Dorothy Parker Secured As Expert For "Quiz" Program

Famous Wit Will Be Heard At 8:30 P. M. Tuesday; "Inside Story" Of Foundling Home To Be Related

Dorothy Parker, wit, poet and short-story writer, will serve on the Information Please board of experts Tuesday, sitting alongside Franklin P. Adams, one of the regulars of the board, who first encouraged her by printing her verses in his column in the old New York Mail. The program will be broadcast over WJZ from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m.

The other guest experts on that program will be Elmer Davis, newspaperman and author, and the other regular John Kieran, with Clifton Fadiman trying to stump them with tricky questions.

Miss Parker's first volume of sparkling verse was "Enough Rope," published in 1927. Her second collection was "Sunset Gun." Her third book, "Laments for the living," contained a story, "Big Blonde," that won the O. Henry Memorial prize. Davis, an Indianan and Rhodes scholar, has written a number of books.

The "inside stories" of the Evanston Cradle, famous foundling home of the Chicago suburb; of how Michael MacDougall exposes crooked gamblers, and of the repossessing adventures of John D. Tierney of Chicago, will be revealed during the first broadcast of the new weekly series, The Inside Story, to be heard over WJZ Tuesday at 8:00 p. m.

Al Jolson, who adopted a child from The Cradle, and Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder and head of the institution, will be heard as the "inside story" of The Cradle is unfolded. Jolson will speak from Hollywood and Mrs. Walrath will be interviewed in the Chicago studios by Fred Sullivan, master of ceremonies of the program.

MacDougall, author of the new book, "Gamblers Don't Gamble," will be on hand in person to tell something of his experiences in exposing crooked gamblers. Card detective MacDougall may also discuss some of the commonest "card shark" manipulations and how to detect them.

Benny Goodman will play a brand new swing arrangement of "I Want To Be In Pictures" and Johnny Mercer will introduce a new lyric parody titled "I Want To Be In Pittsburgh," when the Caravan swings from the stage of the Stanley Theatre in Pittsburgh, Pa., Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over WABC. Martha Tilton will sing "I Want My Share of Love," and "And the Angels Sing." Benny's killer-diller will be "Lady Be Good."

A quiz-crazy world will hear Fibber McGee pass a memory test Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over WEAF. Fibber's regular zany staff, Izzy Randolph, Bill Thompson and Hal Peary, will miss from the sidelines. Billy Mills' orchestra, Tenor Don Novis, and the Four Notes will sing.

A musical project of such epic import that it already has the thunderous approbation and enthusiastic endorsement of music critics will be launched over National Broadcasting Co. networks Tuesday.

A "sensationally different" orchestra will make its world debut on that date, playing for the first (and probably last) time anywhere, during Cal Tinney's If I Had the Chance program at 10 p. m., over WJZ.

Members of the orchestra, celebrities drawn from many fields, and all of whom have appeared as "solo artists" on past Tinney broadcasts, will be Peter Arno, artist; and William C. White, Saturday Evening Post writer, both at pianos; Arthur Garfield Hayes, lawyer, at the mandolin; Rockwell Kent, artist, as a flautist; Frank Norris, managing editor of Times magazine, at the drums, and Comedian Eugene Howard as a violinist.

Jack Oakie, film glamour boy who is convex and concave by turn, (depending on his determination to diet,) will swap wisecracks with Bob Hope and Patsy Kelly Tuesday, on the weekly Bob Hope funfeast at 10 p. m. over WEAF. Jerry Colonna, Skinnay Ennis and his band, Six Hits and a Miss will also be heard.

John T. Flynn, internationally-famous author and journalist and formerly adviser to committees of the United State senate investigating the stock exchange and munitions, will analyze and interpret national and world events for the radio audience every Tuesday from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m., over WEAF.

Flynn was born in Bladensburg, Md., 57 years ago. Following attendance at Georgetown university, in Washington, D. C., he went into newspaper work.

In 1933 and 1934, he was adviser to the U. S. senate committee on banking and currency in the investigation of the stock exchange. In 1934 and 1935, he was adviser to the senate committee investigating munitions. He is a member of the Board of Higher Education of the City of New York.

The one right answer to a stupendous problem that keeps wise men guessing and politicians talking, "What's Wrong With This Country?" will be revealed Tuesday, at 9:30 p. m., when Doctor Rockwell's Brain Trust broadcasts for the fourth consecutive week over WJZ.

Discussion of this subject by Rockwell's brain-less experts was suggested by a national inquiry into the American state of mind. More people want to know what's wrong with this country than want to know whats' wrong with any other country.

FLOOD WATERS IN OTTAWA AREA ARE RECEDING

(Lima News Bureau)

OTTAWA, March 14 — Crest of Putnam-co's biggest inundation in recent years apparently passed at 3:30 a. m. today when water in the Blanchard river, at Ottawa, started receeding.

William Ruch, nightwatchman at the state highway garage on the river bank here, said the river ceased rising about 2 a. m. today, then started to recede slightly between 3 and 3:30 a. m.

Route 15 north of Ottawa was closed to traffic Monday afternoon after courageous motorists drove thru rising waters during the morning. Water covered Route 65, in the south edge of Ottawa, Monday evening, then started down. Route 65 was the only state highway in the county not closed to traffic at some point.

Water was about 30 inches deep in the west edge of Ottawa and Route 224 was closed to traffic. Low land in the vicinity of the Ohio Sugar Co. plant here was a lake in every sence of the word. Fences and standing corn were obscured by the water.

