Competitive auditions for announcers and interviews for editors and writers will be held next week by WHA. Chief Announcer Ken Ohst will audition students for announcing posts at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Roy Vogelman, news director, will meet prospective newsroom workers Monday afternoon and evening. The scene: Radio hall.

Dayton Lummis, veteran of 20 years on the Broadway stage, will portray Graham McNamee, pioneer sports announcer, in "Alexander, the Big Leaguer" for Warner brothers. The film will include a reenactment of the first transcontinental broadcast of big league baseball, with McNamee at the microphone.

A series of programs for small businessmen began Wednesday on WHA-FM and the state network; each program will be presented twice, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays and at 2 p.m. Fridays. Members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin commerce school will join DeAlton Neher, state network coordinator, on the series. First was Dean F. H. Elwell, who will be heard again Friday.

MILD WEST SHOW: Music will play an important part in "The Mild West Show" which the West High Parent-Teacher assn. will present at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in the school auditorium.

Among the performers will be Jerry Billington's orchestra, the school's ninth-grade chorus under Marion Huxtable, Pianist Ardith Mossman, Singers Mary Ryan and Jane Bandy, and the Regents, a barbershop quartet.

All performers in the show are connected with the school—pupils, parents, teachers, and alumni.

Life Termer Rejects Offer of Freedom

LANSING, Mich. — (UP) — Otis Loomis, who has served 28 years of a life prison term for a fatal fight over a woman, has rejected an offer of freedom from the state parole board.

"Thank you, but I prefer to stay where I am," the 63-year-old Loomis said. "They tell me things haven't changed on the outside and men still are fighting over women."
