Radio News and Programs

As an example of how far an actor can go in living the part he plays, take Jess Pugh, title star of the comedy serial "Scatter-good Baines." Jess has filed a formal petition in an Indiana circuit court to adopt Scattergood Baines as his legal name. For three and a half years Jess has been playing the part five days a week "I may as well make it legal," says Jess. "Everybody calls me Scattergood, anyway."

FAMOUS HYMN NETS $4

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — The hymn "In the Garden," which has been printed 3,000,000 times in all languages and of which 1,000,000 recordings have been made, netted its composer just $4. According to C. Austin Miles, 72-year-old Philadelphia music critic whose Gospel hymns are sung all over the world, he sold the rights to the hymn for $4. He doesn't regret his financial arrangement.

GYPSIES OF THE WORLD
I — EARLY HISTORY

There is a custom of calling an ordinary person a "gypsy" if he likes to travel so much that he can hardly stay in one place long enough to hang his hat.

The true gypsies are much like that. All through their known history, they have been wanderers —or at least the majority of them have kept moving from place to place. In a few countries, however, there are some thousands who have settled down.

The name "gypsy" also is spelled "gipsy". It grew out of an early belief that the homeland of these people was Egypt.

Careful study seems to have proved that the first gypsy home was India, not Egypt. Some of them are to be found in Egypt today, but their ancestors are believed to have moved there in fairly modern times.

In the Egyptian language a man is a "rom" and a woman is a "romni." Both those words go back to the language of an old caste in India. It was a low caste, and the gypsies probably started wandering because they did not enjoy life in their native land.

Large bands of gypsies existed in western Asia hundreds of years before they entered Europe. It appears that they moved to Greece before the year 1400. Later they spread through the Balkan lands and into Hungary.

Some went from Hungary into Bohemia. King Sigismund gave them "letters of protection" when they moved from Bohemia into France. Perhaps he was glad to do that because he thought his own country would be freed of many or most of them.

Gypsies also entered Germany, Denmark, and Sweden. Sooner or later each of those countries made laws against them.

About a century passed in Denmark before the gypsies were ordered out. Then King Christian III made a royal decree telling them to leave the country.

About 100 years later—in 1662 —the same sort of order was issued in Sweden. The gypsies were told that they would suffer death if they came back again.
