Weird Background Forms Plot For Sigma Thriller

For ages, scientists have been trying to find some sort of a chemical that might keep a person from aging and it seems as the someone has finally hit upon the idea In the new picture "Man In Half Moon Street" opening Wednesday at the Sigma theatre, this magic potion lengthens the discoverer's life span many years.

Marriage is a private affair Or is it? You'll get the answer at the Ohio theatre in the outstanding new picture "Marriage Is a Private Affair" which marks Lana Turner's return to the screen It's thrilling, absorbing and, above all, deeply human

Sensitivity of wartime audiences to wastage and destruction has made "Conservation" the watchword of Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy for the duration. "We won't wreck anything until we have won the war," declared the rotund Oliver Hardy during takes on the set of "Big Noise" now showing at the Quilna theatre

German infamous crimes are as well known if not better known than these of the Japanese and even yet they continue For proof of such actions see "The Master Race" opening at the State theatre Thursday

Rhythm is the by-word for every young kid these days but believe it or not, they don't stand alone The bobby-sockers have some competition among those who are a little bit older When you see "Hot Rhythm" now playing at the Lyric theatre, you'll understand.

DEHYDRATED MEAT

Dehydrated meat that is only one-third its original weight and bulk, a desirable factor when shipping space, storage room, and distribution problems are complicated by war, is now a possibility. The Department of Agriculture, reporting on the result of two years of experiments, says the meat is palatable, keeps well, and retains most of its vitamins.
