Fred Allen Plans Tour Of Gotham On Wednesday Show

Guide On Sightseeing Trip Will Be "Person You Didn't Expect To Meet;" Boyer To Be Starred In "Confession"

Fred Allen will take his listeners on a tour of New York's famous Chinatown, the Bowery, Greenwich village and other metropolitan points of interest when he interviews Robert Doyle, a guide on sightseeing tours, as his "Person You Didn't Expect to Meet" Wednesday at 9 p. m. over WEAF.

Also, as Goucher McDrain, a typical tax expert, Allen will show how each collective tax has influenced our lives thru the ages. Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the Mighty Allen Art Players, Wynn Murray, the Merry Macs and Peter Van Steeden and his Troubadours join in the hilarity.

The Hollywood playhouse beats a path packed with suspense to the doorway of radiant romance in "Confession" at 8 p. m. over WEAF. With Charles Boyer, regular star of the program, will be Linda Hayes.

The guest-star vogue being what it is in radio, Al Pearce will present a group of "guest stars you'll never want to meet again" as the comedy highlight of his program over WABC at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Regulars of the Pearce gang, including Elmer Blurt, Artie Auerbach, Arlene Harris and Carl Hoff, will be on hand to greet and meet the impossible guest stars, as well as appearing in their own particular roles.

Stage and screen star Brian Aherne and Erin O'Brien Moore, famous Broadway actress, will be co-starred Wednesday over WABC at 9 p. m. when "Juarez and Maximilian" is presented on the Star Theatre.

Crooner Dick Todd's chief contribution to the 8:30 p. m. Wednesday program over WEAF will be his interpretation of the popular "Gaucho Serenade." Todd and the chorus will sing "Indian Summer" and Bob Strong's orchestra will play "Bluebirds in the Moonlight," "Tuxedo Junction" and "Three Little Words." Cliff Arquette, in his role as Slaphappy Grandpappy, will be featured in comedy portions with Bud Vandover and Don McNeill.

The "Breezing Along" show Wednesday at 8 p. m. over WJZ will feature a Johnny Green medley of seven songs including "I Cover the Waterfront," "You and Your Love," and "Body and Soul." The Swing Fourteen, vocal chorus, will open the program with "Pinch Me."

Gracie Allen will give the lowdown on her visit to Washington where with Mrs. Roosevelt, she was the honor guest at the annual dinner of the Women's National Press club banquet held March 9, during the weekly Burns and Allen program Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. over WABC.

That the word "mortgage" was derived from Latin roots meaning "deadly pledge" will be revealed during "The Next Step Forward" program to be presented over WEAF at 11:15 p. m. Wednesday.

Lima fans of Jimmy James, his clarinet and his orchestra, heard nightly over WLW for the past several months, will be interested to know that he has been booked for a Lima appearance April 24.

CLUBMEN, COURT PLAYERS HEAR SPORTS SPEECH

An address on "Athletics and Their Value," was given by Prof. Harris Lamb, director of athletics at Ohio Northern university, was heard by approximately 45 Lima Cooperative club members and members of the South high school basketball squad, at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the organization held Tuesday noon in the Barr hotel.

Prof. Lamb pointed out that athletics improve the health of young people and that team work is necessary for success in any sport or enterprise.

"It takes courage to successfully compete in athletics," Prof. Lamb declared.

Following the address given by Prof. Lamb, a motion picture titled, "Championship Basketball," was shown.

South team members present were Robert Brodbeck, James Clark, Don Davis, Bernard Easter, William French, Douglas Hudson, Owen Mason, Don Penhorwood, Elwood Stemen, Kenneth Straker, Don Still and Ralph Smith.

Charles Davis, South high school principal, James Shafer and Carl Wanamaker also were guests.

The speaker was introduced by Charles Gaskins, program chairman.

The meeting of the Christian church group was to be held at the home of Mrs. Nancy Miller, Suthoff-st. Mrs. Flora Lindemann, E. Second-st, was entertaining hostess for Trinity organization.

Two Highly Dramatic Films Flashing On Sigma Screen

"Parole Fixer" And "The Earl Of Chicago" Offer Stellar Casts; Gable And Crawford At Ohio

The men who free criminals after the law enforcement officers have caught them are the subject of an expose of racketeering in justice offered in "Parole Fixer," at the Sigma theatre. "The Earl of Chicago," a dramatic story of Silky Kilmount, Chicago gangster who becomes an English Earl by inheritance, also is on the bill. Robert Montgomery, Edward Arnold and Reginald Owen have principal roles.

At the Ohio Clark Gabel and Joan Crawford are starred in "Strange Cargo," a highly dramatic story with an underlying spiritual theme that is unforgettable. Ian Hunter, Peter Lorre, Paul Lukas, Albert Dekker, J. Edward Bromberg and Eduardo Ciannelli complete an imposing supporting staff.

A race of motoring nomads, created by mid-western dust storms and destitution, forms the basis for the Quilna feature, "The Grapes of Wrath." Following the misfortunes of "The Joads," the picture reveals the actual experience of thousands of "Dust Bowl" farmers, evicted from their lands and thrown on their own resources to work or starve as their fates permitted. Henry Fonda, Jane Darwell, Russell Simpson, Charley Grapewin and Doris Bowdon head the cast.

"First Love," with all its symptons, is the offering of Deanna Durbin at the State theatre, with the singing star presenting a remarkable parody of adolescent love. Also on the State bill is "Flying Deuces," with Laurel and Hardy as Foreign Legionaires, with the unpredictable comedy aces involved in one hilarious situation after another.

