Alec Templeton To Head New Half Hour Program

Tommy Briggs And Betty Lou To Have Blues Singer As Guest; Lightweight Bout On Air Monday Night

Alec Templeton, the witty improviser, parodist, mimic and musician, will headline a sparkling new half hour program, "Alec Templeton Time," to be heard weekly over WLW and WEAF beginning on Monday at 9:30 p. m. The youthful British-born pianist's newest program series also will feature a choral group under the direction of William Miller and a string orchestra led by Daniel Saidenberg.

Templeton also will play host to guest stars on the program. Donald Dickson, radio and operatic baritone, is to lead off the list of visitors by an appearance on the September 25 broadcast.

Templeton's educated piano will cavort thru the classics and cavil at popular songs when the pianist-composer launches his new weekly series.

Donald Dickson, operatic baritone and the new program's first guest sart, will sing "Largo al factotum," from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," and "Tommy Lad." Templeton will join the mixed chorus directed by William Miller and Daniel Saidenberg's orchestra in "Lamp Is Low" and "Man With the Mandolin."

With Lois Ravel, Baltimore-born blues singer set as guest vocalist, Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou will get into the newspaper business on the weekly Quaker Party Monday at 8:30 p. m., over WEAF. Betty Lou starts a daily and makes her own news when she fails to pick up legitimate stories. The news she makes, gets Mr. Tommy into trouble. Miss Ravel is making her first appearance on the air since an unfortunate illness which has kept her in the west for the past seventeen months. Sponsored by Rudy Vallee, she has been heard on both major networks and previous to her illness, appeared with Ken Murray in a series of smart supper club personal appearances. She'll sing "Over the Rainbow" on the Riggs show. Tommy and Betty will harmonize on "Monstro the Whale" and Freddie Rich will play "Go Fly A Kite." Riggs' vocal solo will be "Is It Possible?"

Billy Conn, world's lightweight champion, will risk his title against Melio Bettina, brawny belter from Beacon, N. Y., in a 15-round bout to be broadcast from Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, on Monday, at 10:00 p. m., over WJZ. In a previous encounter, Conn won the crown on decision. Sam Taub, veteran boxing announcer, will call the blows, and Jack Hollister, well known Pittsburgh sports announcer, will do the between-round commentaries, in the absence of Bill Stern, regular announcer, who is unavailable for the fight.

An adventure which occurred in the thick of a battle will be contrasted with one which took place in the hushed quiet of an operating room when Mrs. Tex O'Reilly and Dr. DeWitt G. Wilcox tell of their experiences while applying for membership in the Order of Adventurers on Monday. Proceedings of the meetings are broadcast over WJZ at 8:00 p. m.

Mrs. O'Reilly, whose soldier-of-fortune husband is already a member of the Order, will relate the details of her capture by revolutionists while in Mexico some years ago. Her captors planned to use her as a decoy to get their hands on Tex. But, by an ingenious ruse, Mrs. O'Reilly not only succeeded in warning her husband but in telling him just how he could rescue her.

Dr. Wilcox, who is a fellow of the Royal Society of England, will describe a thrilling and yet touching incident which happened to him when he was a medical student back in 1880.

Inspired by radio "button-tuning," Fred Waring will feature the Pennsylvanians' own "Button, Button" game each Monday night starting on Pleasure Time, heard five nights weekly from 7:00 to 7:15 p. m., over WEAF.

Margaret Speaks' soprano voice will be heard on the Voice of Firestone program of Monday, for the first time since she began her summer vacation five weeks ago. The prima donna will sing with the orchestra conducted by Alfred Wallenstein over WEAF at 8:30 p. m.

Miss Speaks' solos will include the Old Welsh "Al Thru the Night," "Olmstead's "All of My Heart," "Connais to le pays," from Thomas' "Mignon," and Carnevali's "Come Love With Me."

Poland will occupy the musical spotlight on Monday, when the Contented program pays a mythical visit to that country during its International Nights feature over WEAF at 10:00 p. m. Josef Pasternack will conduct the orchestra in Chopin's Polonaise in A Major, the Maburka from Leopold's "Polonia," and the same composer's "Kosciuazko Polonaise." Opal Craven will sing Stojowski's "Oy Lu Lu" and Earle Tanner, tenor, will be heard in "Sailem Proso Na Nagonie." Paderewski's "Pilgrim Song" will be played as a violin and cello duet, and the Continentals quartet will sing selections from Moniuszko's "Halka." The ensemble will conclude the program with "Boze Cos Polske."

