Unusual Fare Scheduled On Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby"

Fred Allen, One-Time Aspiring Barrister, Will Display Knowledge Of Jurisprudence In Radio Skit

Deems Taylor, noted music critic and commentator, will head the list of guests on Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" Wednesday, at 8:30 p. m. over WJZ.

Also on the program will be Freida "Honey" Feldman of Boston university, who spends her sparetime running a dating bureau; Carl Staudenmaier, of Pittsburgh, who rivals the Easter bunny by raising chickens that lay eggs with different colored shells, and Leo J. McDevitt, of Jamaica Plains, Mass., who, with two highschool classmates, operates his own radio station.

Deems Taylor's hobby is cabinet making and hand craft in wood. His work, acording to critics, is extremely good and altho he has been offered large sums of money, he has never sold any of his objects d'art.

Miss Feldman, who goes by the nickname of "Honey," operates her hobby under the slogan of "If you want a honey, just call 'Honey'." She has already been responsible for fifteen engagements and two marriages, and all profits from her hobby she turns over to welfare organizations.

Fred Allen, who once studied law as a hobby, will be featured with the Mighty Allen Art Players in a burlesque legal drama titled "Ambulance Chases Allen" as the feature of his Town Hall Tonight broadcast Wednesday at 9:00 p. m. over WEAF.

Taking the role of Shyster McAllen, senior partner in the firm of Allen, McAllen and Allenson, Fred will chase ambuances via helicopter, motor-bike, scooter and short wave radio. Disaster overtakes jurist Allen when, after overtaking an ambulance, he finds that it is no ambulance at all but only Jimmy Fidler ringing bells on the way to a broadcast.

For contrast to his burlesque of Blackstone, Fred will present Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the Merry Macs swing quartet featuring pretty Helen Carroll, the new Town Hall quartet directed by Lyn Murray, Peter Van Steeden and his Troubadours, and another "Person You Didn't Expect to Meet" in gala offerings of mirth and melody.

Sixty-eight members of the senior class of Trenton Central high school will visit Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra when the trombone maestro broadcasts from Radio City Wednesday. The students expect to bring their class mascot, a lady goat named "Trenton," to the broadcast, provided that NBC officials grant the necessary permission and waive a rule of long standing that animals are not permitted in the studios.

When the pupils asked Tommy if he minded serenading the goat, he said that after playing recently for dozens of chimpanzees and monkeys in the Philadelphia zoo, he surely had no objection to playing for one New Jersey goat.

Billy Gilbert appears again on the CBS Star theatre Wednesday, 9:00 p. m. over WABC as a result of his smash performance on the same show last week. Jesse Lasky will appear with his gateway to Hollywood stars and the following musical program will be given: "Our Love," and "When My Baby Smiles at Me," by Frances Langford; "A New Moon and an Old Serenade," and Drigo's "Serenade," by Kenny Baker; "Could Be," by the Star theatre orchestra.

The peaceful conversation of "One Man's Family" is suddenly broken up by an emergency call for Paul in the Wednesday episode of the serial.

Up to the time of the hurry call, Father Barbour has been having a long chat with Teddy about life with a capital "L." The scene then shifts to the home of Jack and Betty where there's a light comedy touch with Jack in the bathtub.

The final scene in the broadcast over WEAF at 8:00 p. m. is a typical Barbour family chat. The title of this chapter of the serial of domestic life is "An Emergency Call for Paul."

Brilliant police work which led to the downfall of the Honeymoon Lane Bandits will be dramatized on Gang Busters, Wednesday, at 8:00 p. m. over WABC. The details will be told to Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf by a law officer instrumental in the capture of the killers.

Leslie Howard Starring In Hit Movie On Ohio's Screen

Amazing New Star, Wendy Hiller, Cast In Leading Feminine Role Of Shaw's "Pygmalion"

Leslie Howard in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" opens Wednesday on the Ohio screen. An amazing new star, Wendy Hiller is co-starred with Howard. They are supported by Wilfred Lawson and Marie Lohr. The story tells of how Howard takes a girl from the streets and turns her into a beautiful duchess, admired by all.

"Four Girls In White," a human story of the hopes and ambition of four young nurses is one of the current features at the Sigma. Una Merkel, Florence Rice, Ann Rutherford and Mary Howard have the title roles.

"Persons in Hiding" also at the Sigma is the story of a woman who with her beauty tries to outwit the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Patricia Morison, a newcomer to Hollywood, is starred in this role, supported by J. Carrol Naish, Lynee Overman and Judith Barrett.

A tragic tale of a great injustice done to three persons, two of whom are falsely accused of murder, is told in the Quilna's picture, "Let Us Live" starring Henry Fonda, Maureen O'Sullivan and Ralph Bellamy.

How one man outwits a band of international spies is the theme of the second Quilna feature, "Lone Wolf Spy Hunt." Warren William is seen in the stellar role with Ida Lupino. Virginia Wiedler and Ralph Morgan in supporting roles.

Mickey Rooney is seen as a swingtime cupid in the picture, "Hold That Kiss" which is showing for the last times Wednesday at the State. Maureen O'Sullivan and Dennis O'Keefe are co-starred in the romantic roles.

"Young Dr. Kildare," the story of a young doctor starting out on his own is the other feature closing at the State. Lionel Barrymore is starred with Lew Ayres in the picture.

