Suppose we get up together this morning, suppose again we have the day and night off, and suppose we agree on programs—the American School of the Air, the United States Army Band, for a smile the new Columbia Gloom Chasers, and for the evening concerts galore.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning the American School of the Air, over KHJ should hold attention with a program of songs and legends of the American Indian tribes, by Dorothy Gordon. The medicine rattle and the tomtom will be used with "Song of the Greeting" of the Penobscot tribe and "Song of the Sun" of the Winnebago tribe.

While we do not know just what the United States Army Band will play at 1 o'clock over KHJ, you'll never go wrong in dialing this organization. It can be counted on for music and will put zip into your afternoon.

We've had plenty of telephone calls requesting the Gloom Chasers, a Columbia feature. They will be heard over KHJ at 5 p.m. There are many casters who tell us this is a real feature back there, so it may suit western taste.

Then there will be the regular Standard Symphony Hour over KFI at 8:15 with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra entertaining for half an hour.

So, on to the high lights.
