Paulette Goddard Scheduled On Air Show With Bob Hope

Lovely Star To Be Heard At 10 P. M. Tuesday; Henry Aldrich Gets All Mixed Up In Romantic Adventures

Paulette Goddard, currently appearing on the screen with Bob Hope in the mystery comedy, "The Cat and the Canary," will make an air appearance with the comedian during his broadcast Tuesday at 10:00 p. m. over WEAF.

The lovely actress, who hails from Great Neck, L. I., will be the second guest star to be featured on the series. The first was Madeleine Carroll. Judy Garland, Jerry Colonna and Skinnay Ennis' orchestra will help maintain order.

Henry Aldrich, not even giving Leap Year a chance to get in its traditional work, gets the love bug and ends up engaged to marry enough girls to start a harem during the "Aldrich Family" broadcast, starring Ezra Stone, over WEAF, Tuesday at 8:00 p. m.

"Scatterbrain," top hit song this week, will be featured by Johnny Green and his orchestra on the "Johnny Presents" program over WEAF Tuesday at 8 p. m. Other numbers are "Way Back in 1939. A. D.," "At the Balalaika," "The Song Is You" and "Fine and Dandy." Featured vocalists are Genevieve Rowe and the Swing Fourteen. The dramatization will be another "Undercover Squad" story by Max Marcin, directed by Jack Johnstone. Johnny the Call Boy acts as master of ceremonies.

"The Life of Sam Houston," Pulitzer prize winning biography by Marquis James, with Walter Huston in the lead, will be presented as the second chapter of Cavalcade of America, Tuesday at 9:00 p. m., over WJZ.

Huston will be heard as Sam Houston, one of the most colorful figures in American history. It was his dream of "empire" and indomitable will that led a handful of settlers to revolt against Mexican tyranny and win their independence.

One $10,000 estate and an unclaimed legacy of $13,000 will be highlights of the Court of Missing Heirs broadcast Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over WABC. The $10,000 legacy was left by the widow of an army officer, whom she married after he rescued her from highwaymen in the middlewest. The second unclaimed legacy was left by an Irishman who died in a fire in Chicago back in 1924.

Wistful Vista will be the setting for the Fibber-McGee and Molly program Tuesday, 9:30 p. m. when Jimmy Shields sings "All the Things You Are," and Billy Mills plays "Fascinating Rhythm" over WEAF.

Edna Ferber, outstanding American novelist whose literary contributions include "Show Boat," "Cimarron," "Dinner at Eight," "Stage Door" and the recent autobiography, "A Peculiar Treasure," will join the board of experts over WJZ Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. With Miss Ferber will be Oscar Levant, Franklin P. Adams and John Kieran in meeting the flow of questions by Clifton Fadiman.

A team of male household servants will match wits against a team of feminine domestics on the Battle of the Sexes program Tuesday, at 9 p. m., over WEAF on the eve before the annual Butler's Ball to be held Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Traffic, the stuff you get into with an automobile, will be the background for a dramatization during Uncle Walter's Doghouse Tuesday at 10:30 p. m. over WEAF. Bob Strong and his orchestra will do something about "La Cucaracha," "My Johann," "Oh Johnny" and a medley of Georgia Tech, Gonzaga and Loyola university tunes. Virginia Verrill will turn back the clock with "Many Dreams Ago."

Revolving around the mad scramble of "Steve Wilson" and his society editor, "Lorelei," to save the life of a boy, a basketball hero crippled for life as the result of an automobile accident, Edward G. Robinson's "Big Town" broadcast of Tuesday at 8 p. m. over WABC dramatically portrays the evils of reckless driving. Robinson will be heard in his regular role of "Steve Wilson," with Ona Munson as "Lorelei."

VIGOROUS CLAM DIGGER WILL WORK FOR TOWN

UKIAH, Cal., Jan. 9— (UP) — Judge H. D. Bowen reasoned that if a man has so much energy as to cause him to dig out more clams than the law allows, this excessive energy should be applied practically.

Instead therefore of sentencing Free Gee, the vigorous clam digger, to 10 unproductive days in jail, he sentenced him to clean the city streets every Thursday for 10 consecutive weeks.

Two Entertaining Pictures Found In State's Dual Bill

"Thunder Afloat" Stars Wallace Beery And Chester Morris And Irene Rich And Eugene O'Neill In "Everybody's Hobby"

An epical story of courage at sea, adding a seldom-told chapter to the history of the United States Navy Reserve, "Thunder Afloat" presents Wallace Beery on the State theatre screen, with Chester Morris and Virginia Grey in featured roles. Also at the State is "Everybody's Hobby," starring Irene Rich and Eugene O'Neill.

The Sigma presents "The Cat and The Canary" with Bob Hope starred as a wise-cracking radio comedian in an outstanding comedy-mystery. Paulette Goddard is cast in the feminine lead while John Beal, Douglass Montgomery and Gale Sondergaard handle featured roles in this weird film mixing laughs and chills in every scene.

Boris Karloff plays a scientist who is able to conquer death in "The Man They Could Not Hang," now at the Quilna, with Lorna Day, Robert Wilcox and Roger Pryor also featured in an intriguing depiction of a humanitarian turned madman. Also at the Quilna is "Miracle on Main Street," starring Margo, Walter Abel and Lyle Talbot.

