ADOLPHE MENJOU VEREE TEASDALE guest stars of AL JOLSON TONIGHT

Notes to You... 3,000 to Hear Kreisler at Pavilion Tonight

Unless something happens to hold down the seat sale at the door, the University of Wisconsin stock pavilion will house about 3,200 auditors tonight for Fritz Kreisler's violin program.

The program will open the 1937-38 series sponsored by the Men's union; it will begin at 8:15; you will have difficulty finding a parking place if you aren't there plenty early.

The euphemists on the campus would have us omit the word "stock" when a concert is presented in the stock pavilion. In this column, it will continue to be the "stock pavilion."

The State Journal said Sunday that Barbara Stanwyck would appear in Don Ameche's Sunday night show. She didn't. The State Journal received a publicity story Monday which announced the postponement of her appearance until next Sunday. No explanation was made in the broadcast, although one would have cleared the sponsor of blame for radio editors' gaffs.

Vacation note: Pete Bielman of Ted Weems' orchestra is hunting in northern Wisconsin.

Says Eddy Duchin: "Swing is great, but if you will notice a swing song is seldom listed as one of the first 15 popular songs in the country."

Often the United Press wires carry information preceded by a cryptic "FYI." The letters stand for "For Your Information."

Farm Union Goes on Air Wednesday

First sessions of the Wisconsin Farmers' union convention will go on the air Wednesday over WIBA.

The convention will continue through Saturday. Dr. Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, will be heard in the first broadcast, Wednesday at 11:30 a. m.

The afternoon broadcast will begin at 1:30 with William E. Sanderson, chairman, in charge of the Farmers' Union Central Exchange hour. Kenneth W. Hones, state president, will deliver his report at approximately 3:30 p. m.

The Wednesday schedule will conclude with the legislative report by Chas. Beebe, at approximately 4:30. WIBA's microphones will be ready in Hotel Loraine at 9 a. m. Thursday morning for the opening music and an address by Morris Erickson, board member of the National Farmers' union. The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor will participate in the convention program Thursday morning. The parade at 1:30 p. m. also will be broadcast.

Harry Jack, president of the Milk Pool Products Cooperative, will speak at 3 p. m. Thursday, followed at about 3:50 by Charles D. Egle, manager of the Farmers' Union Live Stock Commission. Henry Rutz, of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation, will be heard at 4:15.

Songs and a discussion by B. J. Gehrmann will open Friday's broadcast at 9 a. m. M. W. Thatcher, of the Farmers' Union Publishing co., will speak at 10:15. There will be another broadcast at 11:30, details of which will be announced later.

The junior program will be presented at 1:30 p. m. Friday and will feature an address by Hones, music, and the speech contest by county winners. The Junior Farmers' Union program will end Friday night, with a portion to be broadcast at 8.

West high students conducted a program along the lines of a panel discussion before the Lion's club at Hotel Loraine today. The subject of their talk was vocational education in so far as the public schools can point it out.

From a group of eleventh graders who had chosen their life's work, three were sent by Ray Holcombe to interview prominent citizens in these fields. Dorothy Thompson took the part of a journalist in the program. Albert Kort, a certified public accountant, and Odette Hendrickson, a dress designer. Conducting the questioning was Earl Hiburn as chairman. After asking such questions as how early they decided on their vocations, what they were doing, and planned to do in the future, what the public school had done to help them, he turned the questioning over to the club members.

The clarinet quartette of West high players played "Alabama Sketches." The players were Allan Gay, Dorothy Glacitt, Charles Itlis, and Don Livermore.

Two other service club programs will be given by this group at the Park hotel, one by the Kiwanis Nov. 15 and the other before the Cosmopolitan club Nov. 18.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.-UP-When Louis G. Hoagland drove up in front of his home, he had to look twice to see if he was wrong. In his absence, a house painter had painted the home-a big mistake because the house had been commissioned to do was in a different neighborhood.

