Q. What is the most poisonous snake in the world? L. E. Y.

A. Some years ago Raymond L. Ditmars of the New York Zoological Park described the results of a series of tests of snake poisons, which brought out some surprising facts. The most poisonous snake in the world as regards potency of venom proved to be the Australian tiger snake. The most poisonous in the New World was a moderate-sized tree viper of Brazil and the little coral snake of southeastern United States was found to be more poisonous than the Indian cobra.

Q. How many queens have ruled England? D. D. J.

A. There have been five. They were Mary I, Elizabeth, Mary II, Anne and Victoria. Some historians might include Lady Jane Grey, who was queen for fourteen days.

Q. What is the rate of rejection for men who apply for enlistment in the Army? R. B. V.

A. At present the Army is rejecting more than 40 per cent of the men who apply for enlistment due to its high standards.

Q. What was the surname of the former Lt. Philip Mountbatten when he was a Prince of Greece and Denmark? V. O. B.

A. He had none, since the Greek and Danish royal families have no surnames.

Q. Why are pine trees usually planted around reservoirs? R. D. P.

A. Pine trees are planted around reservoirs to protect the water from hardwood leaves.

Q. A recent expedition to the Pacific was known as the Kon-Tiki Expedition. What does Kon-Tiki mean? L. J. S.

A. It means "Sun God."

Let's Explore Your Mind

Answers to Question No. 1

No current researches are available but in 1929, in the famous study of 200 married couples by Hamilton and Macgowan, they asked each, "If by some miracle you could press a button and find you had never been married to your husband or wife would you press the button?" 130 said "no"; 16 said "no, with quallfications"; only 28, "yes." Further evidence showed they meant it.

Answer to Question No. 2

Not with much success. Sociologist Clifford Shaw's grand work in helping clean up city slums proves you can do it best by helping people find and train their own leaders, whom they know and trust. Lawrence P. Jacks also shows this in his fine book "Education Through Recreation." People hate to be "told" but like to be led.

Answers to Question No. 3

Yes; at least social and economic mountains if, as St. Paul said, you combine faith with "works." Negro Laurance Clifton Jones did this in building famous Piney Woods, Miss., Negro College from $1.65 in cash to a $250,000 plant. When journalist Crawford asked him how he did it, he replied, "I kept on praying as if everything depended on God and kept on acting as if everything depended on me."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

There are many different responses employed today for the two bid. One group of players uses an opening two bid as a weakness bid, signifying a hand that is not strong enough to open with a one bid. It is used as a semi-pre-emptive bid, and of course there is the group which uses the forcing two bid.

Eastern players have developed a series of responses to the two bid as follows: With two aces, bid four no trump over your partner's two bid; with only one ace, bid the suit headed by the ace; without an ace, but holding a trick and a half consisting of either three kings or

North: ♠ 10 8 7 4 2 ♥ 6 4 ♦ A 9 8 3 ♣ A 10
West: ♠ 9 3 ♥ Q J 5 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K Q 8 4 2
East: ♠ J ♥ 10 8 ♦ Q J 10 5 2 ♣ J 7 6 5 3
South (Dealer): ♠ A K Q 6 5 ♥ A K 9 7 2 ♦ K 6 ♣ 9

king-queen of one suit and king of another, bid three no trump. If you have none of these holdings, but you do have four trumps and a singleton, or a king and one, jump to four of your partner's suit.

Today's hand is an example of bidding employing this convention. The two spade bid by South is a game demand bid. North's bid of four no trump simply shows two aces.

South is pretty sure then that they are going for a slam, and his five heart bid is definitely a slam try. North jumps to six spades to indicate that in addition to the two aces he has a good spade suit. Thus it is easy for South to bid seven spades, which is made against any opening.
