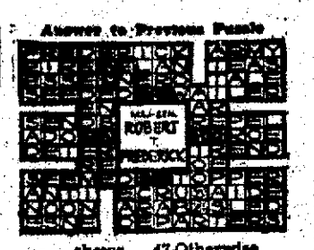
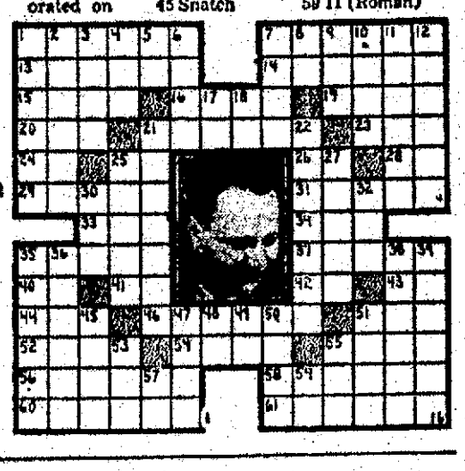
Answers to Previous Puzzle





SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

In the west a elevator has been stolen from a vacant building, and police seeking the high-erups are obliged to walk.

Then there's the Wallace type of broad generality, with 98 per cent off on closer analysis. Even for a messiah in an election year, this seems high.

This brave new world, as indicated by the contents of a local refrigerator. A gardenia corsage, chocolates, rye bread, a ready-to-bake pie, but no meat.

One hears no more of whispering tenors." And plans now afoot suggest the day of the silent Vice President may be drawing to a close.

Tops in morbid speculation is the Brooklyn Eagle's "If Wallace were President, who would be his Cabinet aids?"

As long as prices are moving upward while you look, it's grammatical to say they're at an all-time higher.

Whatever its identity, the wingless celestial object spouting 40-foot flames is definitely not Henry Wallace. On the word of his less restrained admirers, Henry has wings.

A newspaper in China has been in uninterrupted publication for 1000 years—an all-time record for continuous coverage of one crisis.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLAM E. McKENNEY

The Southern Appalachian tourament, which will be held at the George Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville, N. C., Aug. 27, 28 and 29, undoubtedly will establish new attendance records, judging by the advance reservations already in. I saw Mr. and Mrs. Murry Gross of Asheville in New York recently, and I asked Mrs. Gross if Murry had given up psychic bidding. The best answer to that, she said, was today's hand. He not only continues to use them himself but he has his partner doing it, too.

Murry held the East cards. His partner's bid of two clubs was purely a psychic. North's bid of two diamonds was honest. Murry knew that his partner did not have a two-club bid, and he felt quite sure that West had spades. Just to carry the deception along, he bid two spades. With the spade suit well stopped, South promptly bid two no trump, and North, who had a six-card diamond suit for his partner, could not be criticized for going to three no trump.

Opening—♣ 10 16

There would be nothing to the story if West had opened his fourth best of his longest and strongest suit, but he did not. He knew that Murry's bid of two spades must be psychic, because South had gone to two no trump. Therefore, West decided that Murry probably had the clubs, and opened the club 10.

South held up for one round, but had to win the second club trick. Then he decided to stake everything on the diamond finesse lost to Murry's king and he proceeded to cash his five remaining clubs, then led the eight of spades. Thus his partner was able to get in two spade tricks.

Murry and his partner cashed six clubs, a diamond and two spades. Instead of declarer taking nine tricks, his opponents took them, setting the contract five tricks. And this, says Mrs. Gross, is the reason why Murry will never be cured of psychic bidding.

"I'll have you know, sirs, that serving my country turned my hair white—worrying about votes!"

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office © 1948, by JOHN F. DILLE CO.

Answer to Question No. 1

Yes. We know very little abou why we like or dislike anyone. Our likes and dislikes of others are based on our whole life experience. A person whom we like or dislike may resemble somewhat a person we liked or disliked. We may have forgotten all these things yet they unconsciously influence us in liking or disliking people.

Answer to Question No. 2

I can find no exact study of this, but I've listened to hundreds of men's business conferences. After an hour's talk on golf, baseball, drinks, women, old times, the best or worst cigar, etc., many such conferences spend 15 minutes talking over the business, then draw a deep breath over the hard job they have accomplished. I can't conceive of women fiddling around that way. They spend more time in primping but I would not call that "non-essential." My answer is no.

Answer to Question No. 3

Partly true—partly false. This leader said he likes to "spring" men into higher jobs because it stimulates them to meet the responsibility. Fine, but I'd wager this leader had sized up his man beforehand because researchers show not over one-third of workers want promotion. They want to do good work where they are and have it recognized. Everybody wants more pay but very few want more responsibility.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

By HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing the Press-Telegram Information Bureau, 314 Eye St., N. E., Washington 2, D. C. Please inclose three (3) cents for return postage.

Q. Why is a person who has taken out his first citizenship papers not allowed to vote? K. B.

A. A man who has taken out first citizenship papers is not yet a citizen. He has simply declared his intention of becoming one and is, therefore, not eligibel to vote.

Q. What king said of his small son, "He is little, but he will grow and if God pleases, he will mend"? L. O'H.

A. The father of the 7-year-old son, William, Duke of Normandy, presented his child to the nobles before starting on a pious pilgrimage. With these words he demanded the allegiance of the nobles.

A. Are ships at sea damaged by lightning? R. N.

A. The steel hull of a vessel constitutes an adequate ground for protection against lightning. In vessels having wooden hulls, ground connection is made by means of a copper plate secured to the outside of the hull below the water line. Lightning is readily grounded upon striking the water which is a conductor.

THE LAST STRAW

By JIM GRIFFITH

A SCIENTIST is attempting to ascertain what is the most horrible noise known to man.

With his wife in the same room, it shouldn't be too difficult.

To most husbands, a few thousand words from the Mrs. is like the sound of fingernails scraping a blackboard.

There are, however, other horrible noises. Take, for instance, the sound of the phone ringing when you're in the bathtub.

And the jingle-jangle of an alarm clock on Monday morning.

But there's another noise even more horrible than the aforementioned. Worse even than words of advice from a backseat driver. It goes:

"You pay this check, Jim. I'll get the next one."
