George Cohan's Daughter To Be Heard On 'We, The People'

Dick Powell To Give Preview Of New Program On Bob Hope Spot; Broun Listed On "Information Please"

Mary Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan, who last week made her professional stage debut; Frank Rusoti, of Vicksburg, Mich., who gave up a fortune rather than return to Italy to live; Eddie Jones of Hollywood who grows angleworms for a living; Dorothy Hoffman and Jane Butler of New York City, who decipher doodles, and Edward Xiques, also of New York, who paints out black eyes, will appear on "We, The People" over WABC Tuesday at 9:00 p. m.

Miss Cohan, who represents the third generation of Cohans to work on the stage, is now featured at a leading New York night club. She will tell of trying not to follow the family tradition and why she finally succumbed to the lure of the theatre.

Rusoti recently was left a fortune by his father with the stipulation that he return to live in Italy. In his interview with Gabriel Heatter, Frank will tell "We, The People" listeners why he would rather continue as a mill-hand in America than enjoy great riches abroad.

A preview of what Dick Powell will do when he stars on his own new program in a few weeks is promised listeners when the handsome singing star makes a guest appearance on the Bob Hope program Tuesday at 10 p. m. over WEAF.

The great radio romance between nutsy Patsy Kelly and Bill "Teeth" Goodwin may suffer a reverse when Patsy meets Dick Powell.

On the Hope show, Dick will match wits with Bob, Jerry Colonna, and Bandmaster Skinnay Ennis.

Heywood Broun, well known newspaper columnist who confessed to a case of mike fright when he first served on the Information Please board of experts on Dec. 20 last, will be given a chance to come back on the WJZ program Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. Another guest of join Broun and the board's regulars John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams, both columnists, will be Rex Todhunter Stout, novelist.

Stout's name was identified with a school thrift system before he began his literary career. He is the author of the Nero Wolf mysteries, the latest of which is "Some Buried Caesar." He also wrote 'How Like a God," "Seed On the Wind," "Golden Remedy," "The President Vanishes" and "The League of Frightened Men."

Two well known explorers and a Metropolitan Opera tenor, a novelist and a ballet choreographer will reveal what they would like to do in life when they appear as guests of Cal Tinney during the If I Had the Chance program Tuesday, at 10 p. m. over WJZ.

Among those to 'fess up are Armand Denis and Leila Roosevelt famous explorers, Frederick Jagel, Metropolitan Opera tenor, Alice Duer Miller, novelist, and Georges Balanchine, ballet choreographer.

Fibber (Always in Hot Water) McGee will turn his talents toward the operation of a hot dog stand Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over WEAF. Billy Mills' own arrangement of "Chop Sticks" will be sung by the Four Notes and Tenor Don Novis will do 'Phil the Fluter's Ball."

Betty Winkler's the latest actlane pretty to try her hand at scripting—she's doing a dramatic show outline in between her "Gal Alone" broadcasts and she'll submit it to an agency when she finishes plotting the first 13 weeks.

Jack Haley's going back to the soil he never owned. He's looking over ranch properties in the California hills.

Bret Morrison's doing his "First Nighter" announcing with a long face and a sad note in his voice this week. Reason: he had to have his favorite horse, a five gaited jumper destroyed because of its incurable throat ailment.

Ray Noble's fine new hair-line moustache brought him an elegant, gold-inscribed moustache cup after last Friday's Burns and Allen broadcast. There wasn't any card but up in one corner was the word—EICARG (get it?)

Postponing his trek to the San Francisco World's Fair until radio broadcasting facilities on Exposition Island are completely installed, Eddie Cantor has scheduled a week of personal appearances in the Golden Gate city beginning March 3.

The Lucilles are beginning to take over radio . . . there's Lucille Manners the singer, Lucille Ball, Jack Haley's comedienne, and Lucille Wall, of "Your Family and Mine"—all fine gals and all doing fine!

COMING TO STAGE AT OHIO

Pa and Ma McCormick, above, those lovable veterans of the WLW Boone County Jamboree, have been added to the many other favorites coming in person to the Ohio theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Pa's and Ma's ages will total well over 125 years. They celebrated their eleventh anniversary with WLW on last New Year's Eve. Their forty-seventh wedding anniversary was honored by their many friends on Nov. 13, 1938. Pa plays harmonica and sings novelty tunes; while Ma chords on a piano, and acts as Pa's dancing partner. And when it comes to dancing, Pa and Ma can out-jitter any modern jitter-bugs.

Boone County Jamboree To Hold Ohio Stage Two Days

Sigma, State And Lyric Have Twin Programs; Quilna Offers Don Ameche In "Three Musketeers"

The WLW Boone County Jamboree with all the favorites, Kenny Carlson and his dummy, "Scrappy" O'Brien, the Kentucky Girls, the Sunset Rangers and all the others, open a two-day engagement on the stage of the Ohio theatre Wednesday.