A Brazilian samba, dance music as common in Brazil as swing music is in America, and a new song by Hoagy Carmichael, composer of the famous "Stardust," will be two of the outstanding musical features of the Monday "Tune-Up Time" program at 8 p. m. over WJZ. They will be played by Andre Kostelanetz and his 45-piece orchestra.

In response to many requests, master-of-ceremonies Tony Martin will solo in Cole Porter's well-known "Night and Day."

David Laughlin, "Tune-Up Time's" operatic tenor, will sing the favorite aria from "Pagliacci," "Vesti La Giubba," while Kay Thompson and her Rhythm Singers will present their special arrangement of the ballad, "Especially For You."

Tony Martin and the ensemble will sing a new song, "Go Fly a Kite," from Bing Crosby's current film musical "The Starmaker," and will salute the West Coast with "Home In Pasadena" and "California, Here I Come," as the Oct. 2 program will be broadcast from Hollywood.

Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, will return to the air in a new series of Monday thru Friday broadcasts over the NBC-Red Network at 5:30 p. m., beginning Monday. The program is based on the adventuers of a American boy. Charles Flynn son of Bess Flynn, Chicago radio actress and script writer, will play the title role.

While men are "politickin" on street corners, settling the war issues, the ladies are at home studying real facts about the European battleground aided by radio, newspapers and atlas, according to Lew (Doctor I. Q.) Valentine, who reports that his recent quiz broadcasts reveal women to be better informed on current events than men.

Dr. I. Q., heard each Monday at 9 p. m., over WEAF has been bearing down heavily on current trends. Valentine and his staff keep track of news developments to the moment the broadcast goes on the air, and when he pops a question it is based on a very recent event.

The males have one consolation. The gals have a lower batting average on mathematical queries. On the other hand, the men don't know A-B-C about spelling. There is comfort for both sides, however, in the fact that when the week's prizes are all awarded, about half the accolades have gone to the men, the other half to the ladies.

Legionnaires who find it impossible to attend the 21st National convention of the American Legion, scheduled to open Monday in Chicago, may keep up with events of the gathering over the air. The National Broadcasting Co. will cover the meeting from the opening until the newly selected national commander is elected and comes to the microphone to deliver the closing address on Thursday.

Seven network broadcasts are planned for the convention giving a composite view of the veteran's big yearly event, opening at 12:45 p. m. Monday, with a WEAF broadcast the report of Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander.

The most spectacular part of the convention, from the spectator's point of view, will be the 15-hour parade of the Legion, scheduled to start at the Michigan-av bridge in Chicago at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Among the entertainment features being prepared for Legionnaires is a headline program which war veterans and their wives will be able to see on the stage of the Auditorium theatre. Uncle Walter's Dog House, featuring Tom Wallace, himself a Legion man, will be similarly presented from the same theatre over WEAF at 10:30 p. m. on Tuesday.

PRISONER'S WORD DOUBTED

What's that, again?—Said Prisoner Stewart O. Jacobson to Jail Superintendent Matt Starwich (left) at Seattle: "Sure, I made it so I could jump rope for exercise." And he demonstrated, how, right on the spot. But Superintendent Starwich somehow doubted that the eight-foot rope found in Jacobson's cell had so innocent a purpose. It was made of blanket strips.

Comedy And Mystery Are Sharing Honors At Lyric

"Four Feathers" Continues At Ohio With "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" At State And Double Bill At Quilna

Comedy and mystery are sharing honors Monday at the Lyric theatre.

"Charlie Chan in Honolulu" keeps the famous detective, played by Sidney Toler, in his home town. Again Chan matches wits with a ruthless, wily murderer, but, in the end he is the victor. Assisting Toler are Claire Dodd and Phyllis Brooks.

"Freshman Year," featuring Frank Melton and Dixie Dunbar, is a story of a boy who flunks out of college. Special musical numbers are featured.

The year's greatest technicolor film, "Four Feathers," is continuing to draw crowds to the Ohio theatre. It is a story of a man who is branded a coward but who eventually makes an empire term him a hero. Ralph Richardson, C. Audrey Smith and June Duprez have the leading roles.

