Ida Lupino, Frank McHugh To Be Guests On Crosby Show

Famous Pianist, Dalies Frantz, Will Also Be Heard; Stirring Stories Set For Strange As It Seems Hour

For the edification and amusement of his Thursday night listeners, Bing Crosby presents Ida Lupino, cinema star; Frank McHugh, movie comedian; and the prominent concert pianist, Dalies Frantz as his guests this week.

Bob Burns will occupy his usual place in the jester's corner for the broadcast over the WEAF at 10 p. m. which will also feature the Music Maids and John Scott Trotter's orchestra.

Ida Lupino comes up for a Crosby interlude fresh from her triumph in a trying role opposite Ronald Colman in "The Light That Failed." Daughter of a famous English clown, Miss Lupino will prove she possesses a rare sense of humor in her own right.

Edward Arnold will have a lot to answer for when he addresses the microphone for the Good News of 1940 show Thursday, at 9 p. m., over WEAF. The genial master-of-ceremonies recently completed an autobiography of his 43 years in show business entitled "Lorenzo Goes to Hollywood" — and by the time of the broadcast a lot of readers should have some interesting queries with which to plague "Lorenzo." The program also will include Fanny (Baby Snooks) Brice and Hanley (Daddy) Stafford, Connie Boswell and the music of Meredith Willson's orchestra.

A crack express train-roaring thru the Minnesota fog, its hundreds of sleeping passengers ignorant of a washed out bridge and the sudden death that lay ahead, was miraculously saved by the warnings of a mysterious "Black Angel in the Fog." The strange fate of the train will be dramatized on the Strange As It Seems program, Thursday, at 8:30 p. m., over WABC.

Alois Havrilla, master-of-ceremonies, will also relate the grim legend of one of America's strangest tombstones, which rests on the grave of Jonathan Buck, in Bucksport, Me. Buck drew a curse on himself by sentencing an innocent man to be hanged for the murder of a woman whose corpse had been found minus one leg. Before the falsely accused man died, he warned that the leg would eventually appear on Buck's own tombstone. That was early in the 17th century, but even today visitors to Bucksport can see the ineffaceable outline of a female leg over his grave!

Walter Gieseking, prominent concert pianist, will appear with the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra during the Thursday concert to be broadcast from 9 to 9:30 p. m., over WJZ. Jose Iturbi, also noted as a concert pianist, will direct.

Joe Penner, expecting to start the year off with a clean slate, finds himself crowding the eight ball when he takes stock of the gala New Year's celebration held at his inn, during the Thursday broadcast of the Tip Top Show of 1940 at 8:30 p. m. over WJZ. Penner gets some consolation from the tunes of Kenny Stevens, tenor, and Jacques Renard's orchestra.

A fetish for females — and a riddle to men — the subject of women's hats will constitute the chief quiz source for Jim Williams on the Ask-It Basket, presented Thursday at 8.00 p. m. over WABC. The studio audience also will join genial Jim and the contestants in another hilarious, unpredictable "anything can happen basket."

A singing comedienne, a stuttering comedian, and eminent musicologist and — "an uncle from Brooklyn," comprise the assortment of guest stars to appear with George Jessel during the "Celebrity" program Thursday at 8:00 p. m. over WEAF.

The roster includes Ethel Merman, currently featured in the Broadway hit, "Du Barry Was a Lady"; Deems Taylor, noted composer, critic and commentator; Roy Atwell, of the lolloping larynx, and, of course, Jessel's "uncle." The melodic Merry Macs and Peter Van Steeden's orchestra will provide the musical backdrop.

A vicious marriage racket will be exposed by Britt Reid, daring young publisher, during the "Green Hornet" episode, Thursday at 8:00 p. m. over WJZ. Reid assumes the guise of the wrathful Hornet when he learns of an elderly woman who collapsed on the street while searching for a man she has never seen. Following the Jan. 18 program the "Green Hornet" will be heard on Mondays and Wednesdays at 9:00 p. m. over WJZ.

Laugh Provoking Pictures Open At Quilna Friday

"Pack Up Your Troubles" And "The Honeymoon Is Over" Set At Preview; Favorites In Leads

With comedy the keynote of the program, the Quilna theatre will preview two hilarious films Friday evening with the final showings of "Daytime Wife," current film starring Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell. The new films are "Pack Up Your Troubles" starring Jane Withers and the Ritz Brothers, and "The Honeymoon's Over" featuring Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver.

"Brother Rat and a Baby" is the Ohio theatre offering with Priscilla Lane, Jane Bryan, Jane Wyman, Wayne Morris, Eddie Albert, and Ronald Reagan, stars of "Brother Rat," reassembled for a hypothetical look at the former cadets of V. M. I. one year after graduation. The new addition is the infant sensation Peter B. Good. Showing Friday at the Ohio theatre is "Nick Carter, Detective."

Based on the brief but spectacular outburst of independence which later led to the Revolution of 1776, "Allegheny Uprising" starring Clair Trevor and John Wayne, is offered at the Sigma theatre. Also at the Sigma is "Private Detective."

Ret-hot Artie Shaw is featured in the State picture "Dancing Co-Ed" with Lana Turner and Richard Carlson cast in romantic leads. The lovely Miss Turner is a professional "plant" placed in college to win a dancing contest while Carlson, as editor of the college paper, blandly proves that the contest is legitimate and has no "plants." Also at the State is "Panama Lady."