On the screen in "Boy Trouble" will be that "scrap-happy" couple, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland. Donald O'Connor, who was recently seen in "Sing You Singers," also is in the comedy.

Tuesday is the closing day for "Trade Winds" co-starring Fredric March and Joan Bennett at the Ohio.

Opening on the Sigma screen Wednesday will be a double feature bill which includes, "A Man to Remember" and "Nancy Drew Reporter." Bonita Granville and Frankie Thomas who have been seen together before in the Nancy Drew series are again starred in the principal roles Ann Shirley has one of the leading parts in the former film.

Bing Crosby's latest hit, "Paris Honeymoon" will close its engagement at the Sigma, Tuesday.

Don Ameche as D'Artagnan with the Ritz Brothers as the musketeers, are seen in the musical comedy version of the great Alexandre Dumas story, "The Three Musketeers," which is showing at the Quilna Gloria Stuart, Binnie Barnes and Pauline Moore are in the leading feminine roles.

Tuesday is the last day for the showing of "That Certain Age," starring Deanna Durbin, Melvyn Douglas and Jackie Cooper and "Flirting With Fate," featuring Joe E. Brown and Leo Carrillo at the State

OHIO

Tay Garnett, globe-trotting film director who roams the seven seas in search of unfamiliar backgrounds for motion pictures, recently completed in Hollywood the screenplay which is the result of his most ambitious expedition

The picture is "Trade Winds," the production now playing at the Ohio theatre, with Fredric March and Joan Bennett in the starring roles. Tho the story begins and ends in San Francisco, portions of the action take place in authentic locations in seven countries of the Far East, in the course of a detective chase which leads the principal characters half way around the world.

Personally Garnett a true lover of the sea, is a strapping figure of a man, an Irish-American who combines many of the characteristics of both races His eyes twinkle with humor, and his Irish sentimentality long ago demonstrated its value in the filming of scenes filled with the more tender emotion

He is thoro and meticulous in his attention to detail. He never makes a scene until it has been rehearsed to the point of perfection, but then he often photographs it only once. He considers it unnecessary, and definitely harmful thru loss of spontaneity, to film a scene many times.

QUILNA

D'Artagnan, the singing loving, fighting hero of the musical comedy version of "The Three Musketeers," at the Quilna theatre, really lived!

Alexandre Dumas, who authored the famous novel, wrote a letter to a friend in 1850, six years after finishing the book, in which he related that he had drawn heavily from the memoirs of one Monsieur D'Artagnan, written in 1701 and 1702, for the material in "The Three Musketeers."

The letter was discovered by a research expert in the archives of a Paris library She came across it while doing a month's work in preparation for the filming of the picture. D'Artagnan, Dumas said, was in the king's service, and fought his way thru some almost unbelievable adventures in protecting Louis XIII and his queen, Anne of Austria, from internal court intrigue.

In the new film D'Artagnan is portrayed by Don Ameche, who, with the Ritz Brothers, is starred in the film which was directed by Allan Dwan.

A fine supporting cast features Gloria Stuart, Pauline Moore, Binnie Barnes and Joseph Schildkraut.

SIGMA

Bonita Granville again appears as a brave and clever heroine in 'Nancy Drew—Reporter," second in the series of films the studio is making from Carolyn Keene's popular Nancy Drew stories, which opens at the Sigma theatre Wednesday.

Other principals in the cast who were in the highly popular initial picture, 'Nancy Drew—Detective,' include Frankie Thomas, still Nancy's best boy friend, and John Litel who carries on as Nancy's father.

Most interesting of the newcomers to the cast is Mary Lee, a pretty, 11-year-old singer. Others who have important roles include Sheila Bromley, Larry Williams, Betty Amann, Thomas Jackson, Dickie Jones and Olin Howland.

Assurance of the same high standard of entertainment as was established in the opening episode is contained in the fact that the screen play of the new picture was written by Kenneth Gamet, who did a similar service for the preceding production, and the director is William Clemens, who certainly won the right to direct the entire series with his work on the first picture.

Edward Ellis, a ranking screen favorite, has one of the finest roles of his career as the doctor-hero of "A Man to Remember," new drama at the Sigma theatre Wednesday

A member of a famous theatrical family, Ellis made his film debut six years ago in "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang, subsequently, he played the title role in 'The Thin Man,' and followed with 'Winterset' 'The President Vanishes' 'The Texas Rangers' and 'Fury,' among others He scored his first big Broadway hit as Blackie Daw in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford."

In his current picture, "A Man to Remember" Ellis is ideally suited to portray the kindly and deeply sympathetic old physician whose career in a small midwestern town becomes suddenly involved in a mind-reading murder mystery.

Anne Shirley and Lee Bowman have the romantic leads in "A Man to Remember."
