

RADIO KNITS CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE DAY

Fourth of July Never So Unitedly Observed by Nation Before New Art Appeared

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Radio added a new impulse to the significance of our national Independence Day yesterday. Programs throughout the nation emphasized the purport of the national holiday as perhaps never before.

What part did you play in it?

What part is radio destined to play in good old-fashioned American patriotism of the future?

The latter is needed.

Flag raising and flag waving in conjunction with bombastic oratory of jingo-minded small-fry politicians has threatened the security of the republic in its peace and prosperity on many occasions. It is this class of orator who seizes Independence Day, Memorial and other holidays to proclaim to the residents of his community the greatness and the superiority of the United States over any other country. He flaunts the flag and produces situations that are embarrassing, to say the least.

LOS ANGELES SLOGAN

Right here in Los Angeles a slogan has been born which may be observed on many automobile windshields and rear windows, also street cars—"Law Observance." The sticker is in red, white and blue and was created by the Ebell Club of this city. Those two words are a mouthful and tell the story of true, American patriotism. We can wave flags from the front veranda, from the pinnacle of the City Hall and place them on the radiator cap of our automobiles—but if "Law Observance" is not being recognized our American patriotism is a fallacy.

The word "fallacy" seems rather strong, but when we realize how the American flag has been used for the promulgation of movements money appeals and other interests the writer feels that the word is not too strong. How often have we seen the professional patriot bursting into prolonged and loud applause when the Stars and Stripes are thrown upon the screen of a picture house? But this patriot carries his patriotism no further and obeys only such laws as fit in with his personal life. They are not observers of the law.

It is significant that the National Education Association which has just completed its annual convention in Los Angeles points out that radio has a duty to perform along patriotic lines, educational endeavors and the fulfillment of brotherly love.

IF RADIO COULD!

Law observance is nothing more nor less than brotherly love. Radio in the future will broadcast the truth of this fact, which never can be consummated without law observance.

Not that we recommend the utilization of radio for such a purpose, but merely as an illustration: Were the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System on chain to broadcast the violators of law there would be no other programs on the air. Of course, they cannot and will not do it. The fact, however, emphasizes the significance of the Fourth of July.

Law observance and love of the Constitution of the United States is surely and simply a unit proposition. It relates to you in your home, on your ranch, at your magazine topped desk, in your local skyscraper or out in your mountain straddles.

That is the significance of the Fourth of July. But today it is discounted with guffaws of laughter and derision.

Radio has a great duty to perform.
