Blackwood on Bridge

(By Easley R. Blackwood)

What would you have bid with Mr. Muzzy's hand if your partner had doubled an opening one heart bid for a takeout?

Mr. Muzzy figured that since he had no four-card suit except hearts, there was only one thing to bid—no trump.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North (Mr. Abel)
S—K 7 5 4 3
H—A
D—K 8 7 5
C—Q 10 8

West (Mrs. Keen)
S—A Q
H—K J 10 5 4
D—Q 10
C—A J 6 5

East (Mr. Dale)
S—8 6 2
H—Q 8 2
D—9 6 4 3
C—9 4 2

South (Mr. Muzzy)
S—J 10 9
H—9 7 6 3
D—A J 2
C—K 7 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 H	Dbl.	Pass	1 N T
All Pass.

His hand qualified for this response in several respects. It was balanced—a no-trump "type" of hand. It had the high card requirements.

But it had one glaring deficiency. There was no sign of a stopper in the opponents' suit.

Mrs. Keen opened the jack of hearts and dummy's ace won, Mr. Dale flashing the eight spot. Mr. Muzzy now finessed the jack of diamonds which lost to the queen.

The defenders then ran four heart tricks, and Mr. Muzzy had a hard time finding safe discards from the dummy.

He decided to play three little spades and the eight of clubs. He kept all of the dummy's remaining diamonds, hoping that suit would break and give him three tricks. From his own hand he dropped the trey of clubs on the last heart lead.

At trick seven Mrs. Keen led the five of clubs which was won by dummy's 10 spot. Mr. Muzzy now tried the diamonds, cashing the ace and king—but Mr. Dale proved to have the suit stopped.

On the third diamond lead Mrs. Keen threw the obviously worthless queen of spades.

At this point Mr. Muzzy was through, as Mrs. Keen's hand was down to good clubs and the ace of spades.

This three trick set could have been avoided if Mr. Muzzy had responded to the double with a bid of one spade.

True, his spade suit was not bidable by textbook standards. But neither did his four hearts to the nine constitute a stopper in that suit.

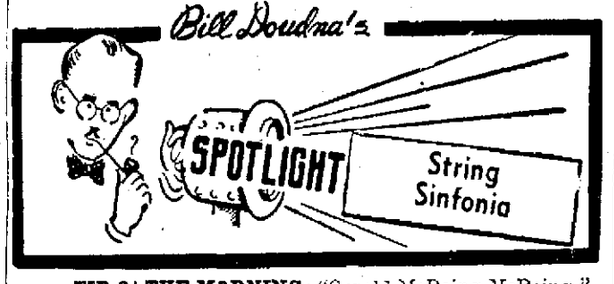
It is better to lie a little about your suit than about the general nature of your hand.

Although Mr. Abel's double was somewhat weak in high cards, its distributional advantages would have prompted him to raise a spade bid to two.

But that contract would have been so easy that even Mr. Muzzy could have made it.

CBS Radio Appeal Gets 14,741 Blood Donations

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) said Sunday 14,741 persons in 123 cities pledged blood donations to the Red Cross within 12 hours of a broadcast appeal Friday night.



TIP O' THE MODNING: "Gerald McBoing McBoing," the cartoon short which has been getting praise from critics all over the country, will be on the Orpheum program beginning Wednesday.

A concert by Marie A. Endres' string orchestra—now called the Madison String Sinfonia—is always a stimulating experience.

There are several reasons. One is the energetic interest of its members, mostly high school pupils and college students, in playing good music; another is the opportunity the concerts give for the rare hearing of compositions for strings alone.

Sunday night's concert was no exception. It had an added factor of interest—this was the first public program in the Madison Vocational school's new auditorium, Scanlan hall. Small (it seats only about 300), it is acoustically good and coolly decorated; sadly, the coolness did not affect the temperature.

Miss Endres conducted her group vigorously and with an excellent sense of timing, noticeable especially in Ernest Bloch's "Concerto Grosso" and an encore, "Jamaican Rhumba." Besides this, there was a solid bank of tone when it was needed, and against it a delicate neatness.

John Fredrickson, concertmaster; Marvel Gasser, principal violist, and DoLores Mittler, pianist, contributed outstanding solo passages in the Bloch work, and Fredrickson was even better in another encore, Vaughan Williams' "Fantasy on Greensleeves."

The program opened with Moszkowski's "Prelude and Fugue," of which the latter was one of the high points of the concert. Violas had their innings in Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 6," which was marred by some uncertainties in the slow movement.

Don Gills' "Three Sketches" were delightful, particularly the mildly jazzy "Whimsy."

The Bloch work received a uniformly good performance, with its lively dance, somewhat mystic pastorale, rugged prelude, and fascinating fugue.

PHOTO SHOW: Robert C. Zimmerman, one of Madison's most ardent circus fans, has been appointed Wisconsin chairman for a photographic exhibit to be held in connection with the 25th national convention of the Circus Fans assn. in Washington, D. C., from May 17 to May 19.

AT CENTRAL HIGH: Pupils of Central high school will present an operetta, "A Waltz Dream," in the school auditorium Mar. 9 and 10. Darleen McCormick is musical director and Carol Wolf is in charge of the acting.

In the cast will be Carlton Moss, Jane Wheeler, Bruce Maxwell, Jerome Goodrich, Carol Jeffrey, Joan Gottschalk, Lenny Lahtinen, Pat Hodges, Ken Slavney, John Fisher, John Bieberstein, Dick DeMars, Donna Feggestad, Nancy Bostad, and Edwin Hill.

THE WINNER: Winona Ford Goodlette, Watertown, was the final winner at the Horace Heidt show at the Parkway theater Friday night. Miss Goodlette, a soprano, is a University of Wisconsin sophomore who hopes to make concert singing her career.

FILM FARE: Edith Gwynn, State Journal correspondent, writes from Hollywood. . .

Phyllis Kirk, the Manhattan model brought here by Sam Goldwyn, has done three big pictures at Metro this past year and just signed a new contract on the latter lot. Her next, a featured spot in "Up the Alley with Mrs. O'Malley".

Erich von Stroheim, seemingly forgotten by Hollywood even after his fine performance in "Sunset Blvd.," is about to produce and direct his own film, "The Fires of St. Joan" in France.

Jane Wyman is again begging her Warner bosses to toss her into a musical. . . And Arlene Dahl is pleading for a song and dance chore at Metro.

Myrna Dell goes from her role in "The Strip," with Mickey Rooney, right into one of the leads in "Secrets of Beauty". Other players are Julie Bishop and Richard Denning. Also Ern Westmore of the famous Westmore clan of make-up experts.

Famed star of yesteryear, H. B. Warner was given a birthday party on the set of "Here Comes the Groom", in which he's playing a part. Warner is now 72!

Stork rumors about Nancy Olson and Alan Jay Lerner.

UE Announces Drive for Wage Increases

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Independent United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America (UE), Sunday announced a nationwide campaign for wage increases.

The union did not indicate the size of the increases it would seek.

The UE—which claims 1,000 contracts covering more than 300,000 workers—was forced out of the CIO on charges it was dominated by Communists. The CIO then formed the rival International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE).
