Editors' Meet Raps Czechs on Oatis Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29. (AP) The men who run many of America's leading newspapers today complete an intensive four-day study of news problems with attention sharply focused on news-gathering barriers in this country as well as overseas.

The final session of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association was scheduled for today.

Before ending their meeting the editors were to act on draft resolutions condemning the imprisonment of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis at Prague by Communist Czechoslovakia.

A written report of the performance committee of the APME, headed by David Patten, Providence (R. I.) Journal and Bulletin, warned that "there is more than one iron curtain." It said APME committees have been allergic to domestic problems of censorship, misleading or obstructive handouts, and to "every method open or hidden to distort the news."

The report said the greatest supervision of news was inside iron curtain countries and that "the condition is getting worse."

The APME was concerned with the handling of foreign and domestic news, on writing and the content of the 1,000,000-word daily report of the Associated Press. It flows to papers which in the United States alone have an average daily circulation of 45,000,000.

Next year the editors will meet in Boston, on a date still to be fixed.

The APME elected as its president for next year Herbert F. Corn, managing editor of the Washington Evening Star. He succeeds L. R. Blanchard of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. Wallace Lomoe of the Milwaukee Journal was elected vice president; Frank Eyerly of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, secretary, and Walter Lister of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin was re-elected treasurer.

Last night the editors were entertained at a Fairmont Hotel banquet by Bob Hope, Tony Martin and Monica Lewis of Hollywood.

Solons Hoping for McCarthy Reply

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP) Lawmakers studying a demand that Senator McCarthy be ousted from Congress indicated today they hope the Wisconsin Republican will change his mind and formally reply to charges filed against him.

The expulsion demand and a barrage of charges came yesterday from Senator Benton (D.-Conn.). He told a Senate rules subcommittee that McCarthy had committed perjury and fraud and had engaged in "calculated deceit" of the American people since he was elected to the Senate in 1946.

Benton was before the subcommittee to press for action on his resolution calling for a full-scale inquiry to determine whether the Senate should start ouster proceedings against McCarthy.

Expulsion requires a two-thirds majority of Senators voting. In the McCarthy case a showdown appears to be months away—if one comes at all.

McCarthy was in New Mexico to till a speaking engagement while Benton was blasting him as a man lacking integrity and character. At a news conference in Santa Fe McCarthy repeated that Benton is an "odd little mental midget who is being used as a megaphone for the Communist party line type of smear."

Members of the subcommittee handling Benton's resolution suggested, meanwhile, that they would like to have a McCarthy reply to Benton's accusations.

Whether McCarthy takes the stand or not, there appears to be little likelihood the subcommittee will take any early action. At the end of yesterday's hearing Gillette told Benton the group would need time for careful study of his charges and the precedents for expulsion of a Senator.

GI, 16, Kicks About Mail Service, Army Expels Him

WITH U. S. THIRD DIVISION, Korea, Sept. 29. (AP) Cpl. Charles E. Jackson, Ft. Worth, Texas, asked the Red Cross to investigate why he wasn't receiving his mail in Korea.

They found the 16-year-old soldier should not have been in Korea in the first place.

After 10 months of fighting, Jackson now is on his way back to Ft. Worth—to finish high school.

When he left George Washington Carver High School in 1950, Jackson was only 15 but big enough to fool the recruiting office.

He joined the Army in June, 1950. Seven months later, he landed with the Third Division, at Wonsan, as a rifleman with the 15th Regiment. Nobody there questioned his age either. They made him a corporal and assistant squad leader.

Jackson now is sorry he asked about that mail. He wanted to stay in the Army. He was taken out of the line this week and started on his way home.

Kiefer, Sacramento, vice president; Joseph H. Mack, San Diego, secretary-treasurer, and Tom Ogilvie, Lassen County, a member of the board of directors.

The County Supervisors Association, also concluding a convention here, elected regional officers. They picked San Diego as the site for their 1952 convention.

Move to Rename 90 Ousted Cadets

YORK, Maine, Sept. 29. (UP) Congress will be asked to pass legislation reappointing all 90 ousted cadets to West Point, it was disclosed today.

The announcement was made by Robert Daru, general counsel of the committee on justice of the New York Criminal and Civil Courts Bar Association, which has been conducting an investigation of the West Point dismissals.

Daru said that as result of an Army ruling making the discharged cadets eligible to return to West Point, his committee "will now seek the introduction of an omnibus bill in Congress appointing all 90" to the military academy.