Disputed work for service men. Like other services of the Red Cross, is maintained by the membership dues collected during the annual Roll Call which is held each year between Nov. 11 and Thanksgiving Day," he concluded.

"In addition to assisting men in active service, or veterans," Pett said, "Red Cross workers are called upon many times each year for help in adjusting their family difficulties or in lending aid in countless personal problems, whether they are in actual service, in hospitals, or going about their civilian ways after discharge."

Disabled war veterans and their widows and orphans in large numbers need the assistance of the Red Cross in obtaining pensions or other government benefits. Pett said, especially since it is the responsibility of the claimant to establish his claim for government assistance.

"In carrying out such work here in the Madison community," the chairman said, "our chapter has the assistance of Red Cross workers in the veterans administration offices, army and navy hospitals, and the other services of the Red Cross, is maintained by the membership dues collected during the annual Roll Call which is held each year between Nov. 11 and Thanksgiving Day," he concluded.

Strike Lines Quiet As Tannery Opens

MILWAUKEE-UP-The A. F. Gallun and Sons tannery resumed regular number of employees today after a group of non-strikers pushed through a line of CIO union pickets to enter the plant.

Albert F. Gallun, jr., vice president of the firm, said that 225 workers were on the job and that they would be sufficient to prevent spoilage of hides under process. He said that a fist fight or two was the only disturbance experienced in reopening the plant which has been stricken for about a week.

Court action to evacuate sit-downers who started the strike was dismissed today without prejudice to any of the principals in the case in view of the strikers' compliance with a court order to get out.

Says Red Cross Aids Thousands in Services

Assistance to service and ex-service men with their families has continued to be one of the outstanding responsibilities of the American Red Cross, according to Ernest H. Pett, chairman of the Dane County Red Cross chapter, who said Monday that 230,657 men in the army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard, and ex-service men, had been assisted in some way during the past year by Red Cross chapters.

"In addition to assisting men in active service, or veterans," Pett said, "Red Cross workers are called upon many times each year for help in adjusting their family difficulties or in lending aid in countless personal problems, whether they are in actual service, in hospitals, or going about their civilian ways after discharge."

Disabled war veterans and their widows and orphans in large numbers need the assistance of the Red Cross in obtaining pensions or other government benefits. Pett said, especially since it is the responsibility of the claimant to establish his claim for government assistance.

"In carrying out such work here in the Madison community," the chairman said, "our chapter has the assistance of Red Cross workers in the veterans administration offices, army and navy hospitals, and the other services of the Red Cross, is maintained by the membership dues collected during the annual Roll Call which is held each year between Nov. 11 and Thanksgiving Day," he concluded.

"In addition to assisting men in active service, or veterans," Pett said, "Red Cross workers are called upon many times each year for help in adjusting their family difficulties or in lending aid in countless personal problems, whether they are in actual service, in hospitals, or going about their civilian ways after discharge."

Strike Lines Quiet As Tannery Opens

MILWAUKEE-UP-The A. F. Gallun and Sons tannery resumed regular number of employees today after a group of non-strikers pushed through a line of CIO union pickets to enter the plant.

Albert F. Gallun, jr., vice president of the firm, said that 225 workers were on the job and that they would be sufficient to prevent spoilage of hides under process. He said that a fist fight or two was the only disturbance experienced in reopening the plant which has been stricken for about a week.

Court action to evacuate sit-downers who started the strike was dismissed today without prejudice to any of the principals in the case in view of the strikers' compliance with a court order to get out.

Says Red Cross Aids Thousands in Services

Assistance to service and ex-service men with their families has continued to be one of the outstanding responsibilities of the American Red Cross, according to Ernest H. Pett, chairman of the Dane County Red Cross chapter, who said Monday that 230,657 men in the army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard, and ex-service men, had been assisted in some way during the past year by Red Cross chapters.

"In addition to assisting men in active service, or veterans," Pett said, "Red Cross workers are called upon many times each year for help in adjusting their family difficulties or in lending aid in countless personal problems, whether they are in actual service, in hospitals, or going about their civilian ways after discharge."
