Indian Wife Beater Sentenced to Prison

Vernon White, Lac du Flambeau Indian, and William L. Fuller, 22, Menomonie, were sentenced to two years each in prison, Friday by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

White, who has a record as a "bad actor," according to Asst. U. S. Atty. Carl Runge, was sentenced for assaulting his wife with a clubbed rifle.

Fuller was brought into court on a charge of stealing a $40 check from the mails at a Menomonie restaurant where he has been employed as a cook since he was granted probation by an Arkansas federal judge last February for transporting a stolen car.

Al Smolish, Chicago, was scheduled to appear for revocation of his probation as the alleged leader of a sugar ration stamp counterfeiting conspiracy, but Stone was informed federal officers have been unable to find him. Smolish was sentenced by Stone Oct. 31, 1947 to a year's imprisonment and a $1,500 fine, but the sentence was suspended for 2 years' probation.

Hollywood

Both Metro and 20th-Fox are tossing come-hither looks at Doris Drew, a new 21-year-old songstress who has been dragging a lot of the film crowd to the Oasis nitery, where she's dishing out her vocal stylings. The first-named studio already has her tied up for M.G.M. records and is rushing through her first platters.

Laurence Olivier, among other things, will stick very close to Will Shakespeare. He is currently preparing a screen version of "The Tempest".

After being banned for nine years in Australia, Metro's "Susan and God" finally has the green light from the censors down under. It's being shown there under the title "The Gay Mrs. Trevel".

Harry "Pop" Sherman, the poppa of the Hopalong Cassidy series in which Bill Boyd got rich, is trying to sign Spike Jones and his "Musical Depreciation" crew to star in a full-length feature. Even if the deal is made quickly, Spike has a theater tour to finish first.

Viveca Lindfors, dropped from contract at Warners, has been co-starring in "Singoalla" in Sweden with Christopher Kent, signed by David Selznick. (His name was Christopher Kellean then). Kent is headed back to Hollywood and some American movies — but the Lindfors gal will languish abroad.

Anita Loos is in the midst of a rectic romance with a well-known songwriter in N. Y. where she's preparing the musical of her story, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes".

Dick Carlson, who clicked mightily in Chicago with the Henry Fonda role in "Mr. Roberts", is back in Hollywood. No smart produced will let him remain idle long.

Johnny Mercer's new musical, "Free and Easy" will be produced at La Jolla this summer under Mel Ferrer's direction—and then it heads for B'way.

It's Jack Gilford's story about the hen-pecked driver, who begged his wife to change places with him. "Please let me sit in the back a while," he said—"I feel like driving!"

Bruce Cabot has been signed again at Paramount. This time to play the heavy in the new Bob Hope picture, "Where Men are Men". Brucie-boy will tear himself away from his oil properties around Dallas, Tex., where he is now, and rush himself into a make-up kit. Thomas Gomez, the swelegant character actor, leaves pronto to do some personal appearances in the east in connection with his role in Hope's current movie, "Sorrowful Jones".
