Rochelle Hudson Hopes To Seek Hidden Treasure

Adventure In Jungle Lures Lovely Star

Actress And Mate Plan Trip By Plane Over Remote Yucatan

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23 —(UP) —In her official biography, as printed in the 1940 Motion Picture Almanac, Rochelle Hudson's hobby is listed as "collecting corsage ribbons."

That seems odd because she told us today she was champing at the bit to get away from movie acting the rest of the winter, so she can go to the Yucatan jungles and search for buried gold of the ancient Mayans.

Corsage ribbons, indeed.

When Miss Hudson married movie writer Hal Thompson a few months back and thereby caused newspaper reporters a lot of trouble, she didn't realize how soon she'd be forgetting ribbons.

Thompson used to be an aviator, flying out of Merida, Yucatan. From an Indian he purchased as a curiosity a fragment of a Mayan codex, showing a picture map of the Mexican-Guatamalan jungle—an area that still has not been explored by modern man—and indicating cities that were obliterated by creeping greenery centuries ago.

In particular Thompson's old map showed one place, marked with three plumes. That was the insignia for the king's palace and it indicated—providing nobody else had been there—where the fabulous treasure of the Mayan rulers might yet be.

He put the map in his trunk, came to Hollywood, started writing for the Walt Disney studios, fell in love with Miss Hudson, and married her.

Last month when they decided to take a trip to Mexico Thompson took his map along and they chartered a plane at Merida for a trip over the jungle area indicated by the old map.

"We flew over the jungle," his wife said, "and it was so solid it looked like green velvet."

"But the amazing thing," Thompson said, "was the fact that the old codex checked perfectly. That is, there were rivers where it indicated them, and hills where it said they would be. If that much checked, then perhaps the palace might there too."

Upon their return from Mexico, Miss Hudson started making movies again and Thompson began to plan his expedition to the south, with Indians to cut away jungle growths, and plenty of mules to carry away the gold.

Sonja Henie Starring In Quilna Film

There's a different Sonja Henie at the Quilna theatre, where her latest picture, "Everything Happens at Night," is showing. It's even a more remarkable Sonja Henie, if that were possible, for in addition to her amazing artistry and genius on skates and ice, the famous blonde star displays a new dramatic talent in a punch-packed story that makes her pops among the actresses of the screen.

With the support of two leading men, Ray Milland and Robert Cummings, Sonja gives us a picture that rates first in entertainment among any the season has thus far presented. Darryl F. Zanuck selected Irving Cummings to direct and his deft touches add to the enjoyment of this outstanding production.

Maurice Moscovich, Leonid Kinskey, Alan Dinehart and Fritz Feld are included in the cast. The screenplay by Art Arthur and Robert Harari has the breathtaking Swiss Alps as a locale, with Sonja navigating the slippery slopes on skis with the ease and grace of her performances on the ice. There's plenty of suspense, danger and adventure in the timely story, with hilarious comedy supplied by the rivalry between Ray and Bob for Sonja as well as for the biggest news scoop of the year. Both lads are reporters who encounter Sonja on the trail of a great story, and thru her they find it. The result is a great story for all fans.

Holiday Theme Predominant On Sunday, Monday Shows

Christmas Carols, Stories And Other Appropriate Music Promised; Shirley Temple To Make Radio Debut

In fullest expression of the spirit of the holidays, radio programs Sunday and Monday will abound with Christmas carols, stories anthems and instrumental music.

The story of the Nativity, told in Christmas carols and narration, will be presented as a special program over WLW on Christmas eve, from 2:30 to 3 p. m. The program will feature carols and hymns, including "While Shepherds Watched Their Fields By Night," "Adeste Fideles," "We Three Kings" and "O Little Star of Bethlehem," and "Joy to the World."

William Stoess will enter the holiday broadcast scene on Christmas eve, when he directs the annual presentation of "King Nutcracker," a fantasy based on Tschaikowsky's "Nuncracker Suite." The program, timed especially for children who are gathered around the Christmas tree at home, is scheduled from 10:30 to 11 p. m.

