Sunday Spotlight

Something New on Radio

By WILLIAM L. DOWDNA
(State Journal Radio Editor)

Two new programs will be on WIBA and WIBA-FM tonight, and I shall have the privilege of being the first guest on one of them.

One will be "Ask Madison," which will be on the air at 10:15, right after the night news. It will have state and city officials on hand to answer questions presented by listeners . . . well, not literally "on hand," but in effect.

During the week, WIBA engineers and announcers made the rounds of the guests' offices and recorded their answers to some questions of civic interest, and these will be broadcast tonight.

The second new show will be "My Favorite Music." It will follow "Ask Madison," starting at 10:30.

On this one, the idea is to bring to the microphone Madison people who are well known and have them introduce the music they like best. There will be a different guest each week, and I have been invited to start the series.

I'm not going to tell you what I have chosen, and in future weeks the selections of the other guests won't be anounced in advance, either. Tonight's will, I hope, surprise and entertain you.

The guests will not be chosen exclusively because of their interest in music, although some of them wil be musicians.

Fredrick Buerki, for example, is technical director of the Wisconsin Union theater. As a director of plays, he must select much background and intermission music. And he is a lover of musical shows; on his trips to New York, he always catches several, and he frequently attends the St. Louis summer operas.

Robert Zimmerman is assistant secretary of state. He is one of Madison's most ardent circus fans—so you can make a guess about what you'll hear on his program.

Otto Festge is known best to Madisonians as county clerk. But many don't know that he is also a violinist and a choral conductor.

Others on the list of guests so far are Walter Heerman, conductor of the Madison Civic Symphony orchestra and Madison Civic chorus, and a fine cellist; Leroy Klose, director of music in the public schols, and Alexius Baas, singer, singing teacher, actor, and conductor of the Madison Maennerchor.

Another note about radio:

A second set of stations—WHA and WHA-FM—will do a binaural broadcast at 9:30 a.m. today. This will be their first. It will use "Cathedral Echoes" to give the auditorium effect which listeners have praised on the two programs of the Madison Civic Symphony orchestra carried binaurally by WIBA and WIBA-FM.

Two campus programs will be on the air today. At 4:15 p.m., WHA and WHA-FM will broadcast the Sunday Music Hour and at 8 p.m. WHA-FM will offer Leo Steffens' piano recital in Music hal. Both, of course, will be on the state FM network.

Incidentally, a reminder—the Steffens program replaces another originally scheduled for tonight. That one by Ernest and Marie Friedlander, will be given instead on March 28.

A record recommendation: Rudolf Serkin's performance of Beethoven's third piano concerto with the Philadelphia orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducts the workmanlike, if not flashy, recording. It's a Columbia LP.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Valentines Are Old Custom

About five centuries have passed since a poet wrote a Valentine's verse in honor of the Queen of England. Many of the words which he used were spelled differently than we spell them. When turned into modern form they do not sound the same. The thought in the poem will be fairly plain, however, from the following prose:

"There is a St. Valentine's custom in this region whereby, year by year, men search through Cupid's calendar and make their choice of great affection by taking her by lot, but I love one who is better than any other."

Written in Verse

If John Lydgate, who wrote the verse, could see it in that form, he would feel puzzled about the spelling. Here are the first four lines of his verse as he wrote them:

"Seynte Valentine of custome
yeere by yeere
"Men have an usuance, in this regioun,
"To loke and serche Cupides Kalendere
"And chose their choyce by grete affecciouu."

Those words are hard for us to read. The poet may have been well educated, but he used old English words. Language grows and changes as the years pass.

Geoffrey Chaucer also mentioned the Valentine custom. If we can believe Chaucer, the custom arose from the belief that birds chose their mates on February 14.

The fact is that no special date can be named as the one on which birds choose their mates. The choosing goes on during a long period, chiefly in the spring.

Roman Festival

An effort has been made to trace Valentine's Day back to an old Roman festival called the "Lupercalia"— meaning "Feast of the Wolf's Cave." That feast took place on February 15, which is close enough to the Valentine date, but the actual customs have little in common.

During the Feast of the Wolf's Cave, Romans gathered at the cave where they believed that Romulus and Remus had been nursed by a wolf. After dressing themselves in goat skins, they went into the city of Rome and used strips of goat skin to strike at women. This was supposed to bring good fortune to the women!

The modern festival bears the name of St. Valentine, who died about the year 270, but we are without proof that the saint had anything to do with starting the customs of Valentine's Day.

Even though we have no certain knowledge as to how it started, the day offers a pleasant excuse to send greetings to those of whom we are fond.