"Goodbye Mr. Chips" and "Tell No Tales" are showing at the State. Featured in the first picture, which is a story of a man who spends his life as instructor at an English college, are Robert Donat and Greer Garson.

Melvyn Douglas and Louise Platt have many thrilling experiences in the other film which is a story of thrills behind newspaper work.

Only three more days remain for the showing of "Coast Guard," and "A Woman is the Judge," at the Quilna theatre.

Thrilling shipwreck rescues are viewable in the first film while the other picture is a story of a jurist who resigns from the bench to defend her daughter who is accused of murder.

Players in the two pictures are Randolph Scott, Walter Connolly, Frances Dee, Ralph Bellamy, Frieda Inescort, and Rochelle Hudson.

How a great pianist and a waitress fall in love during a terrific hurricane is shown in "When Tomorrow Comes," current Sigma attraction. Idea for the picture was secured as a result of the New England hurricane which caused heavy property damage and loss of life last year.

Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne are starred.

At the Majestic are "The Great Waltz," with Louise Rainer, and "Rough Riders Round-up."

OHIO

The Fuzzy-Wuzzies, Kipling's "first-class fighting fellows," are presented in top form in Alexander Korda's all-color film of the Sudan, "Four Feathers," at the Ohio theatre. Directed by Zoltan Korda, "Four Feathers" depicts the dramatic story of Harry Faversham who redeems himself by a series of daredevil adventures during Kitchener's campaign in the Sudan, after his closest friends and the girl he is engaged to marry dub him a coward by sending him four white feathers.

As is well known, the Fuzzy-Wuzzies are wild, independent men, tall, beautifully proportioned and extremely brave. When several hundred of them were hired, thru proper official channels, to appear in "Four Feathers," they traveled by rail to the spot where the Korda brothers had established a huge location camp on the banks of the Nile. When they arrived at the nearest depot they refused to get out of their trains until they had finished the war song they were singing.

In the film, they fight with the Dervishes against the British and some of the men in the English Regiments did not relish the idea of being charged by a crowd of fighters as wild and mad as they looked. To overcome this fear, the zareba, a stockade of prickly brushwood, was reinforced and strengthened on the side of the British.

During the scene in which the Fuzzy-Wuzzies took part, it seemed that some of them had been slightly scorched by the wads fired from the blank cartridges. So one giant of a man, who decided to avenge the insult, threw a spear which drew blood. When the headman was consulted and told that filming was really play, he replied, "But the British troops are firing at us. Do they know it is play?"

QUILNA

A woman jurist, honored in her community for the fairness, courage and intelligence with which she metes out justice, is suddenly called upon to decide the fate of her own daughter, accused of murder!

That is the theme "A Woman Is the Judge," at the Quilna theatre's attraction, whose mounting suspense and thrilling climax are brilliant factors in a memorable film. Fine acting by Frieda Inescort, Otto Kruger and Rochelle Hudson, the featured players, add further drama to a sensational story.

Miss Inescort is seen as the woman judge whose career on the bench ends abruptly when, without apparent reason, she suddenly resigns in order to become defense attorney for a young underworld waif.

Behind this sudden action lies a human interest story of profound appeal which is given strong emotional and dramatic intensity by the acting of these three leading players and other members of the large cast.

As the young girl, schooled in crime but managing to keep alive in her hard and bitter heart a spark of idealism that ultimately reaches heroic proportions, Rochelle Hudson displays a versatility that proves anew her fitness as a dramatic actress.

Kruger, cast as the prosecuting attorney in love with the lovely Portia, gives another of his smooth and ingratiating performances.

Another reason for putting "A Woman Is the Judge" on your "must see" list is the portrayal of Judge Mary Cabot by Miss Inescort. Beautifully sustained, its dignity tempered with humanness and humor, the characterization is compelling in its bid for sympathy.

It took Warren Hymer a month to prepare for a scene which lasts less than a minute! Hymer, who portrays a Coast Guard mechanic in Columbia's "Coast Guard," which features Randolph Scott, Frances Dee, Ralph Bellamy and Walter Connolly at the Quilna theatre, makes his first appearance in the film while shaving a mustache from his upper lip. For the sake of realism, Director, Edward Ludwig suggested that Hymer grow a real mustache for the sequence, and the famous comedian did.
