Wee Bit Of Scotland Sparks "Lower Basin Street" Show

Skirl the bagpipes! Sound the pibroch! A wee, sma' lassie, wearin' the tarton o' the clan o' Fifty-Second Street will sing a Scottish lay or two on "The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street," Sunday at 9:15 p. m., over Station WJZ. Her name is Ella Logan and she'll be welcomed by the Thane o' Radio City, "Doctorrrrr" Milton J. Cross. Maestro Paul Lavalle and his minstrels will gie oot wi' a bit o' bonny jive, och!

As the "Life of Riley" moves into the 10 to 10:30 p. m., EWT slot on WJZ Sunday, our war worker hero finds that even with his pestiferous Uncle Buckley out of town, he still can manage to get into plenty of hot water. Only this time it isn't his fingers that get burned. It's his tongue.

A confirmed cigar smoker who abhors pipes, Riley gets roped into a pipe "caking" contest by his boss at the defense plant, and many and searing are the experiences he goes thru before he shows up at the Huffn' Puff club on award night.

The murder of an honorably discharged veteran of World War II provides the "GO" signal for one of the most exciting adventures in the "Hot Copy" series of newspaper dramas heard Sundays over WJZ at 5:30 p. m., EWT.

"The Case of the G. I. Murders," to be aired Sunday, puts Anne Rogers, comely newspaper columnist and heroine of the series, on the spot—not once, but half a dozen times. Investigating the death of the soldier, Anne and her secretary, the vivacious Sprightly Poole, find themselves seated at a table in a night club with a second murdered man. With his name as a clue, they go on to uncover a new and flourishing racket.

Byron Jannes, the boy pianist who scored impressively with Frank Black and the Symphony last summer, makes a return appearance with the same conductor and orchestra on the "Symphony of the Air" Sunday (WEAF, 5 to 6 p. m., EWT). The program high lights Beethoven's "Concerto No. 4 in G. Major for Piano and Orchestra" and includes Smetana's Overture to "The Bartered Bride" and Johann Strauss' "Emperor Waltz."

Girl Scout Day Camps To Open Here Monday

Monday marks the opening of the local Girl Scout Day camps which will give all girls in the city between the ages of 7 and 15 an opportunity to get a taste of camp life which they might otherwise be unable to acquire.

With the opening of a day camp at Schoonover park for the first time this year, the total number of camps that will be in operation until July 28 has been brought to three. For several years a Girl Scut day camp has been in operation at Faurot City Park, and last year a new camp was opened in Lincoln Park. All three of these locations will be ready for occupants Monday.

The new camp at Schoonover Park will be under the direction of Mrs. William Neumeier. Mrs Paul Sowards will have charge of the Faurot camp, and Mrs. G L. Crist will direct the Lincoln Park camp.

In announcing the final camp plans, Mrs. Paul Sowards, general day camp chairman, emphasized that these camps are open to all girls from 7 to 15 whether they belong to the scouts or not. Registration blanks, which must be filled out and turned back to the camp director, may be obtained at the Girl Scout office, Citizen's bldg, or at the camp sites.

Each camp will operate four days a week, Monday thru Thursday, with daily sessions beginning at 9:30 a. m. and closing at 4 in the afternoon.

A full program has been arranged for the campers, who will be divided into units, according to age. Each unit will be under the supervision of a well-trained leader and special program work will be under the supervision of adults trained in that particular field. Scheduled for the day camp program are such activities as cook-outs, hikes, weekly swims, bicycling, nature study, sports and games, as well as singing, dramatics, handicraft, sketching, photography and archery.

Miss Irene Kirchner, Lima Girl Scout camp director says: "In response to the increased demand for wholesome, healthful outdoor activity for children in wartime, the Girl Scout organization has made every effort to expand it's camping facilities. We believe that the opening of a third Day Camp this year, at Schoonover Park, will afford an opportunity to be of real service to the girls of that area We are hopeful that every girl in Lima from 7 to 15, Scouts and non-Scouts alike, will take advantage of this opportunity to participate in a real camp experience."

PREDICTION ON COAL MINING COMING TRUE

Meigs Creek Vein Now Being Worked Heavily In Eastern Ohio

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 8 —(AP)—A prediction made by Ohio geologists in the First World War has come true: Meigs Creek coal now is being mined in addition to Pittsburgh coal.

Meigs Creek and Pittsburgh seams are two beds of coal lying parallel to each other about 90 feet apart They are part of the Monongahela deposits covering Eastern and Southeastern Ohio.

Because the Pittsburgh seam was thicker and had a reputation for being both a good industrial and domestic coal, it formerly was mined in preference to the thinner Meigs Creek seam.

