DENTAL PLATE NEGLECT may be COSTLY to you in health and appearance

Ask yourself these 6 questions

- Am I nervous and irritable?
If your dental plates are loose—if they gouge your gums, making them SORE—chances are your gums have shrunk. Possibly your MOUTH HAS CHANGED, but your dental plates have not changed. No wonder you become nervous and irritable.
- Am I suffering from malnutrition?
If you feel TIRED and RUN DOWN—if you seem old beyond your years—possibly you are not getting full value out of the food you eat. If you HATE TO CHEW, because you need new dental plates, it's likely ONLY A PORTION of your food is assimilated into your system.
- Is my hearing being damaged?
If your bite is not correct due to mouth changes, you may be INJURING your hearing ability. This has been considered a CAUSE for loss of hearing for years. A national magazine recently quoted a leading doctor as follows: "... of the 10,000,000 deaf or hard-of-hearing Americans, bad bite is at least partly to blame in 40 per cent of the cases."
- Are there new lines in my face?
If your face seems to have AGED due to sunken mouth and cheeks, shrunken gums may be the cause. Sometimes loose dental plates PUSH BACK in the mouth, adding UNSIGHTLY LINES to your face.
- Do I have a strained appearance?
If the tendons of your neck stand out, and your bite is closed, you may have a DISTORTED FACIAL EXPRESSION. Loose dental plates—out of adjustment—often bring about a strained appearance.
- Are my dental plates becoming to me?
If you feel SELF CONSCIOUS about how your dental plates look, are they old-fashioned or stained? Appearance can be a severe handicap.

New dental plates may be a great help to you—at least it should pay you to see a dentist. If your health and appearance can be improved, think how much more pleasant life may be.
