President Will Be Heard From White House During Program; Famous Bands Will Be Heard

President Roosevelt will acknowledge the nation's salute to his 58th birthday with pickups from birthday celebrations in key cities from coast-to-coast, during a special program, Tuesday over combined networks of the National Broadcasting Co.

The programs also will be carried by the Columbia and Mutual Broadcasting Systems.

The chief executive, introduced by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will speak from the White House during the annual program, from 11:15 p. m. to 12:15 a. m., which marks the close of the Infantile paralysis fund-raising campaign.

Highlights of celebrations being held in every state of the union will be described during the full-hour broadcast, and such famous dance bands as Isham Jones, from the Boston Garden; Al Donahue from the Waldorf-Astoria, New York; Kay Kyser from the Mayflower Hotel, Washington; Pinky Tomlin from the Drake Hotel, Chicago, and Bonnie Spencer from Oklahoma City, will be heard by radio listeners.

The songs forming the medley are "Girls, Girls, Girls," "Maxines," and the "Merry Widow Waltz." Johnny Green will play a piano solo, "To You Sweetheart, Aloha," and Glenn Cross, baritone, will sing a solo in a presentation of "Indian Summer" with the Diminuettes, a vocal group. The Swing Fourteen will sing "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me" and the orchestra will play "You're Letting Grass Grow."

"Mr. Stokes Gets Stucco," grim story of a housing problem that arose when Mrs. Stokes left town and her husband decided to remodel the old homestead, will be "Uncle Walter's Doghouse" drama Tuesday at 10:30 over WEAF. Bob Strong's orchestra, Virginia Verrill and the quartet will provide music.

The story of the Declaration of Independence, one of the most vigorous chapters in the growth of the country, will be dramatized during the Cavalcade of America, Tuesday at 9:00 p. m. over WJZ with Thomas Jefferson as the focal point. The cast is headed by John Beal, well known radio, stage and screen star.

T. V. Smith, rare combination of philosopher and politician, and Russell Crouse, successful playwright and familiar Broadway figure, will be the guest experts for the inquisitive Clifton Fadiman during the "Information Please" session, Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over WJZ.

Stony hearted ladies of the press will clash with hardboiled advertising men on the Battle of the Sexes program, Tuesday at 9:00 p. m. over WEAF. A team of women picked from the editorial staff of the Newark Star Ledger will meet a group of four men chosen from the advertising offices of Springfield, Mass., newspapers.

Judy Garland will spill the low-down on Bill Goodwin's baby shower on the Bob Hope program Tuesday at 10:00 p. m. over WEAF. Her song will be "I'm Fit to Be Tied," and the Six Hits and a Miss will harmonize with Skinnay Ennis on "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me."

Colonel Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, Harlem "Black Eagle" turned movie producer; Nannally Johnson, adapter of "Grapes of Wrath" for the screen; Jane Darwell who plays "Ma Joad" in that picture, and Monroe Silver, original "Cohen on the Telephone," will be featured on "We, The People" over WABC Tuesday at 9:00 p. m.

For the first time in the program's history, a worried father will appear on the Court of Missing Heirs Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over WABC, to make a personal appeal for help in locating his missing son. The father is Lawyer Ralph W. Snyder of Detroit, and the boy is William R. Snyder, missing since June, 1939, and heir to a $12,000 share of his grandfather's estate. The estate must be claimed in person. A second case, involving $10,000 left by Martin Sherman, of Stark, Minn., to his daughter, Laura Sherman Harris, who eloped with an itinerant farm hand, will also be heard.

PHILANTHROPIST DIES IN EAST

Edward S. Harkness Gave $100,000,000. But Never Made A Speech

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 —(AP)— Edward S. Harkness, 66, who never made a public speech nr gave an interview altho he donated $100,000,000 to education and health, died last night of a pancreas infection.

The fortune of Harkness, a native of Cleveland, O., stemmed from that of his father, Stephen V., whose early partnership with John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in founding Standard Oil brought millions to the family.

He was inherently shy, and many of his philanthrophies were kept in deepest secrecy.

He had been ill only a few weeks. At his bedside was his widow, only close survivor. The couple had no children.

Harkness made almost a business but an extremely quiet one - of philanthrophy, keeping a staff of secretaries to hunt out new and deserving outlets for his wealth.

He gave approximately $25,000,000 to Yale university, his alma mater; nearly $12,000,000 to Harvard; $11,000,000 to Columbia; $1,000,000 to the New York public library and smaller sums to scores of smaller colleges in many states.

With his mother, the former Anna M. Richardson, he gave a 20-acre tract in Upper Manhattan for the vast medical center which bears his name - the Harkness pavilion.