Other Christmas highlights over WLW, in addition to its network presentations, include the midnight mass from St. Monica's Cathedral, Cincinnati, and a drama, "The Gift of the Little Shepherd," to be heard Christmas day, Dec. 25, at 12:45 p. m. The midnight mass will be preceded by hymns starting at 11:45 p. m., Christmas eve.

Shirley Temple, radio's littlest hold-out, will make her formal radio debut in company with Nelson Eddy and her mother, Mrs. George Temple, Christmas eve on the "Screen Guild Theatre" over WABC, Sunday, at 7:30 p. m. Roger Pryor will introduce the distinguished guests.

As the highlight of the half-hour broadcast, Shirley and Eddy will present as their special "gift" to the radio audience a Yuletide duet, singing "Silent Night."

Miss Temple will sing a medley of songs from "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and also "Good Ship Lollypop," "Oh, My Goodness," "Animal Crackers In My Soup," "Goodnight My Love" and "When I'm With You."

"The Man Named Christmas", an original play based on the character of a kindly and mellow old gentleman who personifies the spirit of the day, will be presented Sunday, at 2:00 p. m., over WJZ. The drama describes the visit of a disillusioned man to the home of Mr. Christmas, who leads his caller thru a house haunted with memories, in which the visitor finds his beliefs restored.

Charlie McCarthy's wooden heart is all aflutter since he's learned 12-year-old Gloria Jean, the new Deanna Durbin, is going to drop in on him Christmas Eve for a celebration. Vera Vague, comedienne, will be there, too, with the regular cast of Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen,, Donald Dickson, Dorothy Lamour, and Robert Armbruster's orchestra for the broadcast over WEAF at 8:00 p. m.

Jack Benny, will play host to his merry gang at a festive Christmas eve party during the Sunday, broadcast at 7:00 p. m., over WEAF. Benny has gifts wrapped and ready for Mary Livingstone, Phil Harris, Dennis Day and Don Wilson but Rochester's disparaging remarks about Jack's Christmas tree resembling an old hall-tree gone to seed may keep his stocking empty.

Conrad Nagel will turn in his director's stopwatch on an actor's script when he co-stars with Margaret Lindsay in Silver Theatre's Christmas eve presentation, "Magic of the Mistletoe," during the broadcast over WABC Sunday, at 6:00 p. m.

Christmas morning services in the Zion Church, of Baltimore, Md., will be heard over WEAF from 7:00 to 7:30 a. m.

Music from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" Suite in narrative form, with a background of music conducted by Frank Black, will be heard in the "Nutcracker Ballet" over WJZ on Christmas Day, from 2:00 to 3:00 p. m.

Handel's famous "Messiah" will be heard over WJZ on Sunday, from 3:00 to 4:00 p. m from the Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The first of a group of six programs to be conducted by the U. S. Office of Education on social security will be broadcast over CBS stations at 2:30 p. m. EST on Sunday. This group of programs is being presented as part of a series entitled "Democracy In Action" which has been a regular Sunday afternoon feature for the past year.

Night Life Footnotes

BLUE CIRCLE—Nifty Noel nip-ups are featured here by the small (but handsome!) young fry who dance to Duncan Williams' band. Get your Christmast funstering in early because the Circle will be closed Monday.

HUDSON—Extra special jingle bells activity in the culinary department. S. Claus (Jimmy) Collison will be in grog dispensing chimney corner as per usual.

STONE'S GRILL—In true Yule spirit, the barboys here are making great play of the bottled bubbling goods. Also they have a goodly supply of other Christmas spirits.

BARR RAINBOW ROOM—Xmas carols and college chants ring to the rafters here what with this being headquarters of the university crowd. Strictly high times at all hours.

NEW YORK RESTAURANT — The Santy behind the euphemeral whiskers is a new mixer-upper, one Ernie Applegate by name. He is a super-stirrer with lots of swish and swizzle.

AVALON CAFE—Merry Christmas, etc., etc., and etc.

BLINKING OWL—Local boy from way down south by Wapakoneta, i. e., Kerm Zint, is the overheated stuff with the fish horn hereabouts. He, along with Ray Snyder, big drum thumper, make fine business in the band

WALDO GRILL—Harry Fields forthwith extends a personal seasons greeting and hopes to see all his dancing "daughters and sons" soon.