The screen family of the Hardys are presented at the Ohio theatre in "Judge Hardy and Son," the latest of the popular Carvel family's adventures. With Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden, "The Hardy Family," the picture also features Ann Rutherford, Marie Ouspenskaya and Henry Hull in the most dramatic and realistic of the Hardy adventures.

Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche are teamed together to head the star-studded cast of the Lyric theatre booking "Midnight." The story of an American girl's adventures in Paris, the film also features Francis Lederer, John Barrymore, Mary Astor and Elaine Barrie. QUILNA

Can science find a way to foil the "man with the scythe"? Can a dead person be restored to life?

These startling questions are the subject of the sensational shocker, "The Man They Could Not Hang," at the Quilna theatre. Starring Boris Karloff, king of horror, the film bases its story on the possibility of substituting a mechanical heart for the human organ. The utilizing of the theory of revitalization by means of an artificial heart accompanies the rapid strides in that field made by the famous scientist, Alexis Carrel and Col. Charles A. Lindberg.

Karloff's role, that of a humanitarian scientist, is said to be all the more horrible because of its Jekyll-Hyde quality. When he originally discovers that he can restore life by means of the mechanical heart, he wishes to use his invention only for the betterment of mankind. But when society unjustly turns on him and convicts him of murder, Karloff forgets his humanitarianism and becomes a maniacal killer.

First paying his debt by allowing himself to be executed and then returning to life by means of his own invention, the scientist's abrupt about-face is as fear-inspiring as the ghostly sequences of his revitalization. For Karloff the killer searches out every man who contributed to his conviction and takes his vengeance.

Caught up in the swirl of events in the scientist's daughter and her lover, a young newspaperman, roles portrayed by Lorna Gary and Robert Wilcox respectively. The district attorney who obtained Karloff's conviction is played by Roger Pryor, returning to the screen after an extended absence.

Director Nick Grindle, well-known in Hollywood for his scientific researches, was assigned to "The Man They Could Not Hang" in order to ensure its technical accuracy. Others in the cast include Ann Doran, Byron Foulger, Stanley Brown and Don Beddoe.

"Miracle on Main Street," now starring Margo at the Quilna theatre, boasts a cast well-sprinkled with leading film personalities. Walter Abel plays opposite Margo and William Collier, Sr., Lyle Talbot and Wynne Gibson are also featured. Jane Darwell, Veda Ann Borg and Willie Best have important roles too!

OHIO

A screen characterization can bring into existence a new type of screen fan. This is the experience of Lewis Stone, the Judge of the Hardy Family pictures, latest of which, "Judge Hardy and Son," current at the Ohio theatre.

Stone points to his own experiences since donning the mantle of the Judge, but more particularly to that of Fay Holden, playing the mother of the famous screen family.

"She has created a new fan who writes for recipes, data on household problems, advice on how to manage youngsters, how to hold a husband, how to balance a budget and how to make clothes," says Stone. "In fact, the character she has been playing in the pictures has made her the criterion of American wifehood and motherhood."

In the new Hardy picture Stone grapples with the problem of a foreclosure on the home of an aged couple, enlisting the aid of Mickey Rooney, as Andy Hardy, to do some detective work to locate a mysterious relative in the case. This throws Mickey into contact with three pretty girls and hurls him into much trouble with girl friend Polly Benedict, played by Ann Rutherford. But it is also Mickey who gives his father new courage when illness threatens the life of his mother in the story, and who braves a flood to bring Cecilia Parker to the mother's bedside.

"It at least teaches youngsters that brothers and sisters can really love each other even if they do fight like wildcats most of the time," suggests Stone with a humorous glint in his eye.

George Seitz, who piloted all the Hardy pictures but one, directed the story, based on the beloved characters created by Aurania Rouverol. Besides the "family," including Sara Haden as Aunt Milly, the cast includes Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya, who recently scored in "The Rains Came," Henry Hull, June Preisser, Martha O'Driscoll, Leona Maricle, Margaret Early, Egon Brecher, Edna Holland, George Breakston and Marie Blake.

SIGMA

In the matter of transforming a great mystery play to the screen —the play in question being John Willard's famous "The Cat and the Canary" — producers made every effort to make it the greatest comedy-mystery of the year.

The picture at the Sigma theatre, none other than Bob Hope, leading screen, radio and stage comedian, will be seen in one of the starring roles, and lovely Paulette Goddard will be playing the starring role opposite him. With Bob in the cast, there had to be plenty of gags, and according to all reports, Bob is at his gagging best in this one. As for a foil for his gags, could there be a lovelier one than Paulette Goddard? But to get down to the story. It tells, briefly, how seven people come to a lonely mansion in the Louisiana bayous to hear the will of a man who died 10 years before, how one—Paulette Goddard—is named heiress, and how before the picture reaches its startling climax, she is driven half-mad by "The Cat," a murderous, hairy creature who reaches out of panels in the wall, murders one of the company, and terrorizes even wise-cracking Bob. In the supporting cast are such favorites as John Beal, Douglass Montgomery, Gale Sondergaard, Elizabeth Patterson and George Zucco. Elliott Nugent directed.

Commencing Wednesday at the Sigma is "Three Sons" and "Marshal of Mesa City."
