Well, the Faces Are Familiar

Attired in 15th century costumes, Orson Wells , left, chats with Tyrone Power, right, and a third member of movie cast in Rome. Reports show that at least 30 foreign film companies have filmed Roman settings in the last six months.

The many shifts in radio schedules, which have taken some shows off the air, leave one of this department's favorite sustaining programs still going. It's "Ethel and Albert" on ABC-WIBA at 3:30 p. m. Monday through Friday. This homey man-and-wife comedy is a refreshing change from the day-in-day-out sentimentality of most of radio's daytime drama. But I wish the network would change the opening announcement—it gets monotonous.

Of all the corned-up commercials yet inflicted on us listeners, the worst is the new one on NBC-WIBA's "Your Hit Parade."

Starting date for the new Deal Martin-Jerry Lewis show, which NBC has signed with an eye toward building it as a Sunday night successor to comedy shows which have departed, has been set back to Jan. 16 and the program will originate in Hollywood. Lucille Ball will be the first guest.

Despite the drum-beating about the big stars snared, CBS isn't losing sight of the fact that web-build shows such as "My Friend Irma" are doing well, and plans are under way for another batch of them. In the works at present are a quiz show, "Earn Your Apples"; two high-budgeted comedy programs, a mystery starring Dick Powell as "Johnny Dollar," and another whodunit, "The Snake."

What is said to be the highest salary ever given a performer for a guest appearance in radio went to Bing Crosby for his em cee role on the two-hour Christmas show on CBS. Bing's check was for 10,000, and he donated it to Gonzaga university of Spokane, his alma mater.

Danny Thomas, comedian twice sponsored by the same company in radio shows which failed to click, has been signed by the same sponsor, who will try his talents on television. Sponsor will probably start him in the spring on NBC-TV.

"Mr. Ace and Jane" will return to the air Feb. 1 on CBS.

Several new characters will be introduced on CBS' "Lum and Abner" Sunday show during January and February, according to the show's writers, Roz Rogers and Betty Boyle. Stars Chet Lauck and Norris Goff opened auditions last week to select the actors.

Hollywood rumors persist that NBC is trying to lure Crosby back and hopes to spot him opposite Jack Benny on Sunday nights. If true, the move means NBC's rule against recordings is near an end, since Bingle insists on shows by tape recording.

Lillian Randolph, "Birdie" on NBC's "The Great Gildersleeve," reports to Eagle-Lion film studio this week for a Southern flicker," as yet untitled.

Ken Murray, whose "Blackouts" has become a Hollywood institution, talked video last week to a network group hopeful of putting his version of vaudeville on film this year—and on the coast-to-coast hookup as soon as the coaxial cable goes through.

Elliott Lewis draws his first barnstorming tour since pre-war days when he hits the road as Frankie Remley with Phil Harris and Alice Faye in February to play the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, followed by dates in Florida and New York City, Elliott's home town.

Jack Carson will do his first two broadcasts of the new year from Chicago's CBS studios, aided by his partners in the vaudeville tour, Dave Willock, Marion Hutton, Robert Alda, and Bob Sweeney.

U. W. BAND: The story of one of Wisconsin's leaders in the battle against dairy tuberculosis will be told on the University of Wisconsin band broadcasts this week over 64 Wisconsin and Upper Michigan radio stations.

Associate Dean Vincent Kivlin of the college of agriculture will review the dairy research work of Dr. Harry L. Russell, former dean of the college, during the intermission of the band program.

The band, with Emmett Sarig conducting, will play Sousa's "On the Campus," "Winter Sunset," Harry Alford's paraphrase on "Moonlight and Roses," Schubert's "Moment Musicale," and "The Wisconsin State Guard March" by Lieut. Col. R. A. Teschan of Milwaukee.

MAIL BAG: Jim Miller of NBC writes from New York . . .

One of the subjects to be dealt with in the Living—1948 show will be the status of comedy in the U. S. Fred Allen has consented to be the narrator on the show, which is tentatively scheduled for Jan. 9 (at which time, incidentally, it will be Living—1949).

Pat Kelly, our chief of announcers, says some of the commonest expressions in our language give radio announcers the most trouble. "Under the direction of," for instance, almost invariably causes a slurring of syllables. The name of Dr. Frank Black, according to Keily, haunts our announcers, almost every one of whom at one time or another has called him Dr. Flank Brack.