Warner Baxter and Alice Faye are starred in "Barricade" at the Lyric theatre, an adventure film of the experiences of a foreign correspondent and a traveling girl in war-torn China. Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver are starred in "The Honeymoon's Over," a series of newlywed comedy complications.

"Little Princess," and "Cavalcade of the West," are scheduled to start Thursday at the Majestic theatre.

OHIO

When the only woman in the cast goes on location, she has to be prepared to "take it" with the best of the men. And except for one short scene at the beginning of "Strange Cargo," at the Ohio theatre, Joan Crawford is the only woman among nine men.

Her only request to Director Frank Borzage was that in the jungle shots, where she must splash thru pools of stagnant water, some sort of a wooden platform be sunk in the mud to give her surer footing. "It's my only phobia, Frank," she explained, "it gives me the shudders to wade thru mud."

So, in Pico's Woodland Park, the best "jungle" in Southern California, where the trees are covered with tangles of wild grape vines and masses of semi-tropical foliage made the undergrowth almost impassable, Joan Crawford, as Julie, the cafe entertainer, trying to escape a penal colony in the company of convict Verne Andre (Clark Gable), half-slid, half-fell into a pool of brackish water.

The invisible wooden platform was there, all right, to cover the muddiest spot in the center. Stumbling across to the other bank, torn, scratched and tattered, Miss Crawford was helped to her feet by Borzage as the camera stopped turning. "Thanks, Frank, for the board's underfoot," she gasped, and then, "Good heavens! That's a prop, isn't it?"

The cause of the latter exclamation was an eight-foot baby regal python coiled around a branch over her head. An animal trainer was starting to unwind it and put it back in its box.

"It's all right, Joan. It couldn't hurt you," grinned Borzage. "See it's got a rubber band wound around its jaws. It couldn't even open them to bite you. And it looks marvelous in the shots."

"You did that to me!" shrilled Miss Crawford.

"Joan, you said yourself that the only thing that worried you was mud," innocently replied Borzage. "You never mentioned a word about snakes."

QUILNA

Henry Fonda likes to take it on the chin, at least on the screen.

For this reason he was more than anxious to play the part of Tom Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath," John Steinbeck's stirring best-seller now at the Quilna.

"I know how Tom Joad felt when he was shoved around and had to take it on the chin constantly," Fonda said, "I've been in Tom Joad's shoes myself.

"It was like old times," he explained. "When I was going to the University of Minnesota I had to take whatever odd jobs I could find. Believe me, along with the little money I got, I had to take plenty of abuse."

In addition, those years of toil taught Fonda how men like Tom Joad go about their work.

Among other players featured prominently in "The Grapes of Wrath" are Jane Darwell as Ma Joad, Dorris Bowdon as Rosasharn, John Carradine as Casy, the preacher, Charley Grapewin as Grampa, Russell Simpson as Pa Joad, O. Z. Whitehead as Al, John Qualen as Muley, Eddie Quillan as Connie and Zeffie Tilbury as Granma.

Associate Producer Nunnally Johnson wrote the screen play for "The Grapes of Wrath."

LYRIC

Meet the happy newlyweds who found love in an office but lost it when they moved in that little rose-covered cottage and were swamped by the high cost of "Society" living! They're Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver, typical American couple of "The Honeymoon's Over," now at the Lyric theatre.

It's a sure-fire, down-to-earth comedy full of incidents, experiences and adventures that might happen to anyone or his neighbor in Blanktown. Told in a fast-paced, modern manner, this true-to-life tale presents the Todds as a misguided young couple who live beyond their means and provides more hilarious fun than many a comedy seen here in many weeks.

With fierce bandits battering the gates of a remote American consulate, two Americans live a startling drama with death seemingly but an hour away. The film is "Barricade," starring Alice Faye and Warner Baxter, also at the Lyric theatre. Alice is cast as an American entertainer on an international hotel circuit who gets in trouble in China as eye-witness to an assassination and flees from the midst of a savage battle. Baxter plays a newshawk hot on her trail who follows Alice to the American compound to find himself in love with her in the face of extreme peril. Featured in the cast are Charles Winninger, Arthur Treacher, Keye Luke and Willie Fung.

SIGMA

Defying all screen formulas, a new theme is brought to motion picture audiences in "The Earl of Chicago," the year's most unusual motion picture, which opens Wednesday on the Sigma screen with Robert Montgomery starred as a Chicago gangster who becomes an English Earl by inheritance.

The film opens in Chicago, revealing the "inside" on modern gang methods. It then moves to England, where Montgomery as Silky Kilmount, the gangster, goes greedily expecting to collect a $10,000,000 estate. Out of his element as Lord Gorley, Silky is double-crossed by his lawyer and pal, Doc Ramsey, played by Edward Arnold, and is tried for murder according to the ancient tradition of the House of Lords.

The trial sequence in the House of Lords is unique and never before has been pictured. Two years in preparation, "The Earl of Chicago" has every element of entertainment, powerful drama, yet humor in its amusing situations, coupled with the thought-provoking characterization of an American gangster who cannot beat the "rap" in England.

Victor Saville, producer of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "The Citadel," brings the film to the screen, Richard Thorpe directed, with a stellar supporting cast featuring Reginald Owen, Edmund Gwenn, E. E. Clive, Ronald Sinclair, Norma Varden, Halliwell Hobbes, Ian Wulf, Peter Godfrey and Billy Bevan.

"Parole Fixer," the picture which comes to the Sigma theatre, marks the screen debut of another Broadway star. Paul McGrath, who was cast opposite Gertrude Lawrence in the play, "Susan and God," makes his bow in this film as a crooked lawyer, aiding criminals to evade the law.
