800,000 View Mummers Parade

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1 — (AP) In a shimmering and unmuzzled display of radiance, some 12,000 marchers spread tinseled wings across Philadelphia's famed Broad street today in the annual Mummers Parade — the Quaker City's welcome to the New Year.

Police estimated that a crowd of 800,000 lined the sidewalks on the more than four mile route to watch the clowns, floats, string bands and other funsters caper in the 51-year-old spectacle. Countless others watched on television.

The weatherman treated the mummers like kings this year, with the sun beaming down and the thermometer ranging in the cool but comfortable 50s.

The lavish spectacle started in South Philadelphia about 8 a. m., EST today and was completing the course about 7 p. m., EST. 11 hours of colors, music and eye-catching appeal.

Once again the string bands, a musical organization peculiar to the Philadelphia Mummers Parade, rendered such old favorites as "Oh, Dem Golden Slippers" and "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover."

Many of the spectators had taken their front row positions along the city's main street hours before the parade started.

Some $82,000 in prizes, appropriated by city council, were awarded to the three divisions, fancy groups, bands and clowns.

The affair, once a South Philadelphia neighborhood tradition, has grown into proud tradition through the years.

SCHOOL PIGEON

TV NEWSREEL

By "JOE" LEDERER

With Jackie Gleason on vacation for the first two weeks of January, the Dorsey Brothers relieve the round comic, just as they did last summer with their "Stage Show." A recent Advertest sampling showed the Dorseys as No. 3 among programs that viewers would like to see again (programs off the air). The survey has renewed sponsor interest in the musical program so the bandleading brothers will be getting a "repeat audition" during their two-week replacement chore . . . with hopes of a regular weekly show soon. The Dorsey "Stage Show", by the way, was originally packaged by the busy Mr. Gleason.

Have you seen the latest G.E. Television sets? Come into our show rooms and see really beautiful clear bright pictures. Top trades are being offered too.

In real life comic Phil Silvers (star of Broadway hit, "Top Banana") and comic Milton Berle are close friends. Now Silvers is set to appear in a new television series, "You'll Never Get Rich." Ironic part is that the show will be seen nationally on Tuesday at 8 . . . opposite Uncle Miltie.

Our '55 General Electric Washers and Dryers have been received. Come in now and see the finest in Home Laundry Equipment. Big Trades of course.

An engineer working for CBS-TV has invented a machine that will probably make him a fortune. It's a laugh machine, which can give a TV producer anything from an audience bitter to a howl . . . and make it sound real. It's a must for filmed comedies, which until now had to be played before an audience in order to get laughs, or else used a laugh sound track that was very obvious. A good laugh has been hard to find!
