The final ballot was published last Sunday in the Spotlight, and it will not be printed again. If you haven't voted, you'll have to recover last Sunday's State Journal to get a ballot.

Deadline for the voting is noon Saturday. Results will be printed on Christmas day.

FILM FARE: George Fisher, substituting for Edith Gwynn, reports from Hollywood . . .

If you wonder why so many movie personalities are attempting to break into night-club and recording work, take a look at the Daily Variety figures on Mario Lanza's income for 1951! A measly $150,000 from movies, as against $200,000 from a concert tour, and over $400,000 royalties from his recordings! Add another $250,000 from his radio show and it's no wonder the echo-chamber Caruso can afford to put on weight! "Because You're Mine," Lanza's movie which was delayed a few months while he lost poundage, has started at last, with James Whitmore, Doretta Morrow, and Spring Byington in support.

If Audie Murphy can arrange his schedule properly, he'll star in "Fate of the Baron," which Don Siegel will direct in Austria next spring.

. . . ow the motor picture is applying psychoanalysis to its musical scores. Dimitri Tiomkin is having Dr. Waldon Wadsworth, authority on the emotional and psychic impact of music, act as adviser during the scoring of Stanley Kramer's "My Six Convicts."

Jane Wyman's singing gets better and better. Her next record has two special songs back to back, "I Like The Feeling" and "It's Nice When the Money Rolls In."

Cesar Romero's next picture for Nassour Productions will be filmed in South America.

Mercedes McCambridge is prerecording six of her "Defense Attorney" radio shows to give her plenty of rest for the maternity room date which may fall on New Year's day.

In a neat reverse-switch, the troops will entertain Debbie Reynolds with a belated Christmas in Burbank. Debbie will be away visiting the soldiers on Christmas day. But early in January a group of servicemen who have been entertained by her in Korea are due home on rotation. So they've arranged with Debbie's mother to have a Christmas tree and all the trimmings in the Reynolds home when they arrive.

Little International Stock Show Mar. 1

The 1952 University of Wisconsin Little International Livestock Show will be held Mar. 1 in the university stock pavilion, with afternoon and evening programs, Donald Kropf, College of Agriculture senior from Watertown, and general chairman of the show, announced Tuesday night.

Other agriculture students who are assisting Kropf as sub-chairmen are David Wieckert, Appleton, programs; Dwaine Traeder, Helenville, night show; James Smrz, West Allis, day show; Leroy Hanson, Suring, tickets; Philip Craker, Reedsburg, awards; Ernest Briskey, Hillsboro, publicity; James Everts, New London, promotions; Fred Linse, Mondovi, horse show; Richard Bakke, Madison, ushers and grounds; Justin Juozaitis, Madison, meats; George Olson, Sparta, beef; and Charles Eckels, Hartford, ringmaster.

Three sub-chairmen are farm short course students. They are Robert Schiefelbein, Somerset, sheep; Corlas Meier, Curtis, dairy cattle; and James Wendt, Waukesha, swine.

Parked Cars Halt Rural Mail Carriers

Postmaster J. A. Wirka reported Tuesday that automobiles parked in front of mail boxes on rural carrier routes, have prevented carriers from depositing mail in the boxes.

"This same situation prevails on mounted carrier routes serving the outlying section of the city," Wirka said. "When this is done the carrier must return the mail to the postoffice or station where it is called for by the patron. This is an inconvenience to the patron who is deprived of the service to which he is entitled."

Wirka also urged that all patrons inspect their mail box surroundings to determine whether they are clear of snow, and remedy the situation if necessary. All patrons residing on rural and mounted delivery are required to keep the mail box approaches clear.

The postmaster announced that the Madison dead letter office is receiving a large amount of mail matter, particularly Christmas greeting cards, with insufficient addresses to permit delivery. He asked all mailers to see that addresses are complete.

Geese Knocked Out on Sheet Metal Roof

EAST GULF, W. Va.—(U.P.)—A FLOCK OF Canada geese made an unhappy landing on a sheet metal roof while they were flying at night over a coal mining camp near here.

Six of the floundering honkers were injured, one so badly that he was cared for by state conservation authorities before he was liberated on a lake two days later. The conservation officers said the geese apparently mistook the floodlighted roof for a pond.

Market Operator Faces Beer Sale Charge

Warrants were issued in superior court late Tuesday afternoon charging Edward L. Hockett, operator of the Sunny Knoll market, 3158 Milwaukee st., with selling beer to a 16-year-old Blooming Grove boy, and charging the boy with procuring the beer for other minors.

They will be arraigned today in superior court.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Don H. Morris said the boy, who last week had his 17th birthday, bought three quarts of beer Nov. 24 from the Sunny Knoll market to drink at a party of nine teen-aged couples in a Monona home.
