Notes for You . .

By WILLIAM L. DOUDNA

MADISON ART: An excellent, if comparatively small, display of Madison artists' work was opened to the public today at the Madison Free library's gallery by the Madison Art assn. The show is the annual Madison Artists' exhibition, which began Sunday with a reception for the artists and association members and the awarding of prizes.

Gerrit Sinclair, Milwaukee, who judged the show, made these awards:

To Robert L. Grilley, instructor in art education at the University of Wisconsin, the Oscar F. Mayer purchase prize of $100.

To Alfred Sessler, also a university instructor in art education, a prize award of $25 for the most meritorious painting in the show.

To Byron C. Jorns, of the university's agricultural journalism department, the Joe Rothschild prize award of $25 in watercolor.

To Mrs. Helen Annen, associate professor of art education at the university, and to Flora Mears, 116 E. Gilman st., honorable mention in watercolor.

To Will Freund, art instructor at Madison West high school, the Madison Art assn. award of $10 in sculpture.

To Sessler, first prize in graphics, $10 given by the Madison Art assn.

To Mrs. Katherine Ingraham, 110 Virginia terrace, and to John Eustice, senior student in art education at the university, second prizes in graphics, $5 each given by the art association.

This was Grilley's second major award this season. In November, he received the $100 Milwaukee Journal purchase award at the Wisconsin Salon of Art. At the same show, his "Girl Drying Her Hair" was voted the favorite picture of those who attended the opening.

His present painting is a picture, done from memory, of a bomber flying over the English countryside on its return from an attack. Grilley was navigator on a B-17 and came back to civilian life loaded down with medals.

Sessler received the $100 Union purchase prize in the 1943 state salon, as well as the honor of having his painting, "Rumor Monger," adjudged the most outstanding work in the show; one of his works won the graphics award at the first of the state shows 11 years ago.

Jorns won two awards at the 1943 Madison Artists' exhibition, and many of his works have been shown in art exhibits over the country.

Freund won a $50 purchase prize for an oil at last year's city show.

Sinclair gave high praise to the works submitted, and was especially laudatory of Grilley's and Jorns' works, both of which, he said, were worthy of places in any art show in America.

From the paintings, graphics, and sculptures offered by Madison artists, Sinclair selected 24 oils, 17 watercolors, 16 graphics, and four sculptures for display.