Bing Crosby is starred in the Lyric feature "The Star Maker" in a story based on the life of Gus Edwards. With the popular crooner is Louise Campbell, Ned Sparks, and a new juvenile voice — Linda Ware. Also at the Lyric is a sage brush drama, "The Mesquite Buckaroo" starring Bob Steel.

OHIO

Heading the cast of "Brother Rat and a Baby," the comedy at the Ohio theatre, are Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Jane Bryan, Eddie Albert, Jane Wyman, Ronald Reagan, and 14-months old Peter B. Good who plays the "Baby" part of the title. Also featured in the cast are Arthur Treacher, Moroni Olsen, Jessie Busley, Larry Williams and many others.

The new film is a sequel to the recent comedy success "Brother Rat," with these same stars. Based on a story by John Monks, Jr., and Fred F. Finklehoffe, and directed by Ray Enright, it deals with the post-graduation adventures of the Brothers Rat.

Priscilla Lane, is wondering if she is starting on her way toward an early second childhood.

In her last two pictures, "Four Wives," and "The Roaring Twenties," she played a mother. In her newest film, "Brother Rat and a Baby," opening at the Ohio theatre, she's a giddy school girl making her first visit to New York.

Miss Lane doesn't mind, however. She's really only 22, and after almost a year of pretty strong dramatic fare, she's glad to be back in comedy for a change.

"When I was making 'Four Wives,'" the little Warner Bros. star said, "there were times when I thought I'd never want to do another crying scene. I had wept my way thru most of 'Dust Be My Destiny,' and thru part of 'Daughters Courageous,' and was getting pretty tired of having my emotions harrowed.

"The 'Roaring Twenties,' with Jimmy Cagney, gave me a welcome change of pace in the early sequences, but I had to get pretty emotional toward the end. I was fairly spoiling for comedy when I finished those last two pictures. And I certainly got it in this one. There isn't a serious moment in it from beginning to end, and for a change it's lots of fun. You can just cut loose and have a good time."

Miss Lane said she hadn't yet made up her mind whether or not she preferred drama or comedy.

"I'd like to alternate between the two," she said, "but if I had to make a definite choice I honestly don't know what it would be. So as long as the weekly check keeps coming, I'll take what the studio gives me."

SIGMA

The heroic story of an intrepid band of frontiersmen who struggled valiantly against the onslaughts of treacherous Indian tribes, is contained in the Sigma's spectacular epic, "Allegheny Uprising," starring Claire Trevor and John Wayne. The story has to do with the revolt of Pennsylvania colonists against His Majesty's Army—a vital event in American history that prefaced the Revolution.

The bone of contention was the activities of unprincipled traders in providing Indians with liquor and munitions which resulted in sanguine massacres against the settlers. The frontiersmen appealed to the British army official in charge of Fort Loudon to halt the traders in their illegal practices, but the arrogant officer ignored the pleas. The result was that the colonists attacked the traders, and when the British army tried to intervene, waged war against the Crown. A memorable chapter in Americana, the episode comes to the screen with all the color, thrills and drama that marked the actual events.

John Wayne is cast as James Smith, leader of the "rebels" while Claire Trevor is seen as a fiery lass whose love for the chieftain causes her to share with him the dangers of the insurrection. Other noted players in the cast are George Sanders, Brian Donlevy, Wilfrid Lawson, Robert Barrat, John F. Hamilton, Moroni Olsen and Eddie Quillan.

William Seiter directed "Allegheny Uprising" which was adapted to the screen from Neil Swanson's widely read novel, "The First Rebel."

QUILNA

The difficulties of film debut-ing encountered by Linda Darnell, star of the Quilna theatre attraction "Daytime Wife," were similar to those encountered by Tyrone Power, her leading man in the film. Also, just as Power was aided by a friendly veteran, she in turn was greatly aided by the handsome Power.

The Dallas Cinderella—daughter of a postal clerk — was first brought to Hollywood for a screen test two years ago. On this occasion she was sent home moist-eyed with the explanation that she was too young and the recommendation that she take up her amateur theatrical work again and send the studio new photographs from time to time.

Unknown to Linda, the studio planted a talent scout in the audience of the little theatre where she appeared. When he reported that she looked ready for a screen career, the astonished girl received a wire from Hollywood asking her to come at once!

She arrived in the cinema colony, still breathless, and a week later she was at work in the leading role of "Hotel For Women."

Overnight stardom was the prize which production chief Darryl F. Zanuck awarded her for having turned in a performance that won rave notices in this role.

When Tyrone was notified that he was to be tested for the leading role in "Lloyds of London," he was a mere stock player at that studio. He knew it was the chance of his lifetime. He worried about it constantly and began to feel that he'd never be able to make the grade. Then one day on the lot he ran into his good friend Alice Faye, who was already a star. Realizing his nervousness, Alice did a handsome thing. She offered to make the test with him on her own time. He accepted—and the rest is history. The test won him the role and his work in the film rocketed him to stardom over night. He quickly assumed the position of the screen's leading romantic star and, in a recent national poll, won the coveted crown of "King of the Movies."

"Daytime Wife" will be shown for the last time at the Friday preview which will present two new hits "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "The Honeymoon's Over."
