Rising River Blots Out Love's Young Dream

CAMDEN, N. J. —(U.P.)— Love may laugh at locksmiths, but not at an overflowing river.

Two young couples parked in the Farnham Park section. They failed to notice the Cooper River was rising steadily. By midnight, they were isolated by three feet of water.

They blinked their lights at a police car. The police called firemen, who took a rowboat to cross a flooded field, a swollen lake and an inundated section of the park to bring the four to dry land.

LAST CHANCE

COLUMBUS, O. — (U.P.) — A last chance archaeological expedition this summer will seek traces of previous civilizations in the Cowan Creek Valley, soon to become a lake bottom. The lake will be formed by a dam to be built on Cowan Creek.

New Lake Hair-Do

VERONICA LAKE

Recognize her? It's Veronica Lake. After completing recent picture Veronica decided to say "goodby forever" to that peek-a-boo bang and had her hair trimmed in Hollywood into this more practical hair-do. Do you like it?

Polio Battle Not Won, Says Researcher

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — The 95.5 per cent "purification" of a strain of infantile paralysis virus by two University of Minnesota scientists has been described as a step "forward" in the battle against poliomyelitis.

Dr. Harry Weaver, research director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said, however, that it was problematical "just how much purification had been obtained."

He said the Minnesota scientists had succeeded in removing gross contamination, but that they apparently still have the virus in a mixture of other protein matter.

As an analogy, he said that a person could mix salt and sugar in a glass of water, and then remove the water.

"But you would still have the salt and sugar left," he said.

Purification of the polio virus, Dr. Weaver said, is not the "big drawback" in the development of a vaccine against the disease.

The big obstacle, he said, is to determine the number of different strains and then determine how many must be used as an overall vaccine to prevent the disease in human beings.

"Jetronic" Oil Burner Like Flame Thrower

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — (U.P.) — Flame throwers of today deal in comfort, not in death.

A modern peace-time device resembling the devastating weapons which burned the Japanese out of Kwajalein and Imo Jima caves has been developed. With it the reconverted GI will heat his civilian headquarters this winter and save on his fuel bills.

The flame thrown by this new "jetronic" oil burner is far hotter than any which seared Pacific fox-holes. The burner converts oil into jets of gas before combustion takes place, and the resultant white-hot flame burns at a top temperature of 2,300 degrees F.

Consolidated Industries here, which produces the burner, says it's the only fully automatic one to burn less than one gallon of oil an hour, an amount adequate to warm the small home going up today.