He said it would entail too much delay and red tape if the individual cadets were required to seek separate appointments.

Daru said the proposed legislation also will contain "adequate safeguards against any possible reprisals by the academic board in passing on the reappointments."

Publicity Service Reduced by VA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP) The Veretans Administration is reducing its news relations service to one man as an economy move. Formerly it hired 20 persons to handle newspaper, radio and magazine queries, but already had cut this number to three. It announced yesterday that two will be dropped Oct. 26.

Information Director A. Wolford said the VA also is closing information offices in Manchester, N. H.; Winston Salem, N. C.; Nashville, Tenn.; Wichita, Kan.; Columus, Ohio, and Albuquerque, N. M.

There have been cutbacks in the Atlanta, Seattle and Dallas offices, he said.

Expert Lectures on Lie Detector

The lie detector represents the greatest advance in criminology in the last generation, Ray Schindler, internationally known private detective, told the Long Beach Bar Association, meeting last night at the Lafayette Hotel.

Schindler discussed scientific progress and other details of criminal investigation from the nearly 50 years that he has spent in such work. He started in San Francisco at the time of the graft inquiry just after the San Francisco earthquake.

Schindler told the lawyers many details of the Oakes murder case at Nassau, Bahama. He worked for the defense in that case.

As a member of the Court of Last Resort, Schindler said that the group of volunteer experts have brought freedom to eight men convicted of murder who were found to be innocent and they have assurances from the national organization of lawyers that committees will co-operate with the court to correct mistakes in criminal prosecution.

Rupert Hughes, novelist, introduced Schindler. Among the guests were Donald Nelson, former war production official, and judges on the city, county and federal benches. Joseph A. Ball, president, presided.

French Soldiers Perform for Ike

WIESBADEN, Germany, Sept. 29. (AP) Tough French combat troops today showed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower their fitness to repel aggression. The Atlantic Pact chief is visiting Allied troops maneuvering along the Rhine River.

Eisenhower, watching the French-directed Allied exercise "Jupiter," stopped frequently to talk with French officers and men advancing on a mythical enemy to the east.

Genial and wearing the famous Eisenhower grin, the Atlantic Pact commander prowled through German farmyards and village streets as he took an on-the-ground look at part of his NATO forces. At the village of Dronheim, where French armor rumbled through after crossing the Rhine on a troop-built assault bridge, Eisenhower asked a French antiaircraft gunner the range of his weapon.

The soldier reddened and stammered, then froze up completely. Eisenhower laughed and said, "You'd better find out. Some day your life may depend on it."

As the general walked away, a French officer snapped to a subordinate:

"Give that man eight days in the guardhouse."

He made a quick inspection of an American jet outfit and slapped T.Sgt. Phillip Ulrich, Harrisburg, Penn., on the shoulder when Ulrich gave him a quick and thorough briefing on bomb sights maintenance.

"You're all right, son," Eisenhower said. "I'm all for you."

Senate Seeks to Kill News Order

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP) A bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to kill President Truman's recent executive order tightening the handling of security information by government agencies.

It was filed by Sen. Bricker (R.-Ohio) who described the President's action last Tuesday as a "censorship order." Many newspaper editors also have protested it.

Bricker's office said the measure would repeal the Presidential order, and said such Congressional action has been taken many times in the past.

Jap Admiral's Niece Dons Religious Garb

CHELLES, France, Sept. 29. (AP) Frail, 35-year-old Brigid Aiko Yamamoto, niece of Japanese Adm. Stephen Shinjiro Yamamoto who died in 1942, today received the religious habit of a Sister of Jesus Crucified.

The girl was orphaned at an early age, and long has suffered ill health. The Catholic Order of Sisters of Jesus Crucified is designed for novices in poor health who cannot undergo the strict regime of some religious orders.

Miss Yamamoto's uncle, Adm. Yamamoto, was for a time tutor of the present Japanese emperor, and one time Japanese ambassador to the Vatican.

'Dog Tags' Advised for All Citizens

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP) Everyone should get a "dog tag"—preferably one with a high-melting point—the Federal Civil Defense Administration advised today.

The "dog tag," as it is familiarly known to servicemen since World War I, is an identification disc bearing name, address, blood type and other information about the wearer.

FCDA recommended chrome-steel. It won't become radioactive "and it all probability will remain serviceable under any and all anticipated attack conditions."
