

The Post Radio Highlights

1:30 p. m., WOL—Helen Holden, Washington's version of Kitty Foyle, takes her adventures to an enlarged Mutual audience, at a new time. Nancy Ordway continues in the title role, heading an all-Washington cast, in the adventures of a Government Girl.

7:30, WRC—Maybe Beatrice Fairfax, advice-to-the-lovelorn expert, can do something about that scandalous romance between Artie Shaw and Gracie when she visits the Burns and Allen program.

8, WRC—The Telephone Hour offers: Home on the Range, and Grieg's "A Dream," by James Melton; the Bach-Gounod Ave Maria, by Francia White; Salut D'Amour, Massenet's Fete Boheme, Go Down Moses, and Brindisi, from Traviata.

8:30, WJSV—Beatrice Kay's rollicking rendition of "I Don't Care," has become almost as well-known as Eva Tanguay's version. She sings it again tonight, by request.

9, WJSV—Fibber McGee and Molly desert their own hour to star in Cecil B. DeMille's Radio Theater presentation of "The Whole Town's Talking."

10:30, WINX—The Post's high priest of swing, Bill Gottlieb, gets in the groove again in his regular program, featuring the latest recordings.

1 a. m. (Tuesday), WINX—A thumbnail review of Alexander Woolcott and "The Man Who Came to Dinner," opening tonight at the National.
