GEN. CHENNAULT WEDS CHINESE GIRL REPORTER

SHANGHAI, Dec 21—(AP) Claire L. Chennault, retired major general who won wartime fame as commander of the Flying Tigers and the U S 14th Air Force, was married today to Miss Anna Chan, a reporter for the Chinese Central News Agency

The ceremony was performed at Chennault's home in a Shanghai suburb

Col Thomas C Jeffrey a former Flying Tiger ace, was best man

The bride is the daughter of Dr Y. W Chan formerly Chinese consul in San Francisco, Calif and at present consul-designate to Kuching, Sarawak

Divorced Last Year

Chennault 57, was divorced in July, 1946, by his first wife, to whom he was married in 1911 They had eight children, five of them sons who served during the recent war

When the divorce came to light last Dec 17 at St Joseph, La both Chennault and his wife declined comment except that he replied 'No no when asked if he intended to remarry

Chennault has had an unusual and highly publicized career as an airman

As one of America's earlybird aviators he won the Distinguished Service Medal in the First World War Afterwards as commandant of the 19th Pursuit Group in Hawaii he conducted extensive studies in aerial combat tactics and in 1926 demonstrated the use of parachute troops

Retiring from the Army in 1937 with the rank of Major, Chennault came to China where he became air adviser to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in the war against Japan

Early in 1941 he organized the American volunteer group made up largely of American service fliers Nicknamed the "Flying Tigers" by the Chinese, they quickly won wide acclaim for protecting the Burma road against Japanese raiders

After the United States entered the war, this group was integrated into the American Army, Navy and Marine Air Forces and Chennault was named commandant of the new U S 14th Air Force with the rank of Brigadier General He was promoted to Major General in 1943

Shortly after the Japanese surrender Chennault resigned his commission in September 1945, and organized an airline to fly UNRRA supplies in China

With his home and headquarters in Shanghai he has operated this venture since

Only 12 days ago he was awarded the U S Navy Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorious service as commanding general of the 14th Air Force He also holds a number of decorations from the Chinese government