Routes 224 and 114 in the vicinity of Kalida were under water while routes 115 and 189 near Rimer were passable. Route 115 near Vaughnsville was still inundated and 190 south of Ft. Jennings.

Waters from Plum Creek west of Columbus Grove had returned to a near normal level.

Routes 224, 114 and 115 in the vicinity of Kalida were under water and 189 near Rimer. Route 115 near Vaughnsville was still inundated and 190 south of Ft. Jennings.

A number of houses were surrounded by water but no injury or suffering was reported.

VILLAGE AND RAILROAD NAMED IN DAMAGE SUIT

(Lima News Bureau)

OTTAWA, March 14 — The Travelers' Fire Insurance Co. today brought suit in common pleas court here against the village of Ottawa and The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, seeking $237.50.

The insurance company seeks to recover the money which is paid on a collision policy to the D. and E. Feed Co. of Ney, following a mishap in Railroad-st, near Main-st, here Jan. 3, 1938.

The railroad and street parallel closely at that point and the insurance company claimed that a northbound passenger train ripped the side of the van-type truck when a protruding metal arm cut it as the train passed.

"Little Tough Guys In Society" And New Hopalong Cassidy Hit, "Sunset Trail," Booked To Open

When a gang of tough east side New York kids break into the cream of society and try to make a regular fellow of a "sissy" things start happening. All these things happen in the film, "Little Tough Guys in Society" which opens at the Sigma Wednesday. In the cast besides the Tough Guys will be seen Mischa Auer, Mary Boland, Edward Everett Horton and Jackie Searl.

Hopalong Cassidy also rides in again on the Sigma's double bill Wednesday in his latest hit, "Sunset Trail." All the favorites, pals of Hopalong are seen in supporting cast.

"Wife, Husband and Friend," the gay romantic comedy now showing at the Quilna theatre, has for its stars Warner Baxter, Loretta Young, Binnie Barnes, Cesar Romero, George Barbier, Eugene Pallette, Helen Westley and many others.

The ups and downs of a young married couple is the basis for the picture, "Made For Each Other" which is now showing at the Ohio theatre. James Stewart as the husband and Carole Lombard as the wife present some humorous and heart breaking episodes which might happen to any young couple.

Tuesday is the closing day for "They Made Me a Criminal" starring John Garfield, the Dead End Kids and Gloria Dickson and "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor" starring Dennis O'Keefe and Cecilia Parker at the State. Opening Wednesday will be a double musical bill, "Artists and Models Abroad," and "Freshman Year."

OHIO

The tense and thrilling story of Jane and John Mason, an average, modern-day couple, deeply in love but hounded by opposing economic conditions, is unfolded in the new film drama, "Made for Each Other," a David O. Selznick production showing at the Ohio theatre.

Co-starred for the first time, and as a romantic team, Carole Lombard and James Stewart play principal roles, while prominently featured in an unusual supporting cast are the screen notables Charles Coburn, Lucile Watson, Ruth Weston, Donald Briggs, Eddie Quillan, Harry Davenport, Esther Dale, Alma Kruger and Tully Marshall. Among the other members of the cast, which reads like a "who's who" of Hollywood's supporting players, is Julia Faye, one-time star of silent films, who played in the last silent picture ever made, "The Godless Girl," and now is making a comeback on the screen. Also present is Jack Mulhall, one of the few silent stars to continue successfully thru the sound era.

SIGMA

From newsboy to film executive sounds like the plot for a Horatio Alger novel.

Actually it's the story of Lester Cowan, producer of the big W. C. Fields-Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy comedy, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," showing at the Sigma theatre.

Cowan was born in Akron, Ohio, on April 1, 1907. At the age of six he got a job selling papers.

After graduating from Stanford university Cowan came to Hollywood. A year later he was appointed executive secretary of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Later Cowan moved to the Columbia studio, where he produced "The Whole Town's Talking," with Edward G. Robinson and Jean Arthur. Following the completion of this picture, he was elevated to the post of executive assistant to Harry Cohn, big boss of that studio. He resigned from that position in order to produce "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man."

Included in the cast supporting Fields, Bergen and McCarthy are Mortimer Snerd, Mary Forbes, Constance Moore and Princess Baba. The film was directed by George Marshall.

Now working with complete freedom, he expects "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man," which features Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, to be the funniest picture of his career.

The film was directed by George Marshall and produced by Lester Cowan.

QUILNA

There's a new technique for dealing with philandering husbands. You don't dissolve into tears. And you don't threaten to go straight home to Mother. You simply catch him off his guard, pounce on him and —sock him!

That's what Loretta Young does in "Wife, Husband and Friend," the romatic comedy hit at the Quilna theatre, and take it from Warner Baxter who is co-starred with her, it works and it hurts. He ought to know, for Warner is the man who takes it.

The thing which makes the battle unusual is that, for a change, the lady administers the punishment with the gent on the receiving end. As every movie-fan knows, it was not always thus. Take a look at the record.

Movie history still recounts the time when William Farnum and Tom Santschi staged their knock-down and drag-out fight in "The Spoilers." (Ask dad about that one). That was the first of the famous screen fights and still leaves a high mark to shoot at.

Then came an equally famous battle in which two ladies were seen as the contestants. In 1915 Cecil B. DeMille staged a hair-pulling and eye-gouging contest between Geraldine Farrar and Jeanie Macpherson as the cigaret girls in "Carmen."