DOC AND DOT'S—This'n'll be closed come Monday, but until then the Yuletide fun goes on unabated. Come in and quaff a few, says "Doc," the old medicine man for the blues.

CASTLE PARMS—Positively last chance to witness that great extravaganza, the winter Follies. Helen Kaylif, she of high visibility, is featured.

DICK'S PLACE—Come out and see how the briars put on a good old fashioned Christmas show, a la Kaintucky. Clyde Dixon officiates as glad-hander supreme.

DE VER'S—Double feature featured. Stub William compares notes, musically speaking, with Al Bidwell and bandsmen Sunday and Monday. Lil Eastman does the vocals.

ROXY GRILL—Don't be confused by the team of Tom and Evans when the real issue is Tom and Gerald—whoops, sorry, mean Tom and Jerry.

LOST CREEK—Not only can a bang-up Christmas repast be devoured here. On the side is provision for dancing.

ALPINE VILLAGE—We don't mean for you to hold up attendance until then, but Friday is table night. If you know what I mean. Incidentally here's how—for a Merry Christmas.

HELEN'S PLACE—The boys and girls put on much heel-and-toe work since square dancing is encouraged.

COURT CAFE—Some Christmas fun. There's a new booth been installed, you know, one of those cozy corner devices.

MILANO CAFE—Here one finds the Michaelmas cheer abounding in gigantic quantities. In fact, I've asked Santy to bring me one of those famous Milano steaks.

"Four Wives" Flashing On Ohio's Screen

"Four Wives," the "by request" sequel to last year's best loved hit, "Four Daughters," is showing now at the Ohio theatre.

The original cast of "Four Daughters" is back again—Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola Lane, Gale Page, Jeffrey Lynn, Claude Rains, May Robson, and all the others, with the notable addition of Eddie ("Brother Rat") Albert.

A girl, a man and a vision comprise what is probably the screen's strangest romantic trangle.

The girl is Priscilla Lane. The man is Jeffrey Lynn. And the vision is that of John Garfield. "Four Wives," Warner Bros.' sequel to "Four Daughters," is the picture.

"Four Daughters" ended with the way apparently smoothed for Lynn and Priscilla to be married and live happily ever afterward. Garfield, Priscilla's first husband in a marriage that proved an unhappy mistake, got himself killed in a traffic crash.

But in "Four Wives," Priscilla is haunted by her memories of Garfield. She is obsessed by the fact that he was a failure and blames herself because a promising career was cut short. She can't rid herself of visions of Garfield as he sat at the piano and played for her one of his own compositions—a melody that had no beginning or end, just a middle.

Thus Garfield's memory is the "menace" of the story. It is perhaps the first time in film history that a vision has been the "other man" in a romantic triangle.

LEGIONNAIRES TAKE TOYS TO NEEDY KIDDIES

(Lima News Bureau)

DELPHOS, Dec. 23—After several weeks work repairing and painting toys, members of Commemorative post, American Legion, Saturday distributed the toys among children of indigent families. It is an annual custom of the Legionnaires, who make every effort to see that no underprivileged boys or girls lack a plaything which is brought to them by Santa Claus each Christmas.

During the weeks preceding Christmas, disused toys are collected, repaired and reconditioned by the veterans and with bright paint the playthings are equal to any new ones.

LODGE MEETS TUESDAY

DELPHOS, Dec. 23—Crescent Temple, Pythian Sisters, will meet Tuesday evening in Castle hall. Various items of business are scheduled to be attended to for the close of the year. Installation of officers will be held in January.

Famous Movie Star Due On Lyric Stage

Smiley "Frog" Burnette, Hollywood's musical wizard and beloved by millions as the jovial "Frog Millhouse" of Gene Autry's famous westerns, will appear in person at the Lyric next Tuesday.

The favorite of young and old alike, the genial, rotund comedy star is bringing his own company of cowboy entertainers direct from Hollywood. He will present a lavish program of music and comedy. Smiley will be heard with his ever-familiar accordion, and in addition his troupe will feature such amplified instruments as the electric guitar, vibrola, and bass viol.

