Sensational Hit Being Shown On Lyric Screen

That sensational hit, which aided in introducing Hedy Lamarr to the American film public, is now the main feature at the Lyric theatre. The picture, "Algiers," also has Charles Boyer and Sigrid Gurie in prominent roles. Sharing the program is "Tanks to the Yanks."

Now packing them in at the Ohio is the film titled "Standing Room Only."

If it's beauty you are looking for, plenty is to be found in "Cover Girl," the technicolor production at the Quilna.

Two thrillers are sharing honors at the Sigma under the captions of "Bridge of San Luis Rey" and "Weird Woman."

Another hit is scored at the State theatre where "Thousands Cheer" and "Land Beyond the Law" are now featured.

"Mr. Lucky" is the current attraction at the Lima Drive-In theatre.

OHIO

Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurray got a taste of the risk of life and limb undertaken by visitors in crowded, wartime Washington, where it's every man for himself and far too many men. Yet Paulette and Fred were in Hollywood a couple of thousand miles away from the national capital.

They were making a scene for their current co-starring vehicle, "Standing Room Only," showing at the Ohio. The set was a reproduction of a Washington hotel lobby. And their director, Sidnye Lanfield, is a stickler for realism. He knows that the present chronic condition of Washington hotel lobbies resembles what would happen to the ball park at Cobbs Corner if you tried to empty the Yankee stadium into it. Therefore he had ordered 200 extras to mill around amid twice as many pieces of luggage. Then he told his stars to make their way thru the confusion saying lines as they went.

He also gave specific instructions to the extras. Every one of the 200 was told to make a valiant effort to bump into either Fred or Paulette at some time during the course of their journey from the main entrance to the registration desk.

What Happened after that was riotous to behold. But Miss Goddard and her fellow sufferer were black and blue in strategic places for days.

LYRIC

The four corners of the earth contributed to the filming of "Algiers," the Walter Wanger picture currently showing at hte Lyric theatre.

Charles Boyer, the star, is a native of France, and Hedy Lamarr, in one of the leading feminine roles, comes from Vienna. Joseph Calleia was born on the island of Malta, in the Mediterranean, while Mme. Nina Koshetz and Leonid Kinsky, also members of the cast, are natives of Russia. Here, too, was born Alexander Toluboff, art director; and Jamiel Hassen, technical director, comes from Arabia. James Wong Howe, cameraman, is Chinese. Preserving the American balance of the company, Director John Cromwell, Alan Hale, Gene Lockhart, Stanley Fields, Johnny Downs, Joan Woodbury and Bert Roach were all born in the United States.

The other principal feminine role in the film, that of a native girl, is played by Sigrid Gurie, who fits neatly into both categories. For, altho she was born in America, she was taken to her parents' native Norway and remained in Europe until she came to Hollywood to begin her triumphant film career in "The Adventures of Marco Polo."

The second attraction of the program is "Tanks to the Yanks."

QUILNA

Actor Otto Kruger would like the world to know that he is back in color again, after a lapse of 21 years.

His performance in the Technicolor Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelley Starrer, "Cover Girl," now current at the Quilna theatre, is Kruger's first in the color medium since he co-starred with Hope Hampton in the early-day Technicolor, feature, "The Marionette," filmed at New York City in 1921.

During all the intervening years Kruger has carried in his wallet a short clip of one of his close-up scenes as a memento.

GARDENERS ASKED TO LIMIT ONION BUYING

COLUMBUS, O., April 17 — (AP) — Victor H. Ries, Ohio's victory garden program boss, today cautioned gardeners to buy no more onion sets than absolutely necessary, so the other fellow may have some, too.

One pound of sets is enough to supply one person with both green and winter onions, Ries said, adding that the supply of sets seemed sufficient but overbuying could cause shortages.
