High Lights Difficult to Program Properly

American School of Air Touches on Russia

Famous Bridge Expert to Discuss Finer Points

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m.

Braven Dyer, Times football expert, on "Football."

Madeleine Kerwin, contract bridge expert of the National Advisory Bridge Council, on "Contract Bridge."

World-wide News, 7 a.m., 12:30, 5:20 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Today on radio is a nightmare when you try to corner the high lights. We'll just picture you receiving compensation for a truck having hit you—sitting at home all day—and romp right into what are termed "radio programs."

As the frost rolls off your roof at 11:30 this morning, KHJ points to its American School of the Air—for children, primarily, but the grown-ups can stand it and perhaps learn a lot.

For today, "life in Russia before and after the revolution" is unfolded to you by one who is supposed to know. After that half-hour—why not stay with KHJ—a Columbia Organ Recital at 12 noon—with soloists.

Skipping to 1:30 p.m., a bridge expert of national reputation, Madeleine Kerwin, discusses the new official system as outlined in The Times by Milton C. Work. At the conclusion of Miss Kerwin's lecture, she will give her only public demonstration at the May Company Auditorium at 2 o'clock.

A cross-section of sports then is exhibited—KHJ—when the football fans listen to Braven Dyer in his analysis of the epochal U.S.C.-Notre Dame football game at 1:45.

For the evening hours—the high lights cover the most outstanding periods—so you be the judge—