Smiley's current personal appearance tour is his third triumphant one since the first of the year. Before starting on his present tour, the comedian completed a new western with Gene Autry entitled "South of the Border."

His present tour will take him on a circuit of a dozen eastern states, after which he will return to Hollywood to begin another picture. Because of an increasing demand to see him in person, Smiley has been devoting all of his time when not busy on a picture to making stage appearances. He is unquestionably one of Hollywood's busiest stars. Since the first of the year he has covered more than 35 states and played to audiences from California to Florida.

Book Reviews

Books Reviewed Here May Be Obtained At The Lima Public Library, Main Library

By MARY LATHROP
Lima Public Library Staff

The Revolution of Nihilism. By Herman Rauschning. Alliance Book Corporation. $3.00.

Rauschning was at one time a member of the Nazi party and president of the Danzig senate. Because he opposed some of Hitler's orders he was forced to resign and later became an exile. His book contains his analysis of Hitler regime, particularly of its foreign policies. He writes of the origin and development of the Nazi party and the plans of Hitler. It is Rauschning's belief that the National Socialist movement is Nihilistic, that it is destructive, and that its claim to self determination for Germany is only a blind to cover up its plan to dominate the world. Rauschning tells of a conversation in which Hitler outlined his scheme for annexing half of Europe.

All the Tomorrows. By Naomie Love Babson. Reynal and Hitchcock. $2.00.

An interesting novel is this one which contrasts old China with the new. The contrast is shown by means of one rebellious woman in each generation of the Lo family. Thru which caused the old Chinese families to be swept off their moorings by a great social upheaval that overwhelmed a nation. Behind the family is shown the whole life of China, war lords, beggars, merchants, coolies, gamblers, bandits, and patriots. It is an engrossing story and one which explains many things about China and gives one an understanding of such figures as Madame Chiang Kai-Shak.

Birchland. By Joran Birkeland. E. P. Dutton and Co. $2.50.

Last year the author, an American woman, made a visit to Norway, the land of her fathers. In writing of her journey she tells of her discovery of hitherto unknown uncles, aunts and cousins. She also includes some observations on economics and social conditions. Her journey was unpretentious but she has been able to convey to her readers the reticences and genuine goodness of the middle-class Norwegian people, the effect upon them of their stern and majestic natural environment, their simple ways of living and their habits of thot. The author is known for her translation of the books of Gosta of Geijerstams; her own writing is admirable and has a poetic quality.

Maid of Sark. By Sibyl Hathaway. D. Appleton-Century Co. $2.50.

Not many people know that in the English channel there is an island one half mile wide, and two miles long with about five hundred inhabitants which is the only feudal state left in the world. It is governed by laws 400 years old, and pays each year its feudal taxes to the king of England. Mrs. Hathaway, who by direct descent is the present ruler of the island, has written the romantic story of its early history. In 1565 it was attacked by Breton ruffians and was saved only by the courage and daring of a maid of Sark. It is a charming story of a beautiful and unique corner of the world.

Enjoy Living. Robert Haven Schauffler. Dodd, Mead and Co. $3.50.

A book of psychological, physical and recreational hints on how the fairly normal, average adult can live a happy, contented life. Schauffler insists that in this search for happiness the surest method is not to strive for things beyond one's reach. He offers some definitely good advice that will direct you toward a painless self-discipline. The emphasis in the book is on the individual, and within that scope it is suggestive and helpful.

NEW HEARING IS SOUGHT IN JUDGMENT CASE

(Lima News Bureau)

FINDLAY, Dec. 23—Charging he never knew the trial was held, a petition for a new hearing of a case before the petit jury here last April has been filed by R. J. Junk of North Baltimore. He says that since he did not know of the trial, he did not appear in his own defense.

Defendant in the action is William Lahman, of Van Buren, to whom a jury on May 22, 1939, awarded a judgment fo $560 damages from Junk as a result of an automobile accident in which the autos of both parties were damaged.

The North Baltimore man informs the court that Lahman is now "seeking to enforce such judgment by execution" and he maintains that the judgment was wrong and not in accord with the facts. He says he was unable to file a motion for a new trial during the April term of court for the reason that he was endeavoring to effect a compromise settlement of the judgment.