NBC is now featured in two Broadway shows. In "Mr. Roberts," the portion of the play dealing with the end of the war in Europe has Henry Fonda sitting on the deck of his ship listening to shortwave news broadcast from the U. S. The broadcasts he hears are actual recordings of NBC VE Day news shows, including the voices of Bud Foster, former NBC San Francisco newsman, and Ken Banghart from New York. In the new Bobby Clark musical, "As The Girls Go," the first thing the audience sees is a newsreel flashed on the screen announcing the election of the first woman president of the United States. It is the NBC Television Newsreel, and the voice is that of Paul Alley, one of the commentators featured on the reel.

People bring the strangest things into the NBC studios, judging from some of the articles that have turned up in our lost-and-found department. A 7-year-old boy once came in to claim a blowtorch that he'd left under his seat in the "Supper Club" studio. After one of the Toscanini concerts three turtles were found wandering around under the seats. Their names, painted on their backs, were quite appropriate for that particular program — Beethoven, Bach, and Brahms—but the inscription on their stomachs was a little incongruous. It was: "OH YOU KID!"

Best of '48

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND

Best actress on the screen in 1948, in the opinion of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, was Olivia de Havilland for her performance in "The Snake Pit." She won Academy Award in 1946.

Hollywood

THE GWYNNSEY REPORT: You can get even money around Hollywood that the Rita Hayworth-Aly Kahn idyll won't end at the altar.

However, we're not taking any bets on this one . . . "Rusty" Regan, former Paramount contractee, and John Ringling North are supposed to be saying their "I do's" before another month goes by.

Our N. Y. spy reports that Betsy Drake, only a few years ago was engaged to Jim Hoover, the bartender at the Old Knick Music Hall . . . Ava Gardner and Howard Duff have patched up their tiff and are back in full . . . In Hollywood, one might say, one woman's hubby is often another woman's hobby. . . .

Hedy Lamarr and Eddie Norris once wed to Ann Sheridan, met two weeks ago and have been steady - dating ever since.

LAMARR

Jimmy Stewart and Gloria MacLean have found a house—after all that hunting. But the house is just for HER — not for THEM!

Jane Powell will be with her best beau Gary Steffen at Sun Valley for New Year's. That's where they originally met when he was a ski instructor there.

Enough time has gone by, we trust, to be able to mention the word "poll" without being hit over the head with a Mack truck.

So, despite the many magazine pulse-takings as to movie star and picture popularity, here some results from the boys who really should know—the ones at the theater cash-registers.

The annual poll of exhibitors shows that the top box-office attractions for the year now ending, were "Best Years of Our Lives," "Green Dolphin Street," and "Easter Parade."

The stars whose personalities or talents (or both) bring in the most cash, are Bing Crosby, Betty Gable, Cary Grant. And as runners up, Judy Garland and Lana Turner. So there!

One-picture-a-year deals seem to be the vogue.

And whether it's the studios who want it that way, or the stars themselves, is hard to say.

But we don't think that even the big lots are paying out those big salaries "forty weeks a year" anymore, if they can help it. Or unless the star in question is an unquestioned box-office puller.

Latest to be talking contract renewal on the one-a-year basis are Bette Davis and Warner Bros., where she has toiled for years and years.

Jack Carson leaves this week for a tour all across the country. Twelve weeks of stage appearances in connection with "John Loves Mary" . . . A burning new issue for the bobby - soxers, will undoubtedly be Peter Lawford's newly-grown moustache which makes him look like "four other fellers."

CARSON

Gwen O'Connor, who is the wife of Donald O'Connor, gave up a promising career when she married him, but is resuming it with a part in Don's picture, now in production. It's "And Baby Makes Three," in which Gloria de Haven and Charles Coburn also figure in a big way.

3 Slightly Hurt in Sports Mishaps

Three Madison residents were slightly injured in winter sporting mishaps Saturday afternoon.

They were:

Ivan Barringer, 24, of 822 Maple terrace, treated at Madison General hospital for shock, cuts, and bruises.

Lyle Leverentz, 17, of 37 Leon st., cuts and bruises, taken to Methodist, treated and released.

Michael Cavanaugh, 9, of 2085 Winnebago st., cuts, treated at Methodist hospital.

Barringer was hurt when a toboggan he was riding crashed into a tree at the Blackhawk Country club golf course.

Leverentz fell while skating at Olbrich park, and young Cavanaugh suffered face cuts in a sledding accident on the East side.
