Fan Fare

Raymond Paige, maestro and boating enthusiast, is in training for the 1940 Olympic yachting trials.

Jimmy Fidler, Hollywood gossip commentator, has been renewed by his sponsor for one year with a salary boost.

The oddest name combination in radio is that of Amanda Snow, vocalist, and her accompanist, Johnny Winters. Amanda is the NBC vocalist who came from Minneapolis about a year ago entirely unknown and since has reached network prominence.

Grace Moore, who on March 30 will start a 13-week series with Andre Kostelanetz over CBS Wednesday nights, left New York this week for a six-week concert tour preparatory to going on the air.

Marion Francis, vocalist who has been working with the Frankie Masters band on "It Can Be Done" for the past eight weeks on a week-to-week basis, has been given an extended contract by Masters. This is the young singer's first major assignment.

Road Safety Parley Called for March 4

A coordinated program of highway safety for Wisconsin will be discussed here March 4 at a conference of representatives of 50 statewide organizations, the state highway commission announced today.

Speakers for the safety conference will include Thomas F. Davlin, chairman of the highway commission; Fred W. Braun, Wausau, author of the 1935 highway safety program, and West A. Burdick, director of the highway commission's safety department.

A general discussion designed to develop a plan for coordinating safety activities in Wisconsin's 71 counties will follow the speaking program.

Among organizations registered for the conference are associations representing automobile clubs and dealers, World war veterans, farm groups, 4-H clubs, League of Wisconsin Municipalities, county traffic officers, county highway departments, Anti-Saloon league, parents and teachers, women's clubs, State Chamber of Commerce, doctors, commercial travelers, labor, taxpayers, public utilities and vocational schools.

Wisconsin has no state safety council, but has a highway safety program set up within the state highway department.

300 Members of Parish Honor Father Eggers

Three hundred members of St. Bernard's parish and their guests gathered at a dinner in the church school Wednesday night to honor the Rev. W. J. Eggers on his 62nd birthday anniversary.

Principal speaker at the dinner was the Rev. John Koelzer of St. James' church. Chairman in charge was Bert Walz, and Atty. James McGeever presided as toastmaster.

Other speakers at the dinner and later during the program were Joseph "Roundy" Coughlin; the Rev. John A. Risch, Verona, a former assistant at St. Bernard's; the Rev. J. R. Huepper, Lodi; the Rev. J. M. Haeusler, Mt. Horeb; the Rev. W. T. Jung, assistant at St. Bernard's parish, and Paul Hemmy Sr. and Paul Hemmy Jr., both of Juneau.

The group presented Mr. Eggers with an armchair.

Platteville School Dedicates Book to Edgar Riley

PLATTEVILLE — The senior class of the Platteville State Teachers' college has dedicated its annual, "The Pioneer", to Edgar F. Riley, director of the training department, who this summer completes 25 years of continuous service on the faculty. Dr. Riley will deliver the baccalaureate address to the class on June 5.

Mr., Mrs. Oliver to Celebrate Date

MARSHALL—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Oliver will celebrate their 52nd wedding anniversary Saturday at their home here. Mr. Oliver will be 72 years old.

Will Tell of Filene at Church Service

The life story of the late Edward A. Filene, Boston philanthropist and merchant, will be told by Roy Bergengren, managing director of the Credit Union National assn. at the Saturday morning service of the Unitarian church.

You'll see Shirley Temple in person soon and it won't cost you one penny. That's the plan of Mrs. George Temple, the nine-year-old actress' mother, who announced in Hollywood that Shirley would make a personal appearance tour across the U. S.