He was a director of the New York Central lines, the Southern Pacific Co., and many more railroad and transportation companies.

Harkness gave $1,000,000 to the building campaign for Western Reserve university's medical group in 1927 and two years later endowed Flora Stone Mather college of the university with $200,000.

JUDGE DELAYS HIS VERDICT IN EMBEZZLEMENT

(Lima News Bureau)

FINDLAY, Jan. 30 — Decision was reserved today by Judge Earl K. Solether, of Bowling Green, who presided here Monday at a hearing on a demurrer to a bill of particulars in support of an indictment returned by the grand jury charging Thurman Riegel with embezzlement of $2,268 in connection with a Tiffin real estate controversy.

The bill of particulars was filed by County Prosecutor Robert E. Fuller. A plea of abatement for the defendant also was filed by his attorneys and no testimony was heard, the judge hearing only the arguments of the attorneys.

Attorneys for the defense maintained that Mrs. Mabel D. Ockschim, the complaining witness, did not herself, come before the court blameless. While Mrs. Ockschim maintains that the Findlay man failed to account for money she claims is due her in payment for real estate she transferred to him. One attorney for the defense charged Mrs. Ockschim had given over the properly as a means to defraud certain creditors.

If Judge Solether sustains the demurrer, the case will have been settled and the indictment quelled.

Quilna's "His Girl Friday" Continues To Draw Praise

Cary Grant And Rosalind Russell Head Stellar Cast In Hilarious Comedy; "Hunchback" At The Ohio

"His Girl Friday," which stars Cary Grant, Rosalind Russell and Ralph Bellamy, continues its successful run at the Quilna theatre. The comedy, highly praised by all who have seen it, cleverly combines stark dramatic situations with sparkling dialogue and hilarious comedy. The cast includes Helen Mack, Roscoe Karms, Gene Lockhart, John Qualen, Cliff Edwards, Ernest Truex and Porter Hall.

At the Ohio Charles Laughton portrays one of his finest characterizations as Quasimodo, the cathedral bell-ringer, in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Laughton is ably supported in the Victor Hugo classic with a cast including Maureen O'Hara, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Thomas Mitchell. Vast, impressive settings and thousands of players feature the spectacular version.

The Sigma theatre presents "Invisible Stripes," a stirring drama of the dilema of a parolee, branded by invisible stripes. George Raft, Jane Bryan and William Holden head the cast of players including Humphrey Bogart, Paul Kelly, and Flora Robinson. Commencing Wednesday at the Sigma is "Legion of the Lawless" and "Reno."

Jascha Heifetz, the greatest living violin player, is starred in the State attraction, "They Shall Have Music," with Joel McCrea, Andrea Leeds and Walter Brennan. Also showing is "The Secret of Dr. Kildare" with Lew Ayres in the title role and Lionel Barrymore as Dr. Gillespie.

"Drums Along the Mohawk" is the feature attraction at the Lyric, with Henry Fonda and Claudette Colbert starred as the young pioneer couple seeking a home on America's early frontiers. Also showing is "Wife, Husband and Friend" with Loretta Young and Warner Baxter in the leading roles.

SIGMA

The case of the ex-convict who wants to go straigh, has never been pleaded so eloquently as it is in "Invisible Stripes," the film drama based on a book by Lewis E. Lawes, the new film, which is now at the Sigma theatre.

Contrast is used to brilliant dramatic effect by drawing a parallel between the lives of two men who come out of prison on the same day, one a confirmed criminal, played by Humphrey Bogart, the other, a one-time offender determined to rid himself of the prison stigma and go straight. George Raft is cast in the latter role. Bogart is cynical enough to realize that it is only a matter of time until he returns to the big house and he returns to his former life, intending to enjoy his very illgotten gains while he may.

Raft returns to his decent, hard-working family, anxious to find a job and be able to marry his old sweetheart as soon as he has finished his parole. The sweetheart, however, immediately removes some of his illusions, for she refuses to marry an ex-convict. Altho he is able to find work, his jobs only last until his employers learn that he is on parole. There is further disappointment for him when he learns that his younger brother is on the verge of becoming a crook because he cannot earn enough money honestly to marry his girl. The roles of this pair of sweethearts are portrayed by William Holden and Jane Bryan.

George Raft, in the role of the reformed convict, does a thoroly mature and intelligent job, with a steady gain in audience sympathy as the character is built up, until his relapse into gangsterism is thoroly believable and understandable. William Holden endows the role of the younger brother with sincerity and freshness. Third in the starring trio, Jane Bryan gives a beautiful and sensitive performance as the faithful sweetheart.