The increased use of coal in the First World War led Buckeye geologists to believe that the emphasis would shift to the Meigs Creek seam, which is three to four feet thick, compared with the over five feet thickness of the Pittsburgh seam. Both are strip mine coal.

For more than 20 years this prediction and accompanying data lay untouched in the geology office at Ohio State university Then came the Second World War and a heavier demand for strip mine coal The predicted rush for Meigs Creek coal followed, and in Eastern Ohio resulted in the stripping of thousands of acres in the new Athens-Fairpoint-Flushing triangle.

The geologists now predict eventual use of the Waynesburg coal, which lies higher up in a hill than Pittsburgh and Meig Creek coal. Waynesfield coal is prevalent in the Ohio valley district of Eastern Ohio and is at its best at Harrisville.

Dr. Wilber Stout, Ohio State University geologist, announced today that an extensive checkup by four geologists is being concluded, and the results soon will be published in his two-volume work on the Monongahela series of coal, rock and earth strata in Ohio.

On the mile-long Blaine Hill of the national highway between Wheeling and St. Clairsville geologists can best check the coal beds, for the various strata are well exposed.

Lima Nurse Lands With First Troops In France

Since the days of Florence Nightingale, nurses have been an important line of defense in war. In this, the greatest of all wars, nurses are again in the midst of battle offering their comforting services to the wounded

D Day found Lt. Wanda J Sprinkel, daughter of Mr and Mrs Miles Sprinkel of Harrod, among one of the first assault waves crossing the channel Hospital facilities were set up immediately to take care of the heavy casualties.

In a letter to her parents, Lt. Sprinkel, a graduate of Memorial hospital school of nursing, writes that the enemy casualties were much heavier than those of the Allies.

"I was never accustomed to mass murder," she said in her letter "And what happened is difficult to imagine It was plenty bad but the courage, spirit, and downright cockiness of our wounded are evidence of the undefeatable attitude of our armies.

"The wounded poured in looking rough and tired with bristles on their faces showing thru the smeared camouflage. Of the 36 litter cases in one ward that I handled, there wasn't one complaint from the men. They were wonderful.

"The first two casualties that I treated were a sergeant and a paratrooper each with broken arms. A shell had hit their landing boat. They were the only survivors."

Courage was the one trait most obvious on the shores of France, Lt Sprinkel said. "Wounds that would be treated as critical at home are made ambulatory over here. I've seen men with gunshot wounds in their chest, abdomen and head walk to an ambulance One soldier had his eye removed at night. The next day he walked to the mess hall.

"A majority of the wounded cases I treated were Nazis. They seemed either to be very young or very old. Some of them are very confident but most think Hitler will eventually lose the war"

The problem of rehabilitation entered into the lieutenant's letter. She said the wounded talked much about getting back home. "In spite of new treatment, amputation can't be helped. We are all hoping the people back home will accept these victims of war without question and curiosity"

Graduating from Memorial in June, 1942, Lt. Sprinkel enlisted in the Army in December of that year and received her commission. She has been overseas since last July.

FINAL CONCERT SET FOR SUNDAY

Soloist, Girls' Octet, Band In Last Program

Final concert of the Fourth Annual Musical Jubilee will start at 8 p m. Sunday in the Lima stadium, including this Summer's series of four outdoor musical programs featuring Lima talent.

Soloist for the last concert is Faye Mervis, soprano, a 1944 graduate of Central high school. She is the daughter of Mrs. Dora Mervis, 124 1-2 N. Collett st

Others appearing on the program are the Central high school girls' octet and the Westinghouse band, Lester Smith directing.

Miss Mervis has selected "Musetta's Waltz Song" by Puccini, and "Into the Night" by Edwards, as her selections

The octet, composed of Catherine Tillotson, Patsy Butler, Priscilla Gregg, Peg Folk, Dorothy Yoakum, Mary Frances Morris, Faye Mervis and Catherine Johnson, accompanied by Marjorie McAlton, will sing "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," by Rodgers, and "Dark Eyes," a Russian folk song

The band selections are "Sons of the Desert;" "Melody A La King;" "Beautiful Colorado" a cornet solo featuring Betty Gebhart; "March of Time," "Coronation March," featuring saxaphone sextet, "Columbia" and "Semper Fidelis"

Following the innovation at the first concert in which community singing was found popular, several old favorites will be sung by the audience.

The concerts, arranged by the department of education and sponsored by the Better Business Bureau, are directed by W G Tempel, director of music of Lima public school. The business manager is L W Munion.
