Fix It Yourself

MISCELLANEOUS

Glue size should not be used when new wallpaper is hung over old wallpaper. It should be used, however, when applying paper to a painted or unpainted wall.

Splits in the end of pieces of wood can be repaired by prying the crack open so that wood glue can be worked into it and then using a clamp to close up the crack and hold it closed until the glue is dry.

Bulbs in outdoor electric fixtures should be removed in the winter unless the fixture is used. To prevent moisture getting into the empty socket, screw in a burned out fuse. By the way, filling empty indoor sockets with burned out fuses is a good way to prevent small children sticking their fingers into the sockets and getting a shock.

A good fast finish for floors is one coat of shellac followed by one coat of varnish. It's not as durable as some other finishes but it speeds up the job considerably.

Did you know that most electric coffee makers have a small fuse that usually can be reached by removing the bottom plate from the appliance? When one of these coffee makers fails to heat, the chances are that this little fuse has blown.

Don't forget, after the leaves off your trees have fallen, to sweep them out of the roof gutters before the snow and ice come.
