Shirley Denies Any Romance

HOLLYWOOD. (AP) Shirley Temple is in love with Hawaii but apparently not with the pineapple heir who escorted her around the romantic islands.

She arrived last night by air from a seven-week vacation in Hawaii and immediately denied reports which linked her romantically with Charles Black, 31-year-old son of a pineapple company president.

"They (the reports) make me laugh," said she with dimples.

She added, however, that she would like to return to Hawaii.

"I'm really in love with the place."

She also disclosed that she had received a cablegrom from John Agar, her divorced husband.

"My feelings are still the same about him," she said without dimples.

He is one of the few musicians adept at playing the old, five-string banjo. 'End Play' Valuable Asset of Expert Card Players

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
Written for NEA Service

The end play is one of the most valuable assets of the expert card player, a fact well demonstrated in the recent championship tournaments held in New York. This series of championship events was restricted to the finest players in the world, so I know you can improve your bridge by learning some of the plays they used in those tournaments.

The world championship masters individual tournament for the Albert and Philip Steiner Trophy was won by Morrie Elis of New York for the second time. This year there were 56 players in the event, and after five sessions of grueling play, Elis came out on top, as he had done in 1940.

Elis employed a rather unusual end play to make his contract of four hearts on today's hand. Study the play of the cards carefully. Then when you meet a similar situation yourself, you will be able to win a top on the hand if you follow his line of play.

The opening lead of the king of diamonds was won in dummy with the ace. Elis (North) then took two rounds of trumps, which set up East's queen. A small club was led, won in dummy with the ace, and a club returned, West winning with the queen.

West returned a diamond which Elis trumped. A club was led and trumped in dummy with the eight of hearts. Next a diamond was led from dummy and trumped with the five of hearts.

Another club was then led, on which East discarded the queen of diamonds. Elis trumped in dummy with the ten of hearts and returned a diamond, trumping in his own hand with the seven of hearts.

East was helpless. If he trumped with the queen of hearts, all he could do was to win his ace of spades. But if he refused to trump (which he did) and discarded a spade, all Elis had to do was to lead a spade toward dummy's queen, and his contract was made.

Comic, Wife Rewed in Jewish Ritual

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 13. (AP) A retired rabbi remarried Bud Abbott, the comedian, and his wife, Jennie Mae, at a Jewish ceremony in a hotel here last night.

The Abbotts were married 32 years ago at Alexandria, Va., in a Christian ceremony. Mrs. Abbott, of Irish descent, several years ago said she wanted to join the Jewish faith, Abbott said.

Rev. Samuel Harris of Dayton performed the ceremony, which followed the marriage of two friends of the Abbotts. Miss Joan Rittoff of Springfield and Samuel Kahn of Dayton, president of the Gem City Building Co. in Dayton, were married earlier.
