to the administration that certain "forgotten promises" be made good to them.

At that time they said they would leave the school if forced to pay four years' tuition.

Who's Who Among Wisconsin Birds

The common Canada goose was once a common Wisconsin bird, nesting extensively in this state. Its nesting sites were largely destroyed through drainage and other causes and now it is seen merely as a tourist, traveling northward over the state in the spring and southward in the fall.

This goose is a large bird with dark, slate-colored body, darker wings and black head and neck. It has a large white triangular patch extending up from the throat onto the side of the head, well back of the eyes. The bill and legs are black.

The loud clarion call of the common Canada goose is unmistakable. Migrating flocks travel in perfect V-shaped formation.

This goose prefers vegetable food such as tender grasses, grains, berries, sedges, wild rice and other aquatic plants. It also eats snails, grasshoppers and crustaceans.

The bird now generally nests in Canada from Labrador, Quebec and Mackenzie south to the northern portions of the United States. It winters chiefly in the southern part of the United States and in Mexico.

Stuhldreher Defends Steve Sitko

DIXON, Ill.—(U.P.)—The quarterback who played Notre Dame's famed "Four Horsemen" through an undefeated campaign came to the defense of the Notre Dame quarterback who almost did the same this season.

Harry Stuhldreher, University of Wisconsin football coach and signal-caller of Knute Rockne's 1924 Notre Dame team, told Dixon high school gridders at a banquet Monday night that the odds were "a million to one" in favor of Steve Sitko Saturday when he called the fourth-down running play that set up Southern California's winning touchdown.

"Why condemn Sitko?" Stuhldreher said. "All season long the press and football fans of the nation credited him with being the spark plug that raised Notre Dame from a team figured to lose three or four games on its schedule to one of national championship timber. Sitko didn't lose that Southern California game. Southern California merely had the best team on the field that particular day."

Striking at 10-cent football advocated by Chicago University President Robert M. Hutchins in a recent magazine article, Stuhldreher asserted that "if a person advocates such extremes, why doesn't he advocate free football?"

"Ten-cent football," he added, "is the by-word of a shrewd operator."

He chided "Monday morning quarterbacks" for spreading rumors that the Wisconsin team which lost the 1938 Big Ten game to Minnesota had "gone Hollywood" as result of its trip to Los Angeles the previous week.

New Lisbon Tips Tomah Preps, 26-15

NEW LISBON — Sparked by the brilliant floor play of Henry Lukes, 115-pound sophomore guard, New Lisbon high school cagers upset a ranger Tomah quintet here Monday night, 26-15, in a clean, hard game. The win was second in three starts for Coach A. E. York's New Lisbon team.

Dick Kallies and Wallace Robertson, veteran forward and center, respectively, led the New Lisbon scoring as it took a narrow 9-8 lead in the first quarter and set the pace all the way. Kallies tallied nine points and Robertson scored eight. Harrison Henry was high for the Indians with three goals. The box score:
