Rubien declares that idea to win as many pennants as those "professional and semi-profwe can by as wide a margin as we essional outfits" must be restrained can. I have advised everyone in from advertising themselves as "amateurs," and that college and system to get more young players, club teams desiring to retain their outbid all other clubs for talent, amateur standing must refrain from scheduling games with "pros." Popularity Amazing

Amateur hockey is a "duckling" because its popularity in northern United States is as recent as it is What are the other clubs doing amazing. The A. A. U. took over organization of the sport in 1931 in three chief rivals last year were the order to provide a team to represent the United States in the '32 games at Lake Placid.

You can get a fair idea of the duckling's egg-laying ability when you realize that a record crowd of the winter season with Gerald 14,247 paying fans attended Sunday Walker, Mazvin Owen and Rookie afternoon's game at Madison Square Garden when the New York Rovers cago and Vernon Kennedy, Dixie beat the Atlantic City Sea Gulls. There was nothing particular at Despite the criticism heaped on stake in the game-just a tilt between two clubs of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League.

The other three clubs in the league are the Hershey, Pa., Bears; the Baltimore Orioles—I understand that the fans swarm out in those cities also-and the Brank, N. Y. Tigers. Likewise in cities belonging to the Michigan-Ontario circuit. The promoters realize that there's Rublen emphasizes another "commercializing" angle to these bigtime hockey circuits. He says the promoters of professional hockey have come to realize their value as "farm clubs" for producing performers who may graduate later to clubs in the National Professional Hockey League. He says three of the New York Rangers' stellar players not so long ago did their blade-work in the Eastern amateur circuit. The greatest evil connected with this commercializing of the amateur all cylinders will give the Yanks sport, according to Rubien, has been the constant importation of young players from Canada. To satisfy immigration requirements, these League champions to not see eye youngsters are assured "jobs" beto eye with Ruppert about running fore coming to the United States. "And quite often such jobs are nonen the Giants since their world se- existent, but the players make a ries debacle may be taken as a very good living on 'expense money' from the clubs.

Last year, the A. A. U. suspended all clubs and players in the Eastern Amateur League. Because of this suspension and the recently increased campaign against importing and subsidizing, the Eastern away from the A. A. U. "But that will never happen," assures Rubien.
