Woman Takes High Place in Sumatra

Woman has a high standing in the island of Sumatra. The mother is the head of the house hold as well as the undisputed owner of the lands which come hold as well as the undisputed owner of the lands which come to her with her husband. But she is toothless: the practice of filing the teeth of girls down to the level of the gums, prior to the marriage ceremony, is general. The women deck their head and ears with flowers in the Polyne-sian fashion.
