Gwynn Explains Merry-Go-Round of Fox Studio Stars

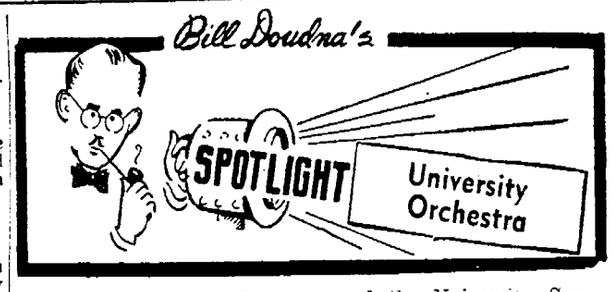
By EDITH GWYNN

HOLLYWOOD — To clarify a very garbled story published elsewhere about the mad shifting of stars going on with three current big pictures at Fox: Ann Baxter is definitely set to replace Paulette Goddard in "Yellow Sky" with Gregory Peck now: Peggy Cummins will NOT be in "The Fan" (which is exactly as we informed you) because Jeanne Crain (in the original Gene Tierney roll) and Madeleine Carroll are the only femmes of any importance cast for it. Peggy gets "The Gay Pursuit," a mad comedy, as itemed here. And at the moment Jean Peters is facing suspension at Fox for refusing to be leading lady in "Sand," and is being replaced by Colleen Gray in that picture . . . And that, as they say, is that.

Hollywood thinks that Howard Hughes will bring the RKO studio which he's bought, to the top of the heap in less than three years. Howard, by the way, is thinking out loud about quitting aviation and selling his big plant here.

Jimmie Stewart would like to do a picture based on that New York taxi-cab driver's book, "My Flag is Down"—but what he'd use for time this coming year, we can't figure out.

When we learned that June Haver, suffering with an impacted wisdom tooth, was thinking of having her sweetie-pie, Dr. John Duzik yank it out, we could hardly believe it. But next day, he did it. Oh, well love conquers all!



Thursday night's concert of the University Symphony orchestra was reviewed by Helen Matheson.

The University of Wisconsin put its symphony orchestra on display Thursday night.

It must have been very proud of it.

The program that closed Madison's spring music season was varied and colorful, and the students played it beautifully.

Besides a trio of compositions by Schubert, Smetana, and Borodin that highlighted the orchestra, the evening offered the first performance of a new work by a Madison composer and another chance to hear the brilliant playing of Pianist Leo Steffens.

The program opened with Schubert's delightful "Alphonso and Estrella Overture"—lively, tuneful, and exciting. Then came Smetana's moody "My Country: Moldau" with its simple peasant themes, wistful reminiscent passages, and stormy climax.

Cecil Burleigh's new composition—"From the Muses: Zephyrus, Chloris, Paean"—is written for a miniature orchestra, strings, flute, clarinet, and two horns. It is veiled, haunting music, and (frankly) way over our heads but the Music hall audience welcomed it warmly.

Alexander Borodin's glittering "Polovetsian Dances" written for the opera "Prince Igor" closed the first half of the program with the "Dance of the Wild Men," the dramatic "Dance of the Archers," and the "Grande Ensemble" with its crashing finale.

The last part of the evening consisted of Rachmaninoff's wonderfully imaginative "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" with Steffens as soloist.

The orchestra key awards to graduating seniors were announced by Conductor Richard Church. Five of the eight honored are from Madison.

Gold keys for seven semesters' work in the orchestra went to Frederic Boots, 2536 Gregory st.; Donald Kirkpatrick, 304 Midvale blvd., and Nancy Webb, 2,004 University ave.; silver keys, for seven semesters, to Lee Northcliffe, Barrington, Ill., and Donald Thompson, West Allis, and bronze keys for three semesters to Mrs. Boots; Catherine Ruetten, 932 Emerald st., and Robert Stamp, Milwaukee.
