Bowl Games on Television but in Limited Districts

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK. (AP) All except one of the year-end bowl games will be televised direct, but on a local basis only. The lone exception is Blue-Gray on Saturday at Montgomery, Ala., where as yet there is no station.

Because each contest is being played in an area without relay facilities, the networks will be restricted to film summaries under delayed schedules.

The local telecasts will include one two-station transmission and one three-station hookup. This is the TV station list, with the radio networks handling coast to coast given in parenthesis:

Saturday: East-west (MBS)—KGO-TV, San Francisco.

Monday: Cotton (NBC—KRDL-TV and KBTV, Dallas, and WBAP-TV at nearby Ft. Worth.

Orange (CBS)—WTVJ, Miami.

Sugar (ABC)—WDSU-TV, New Orleans.

'Gator (MBS) — WMBR-TV, Jacksonville.

Rose (CBS)—KTTV, Los Angeles, and KFMB-TV, San Diego. (The game will be televised direct in the Long Beach area.)

For the TV networks, highlights of the Rose, Orange and Sugar games will be put together into a half-hour film for CBS relay Tuesday. NBC is arranging to film a summary of the Cotton Bowl for insertion in the earliest possible newscast after the game.

Five of the games are under auspices of the same sponsor, the one who goes in so heavily via network and TV with his "Cavalcade of Sports." They are Blue-Gray and East-West on Saturday, and Orange, Sugar and Rose on Monday.

A sixth game, Cotton, will have a sponsor new to bowl games, while the remaining contest, 'Gator, is being presented by MBS.

Meanwhile, a series of previews is being put on this week, including CBS at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday with the first of three interview programs heralding the Orange Bowl.

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers is one of the panel of four for the last of the hour-long America's Town Hall broadcasts on ABC at 8:30 tonight. Next week the program will shift to 9 and reduce its format to fit within a half-hour.

Joining Jackie in a discussion of "Can youth have faith in the future?" will be Betsy Barton, author; Betty Betz, teenage columist, and Harold Russell, commander of Amvets.

News Reporter Story on KNBH

The murder of a young hotel clerk in Pensacola, Fla., and the patient work of Wesley Chalk, reporter for the Pensacola News-Journal, in tracking the killer provides the plot for "The Big Story," over KNBH Friday, Dec. 30 (Channel 4, 9:30 p. m.).

When the body was first found a blood-stained drunken bum who could remember nothing of his recent activities was in the vicinity and immediately suspected. Newsman Chalk dug into the murdered man's past and uncovered his relationship with a young married woman who was dominated by her psychopathic husband. Chalk eventually trapped the killer, who died while serving a life term in prison.

Unusual Defensive Maneuver Set 3 No Trump Contract

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
Written for NEA Service

The late Dr. Alfred F. Hocker liked to play bridge and nothing gave him greater pleasure than to beat me with some kind of a trick play. I well recall today's hand in which he defeated my three no trump contract.

We are not going to play the hand double dummy. I won the opening lead of the queen of clubs with the king. I played the king of spades and Dr. Hocker (East) played the five. I continued with the seven of spades, which he won with the ace.

He returned the three of clubs. I won this trick with the ace. I cashed the ace of hearts and Dr. Hocker made one of the most unusual defensive plays I have ever seen. He put on the seven of hearts. When I played the king of hearts he played the nine spot.

Now when I played the queen of hearts, he thought for a long time and played the jack, which is the correct play. Had he played the deuce of hearts, I would have been able to throw him in with a small heart. He then would have been forced to lead a diamond, which would have given me the balance of the tricks.

However, all I could do when Dr. Hocker made this very fine play was to cash the four of hearts. There was no way for me now to make more than eight tricks.
