French Hero Plays Hero

FRENCH ACTOR and playwright Jean Pierre Aumont will be starred in a "Christmas Gift" featuring Margaret Draper and Donald Briggs on "Robert Montgomery Presents," Monday at 9:30 p. m. on WNBW.

"Christmas Gift" is the tale of the holiday in the war-torn town of Somme, in France, for a French underground leader, a French girl and an American lieutenant.

Hollywood success followed Aumont's French stage and screen fame but he left America to fight with the Free French army. Twice wounded, Aumont later received the Legion de Honneur and the Croix de Guerre.

The story was adapted for TV from Albert J. Guerard's novel "Marguerite."

Walter Slezak will costar with Maria Riva at 10 p. m. Monday on WTOP-TV in "The Innocence of Pastor Muller," by Carlo Bert.

Boy Meets Girl Singer

VERONICA LAKE and Roddy McDowall will costar in "The Blues Street" at 8 p. m. Monday on WTOP-TV. It's the story of a wealthy young college student and a nightclub singer who get acquainted in New Orleans. Papa can't find sonny and offers a $1000 reward.

REAR ADMIRAL W. G. Schindler, commander of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, will discuss the Navy's Research and Development Program on "Pentagon - Washington," Monday at 8 p. m. on WTTG.

CHRISTMAS EVE TV plans are already shaping up so well it might behoove a kindly Santa Claus to deliver his TV sets to setless homes by nightfall of Dec. 24 instead of waiting 'til midnight. Among the offerings on WNBW will be Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," an opera about the Three Wise Men and a 10-year-old crippled child, (9:30 p. m.) and readings from Christmas stories by Charles Laughton at 11.