Boris Karloff, the screen's bogey man, changes roles in the picture, "Mr. Wong, Detective" currently featured at the Lyric. This time he chooses the other side of the fence and goes out to capture criminals rather than being captured.

Glenda Farrell, Otto Kruger and Herbert Mundin are featured in the other Lyric film, "Exposed."

QUILNA

"There, but for the grace of God, go I" may be considered the true theme of the film at the Quilna theatre, with Maureen O'Sullivan, Henry Fonda and Ralph Bellamy featured. True motion picture entertainment in its sheerest sense, "Let Us Live" deftly weaves romance, murder, injustice, tragic error, fear and hope in brilliant fashion.

It is no exaggeration to say of "Let Us Live" that it possesses an idea to which everybody will respond. The story of ordinary people, suddenly becomes the focus of a suspicious world, "Let Us Live" has to do with Brick Tennant, a taxi driver, and Mary Roberts, his sweetheart. Fate plucks them from their obscurity to change their pitiful dreams of a modest happiness-to-be into a terror-stricken reality.

The boy and his friend are accused and convicted of murder by the mistaken testimony of eyewitnesses and by circumstantial evidence appalling in its incrimination. The girl refuses to quit her desperate struggle to convince a hostile world that her sweetheart is innocent.

"The Lone Wolf Spy Hunt," first of a series of films, is current at the Quilna theatre with Warren William featured as the Louis Joseph Vance character and Ida Lupino cast as a Washington debutante who wants to marry the world-famous rogue. Ralph Morgan, Rita Hayworth and Virginia Weidler are others in the cast of the new film, which was directed by Peter Godfrey.

SIGMA

Hospital life as viewed from the eyes of a nurse is revealed in a stirring new picture coming to the Sigma theatre. It is "Four Girls in White," with the four nurses of the title played by Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford and Mary Howard, and the man in the case enacted by Alan Marshal.

One of the most sensational train wreck sequences ever filmed forms the background for the dramatic highlight of the picture which tells the story of four girls who enter upon nursing careers with four different reasons, only to be won over by the single purpose of service to humanity when the dreaded "disaster call" puts them face to face with suffering human beings.

The most bizarre pages from the record of modern American crime have been formed into one thrilling screen story in "Persons in Hiding," which opens Wednesday at the Sigma theatre. The picture is based on an actual case related in J. Edgar Hoover's book, "Persons in Hiding."

Altho made up of incidents from the careers of a dozen famous criminals, the story plugs a single exciting theme — the terrific influence of beautiful young women who supply the brains and inspiration for some of the country's most feared and desperate gangsters.

LYRIC

An action melodrama perfectly suited to the talents of its star, Frankie Darro, is "Wanted by the Police," which opens Thursday at the Lyric theatre.

The story of a wide-awake American boy who single-handed wrecks the "hot car" racket, "Wanted by the Police" concerns Danny Murphy, a youngster who gets himself a job in a garage so his sister can marry her policeman, only to find himself involved in a gang murder.

Blackmailed into staying with the mob, Danny's activities worry his mother until she wrings a confession from him, and together with Mike, Kathleen's fiance, the Murphys and the law go after the crafty Williams, head of the racket.

Replete with thrills and a happy mixture of catchy tunes, Gene Autry's newest musical western, "Mexicali Rose," opening Thursday at the Lyric theatre, is excellent screen fare, and a new feather in the popular cowboy's hat.

A choice cast helps Gene in "Mexicali Rose." Two famed veterans, Noah Beery and William Farnum, head the supporting players. Luana Walters, a lovely new-comer, does well as the feminine interest.

OHIO

Lavishly mounted, superbly directed, and with Leslie Howard and the new acting "find," Wendy Hiller, offering two of the finest acting portrayals seen on the screen in some time, "Pygmalion," filmization of the Bernard Shaw comedy hit, opening at the Ohio theatre to provide audiences with entertainment brimming with laughter and human interest.

The story of "Pygmalion" revolves about Henry Higgins, a professor of phonetics, who on a bet takes Eliza Doolittle, a drab flower seller, out of the London slums and trains her in correct speaking, deportment and social graces with the intention of passing her off as a duchess at an ambassadorial reception. His experiment is a complete success. But now that Eliza is no longer a flower girl nor really a duchess, her problems have actually begun and it is in the outcome of these that the story reaches a surprising and unforgettable denouement.

STATE

Rome wasn't built in a day—but Mickey Rooney learned to play a clarinet in exactly two hours.

When he went into the cast of "Hold That Kiss" to play Maureen O'Sullivan's younger brother, he was handed a clarinet and told that he was supposed to be a boy clarinetist and lead a boys' orchestra for the new picture, which is showing at the State theatre until Thursday.

"I lead my own orchestra so I can do that all right," remarked Mickey, who plays trap drums, piano and other instruments.

"But you gotta give me time on this clarinet thing," he warned Director Edwin L. Marin. Marin thought he was joking.

Mickey went into a huddle with a clarinetist from the studio music department. First he learned how to finger the scale. This mastered, he learned how to "mix the scale." When he returned to the set he proudly played "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby" to the astounded director.

"Just learn the scale, then how to mix it up, and you've got any instrument from an organ to an ocarina licked," says Mickey.