Humphrey Bogart handles the role of the cynical, fatalistic "killer" in masterly fashion, and manages to make him an individual personality, rather than a cinematic type.

OHIO

Probably the most difficult role essayed by a film player is that of Quasimodo, the frightful hero of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," currently depicted by Charles Laughton in the Ohio's moving, spectacular version of the Victor Hugo classic.

Laughton receives his greatest opportunity to reveal new facets of his artistry. Altho his versatility has been established in outstanding screen achievements, his current interpretation is hailed as his finest work.

As Quasimodo, the heroic bell ringer of Notre Dame, Laughton breathes life and pathos into the extremely difficult part, evoking heart-tugging sympathy for the pitiable outcast. Despite the actor's shocking make-up, his superb artistry makes the immortal Quasimodo human and deeply appealing.

Nineteen - year - old Maureen O'Hara, a brilliant newcomer uncovered by Laughton, is seen as Esmeralda, the fiery gypsy girl whose persecution by the King's High Justice causes the hunchback to defend her at the sacrifice of his own life.

One of the oddest of medieval customs, the right of sanctuary, plays an important role in the famous novel.

As the persecuted gypsy girl heroine Miss O'Hara takes advantage of the old law to remain safely within the great walls of the Notre Dame cathedral and defy her enemies.

In the new film, Miss O'Hara and her protectors, Laughton and Walter Hampden, resist the demands of the nobility that the girl be surrendered to be hanged. The outcome makes for the spectacle's exciting climax. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Thomas Mitchell, Edmond O'Brien, Alan Marshal, Katharine Alexander and other favorites are featured in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

QUILNA

One theatrical tradition Ralph Bellamy feels should never be discouraged is the time-honored practice of ad-libbing. Some unexpected behind-the-footlights bits of impromptu dialogue have achieved immortality; they are recalled and praised wherever actors congregate. Motion picture ad-libbing is less readily recognizable and less readily recalled.

But Bellamy, a quick witted actor nurtured in the theatrical tradition, has several times improved motion picture scenes by the interjection of a bit of dialogue or action which, seemingly natural and proper, was nonetheless unexpected to his fellow players and the technical crew.

Two such incidents occurred during the filming of "His Girl Friday," a Howard Hawks production at the Quilna theatre with Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell starred. One scene called for Bellamy to escort Miss Russell to a newspaper office. Pausing in the anteroom, he remarks "I'll wait for you here."

All went well up to the time Bellamy had finished speaking his lines, when, in backing toward a bench, he stumbled over a carpet. Before Hawks could call "Cut!" Bellamy covered with the remark, "if I can stay on my feet." It not only stepped up the scene, but delighted Hawks, an advocate of strict naturalness in dialogue and action.

During another scene, Bellamy was speaking to Cary Grant when suddenly he sneezed. "Caught cold," Bellamy ad libbed. "I knew I shouldn't wear rubbers in this heat." The cameraman, taking his cue, panned the camera down to Bellamy's feet, encased in old-fashioned rubbers.

Bellamy portrays an insurance salesman in "His Girl Friday," anxious to have a marriage ceremony with Miss Russell performed as quickly as possible and Grant, her swashbuckling ex husband, is just as anxious to postpone the wedding.

LOANS MADE ON HARDIN-CO CORN

25,669 Bushels Put Under Seal Since Plan Opened Jan. 2

(Lima News Bureau)

KENTON, Jan. 30—Farmers of Hardin-co have put 25,669 bushels of their 1939 corn crop under AAA loan since Jan. 2, 1940, when the first loan on the 1939 corn was made, according to J. O. Sherrick, chairman of the Hardin-co Agricultural committee.

The progress of the new 1939-40 corn loan program, now in full swing, indicates that the amount of corn which will be placed under seal in Hardin-co will exceed the amount sealed under the 1938-39 loan program. Hardin-co AAA co-operators sealed 17,582 bushels of 1938 corn.

Loans on 1939 corn will be available until March 31 at the rate of 57 cents per bushel in the commercial corn area. Sixteen hundred Hardin-co farmers are eligible for the 57 cent rate. The loans will be due Aug. 1, 1940.

Sherrick pointed out that the 3 per cent interest rate, which is 1 per cent lower than the rate in 1938, will bring a considerable saving to farmers. He also revealed that banks and other local lending agencies have handled all the loans made so far.

The simplified method of taking out corn loans by which a farmer may sign his note and chattel mortgage and obtain his insurance certificate in but one trip to the county office, has speeded up the work of making loans, Sherrick said.
