Gutteridge, Vance Are Considered Men in Majors

NEW YORK -(U.P)- Who's the fastest major league ball player for 100-yard straightaway?

Ball players have been arguing all spring about the answer to that question. In every camp down south there was more talk about speed than in many years. The consensus of opinion is that Don Gutteridge of the St. Louis Cardinals is the National league's fastest man, and Joe Vance, Yankee pitcher, the American's speed merchant. The Cards and Yanks trained at St. Petersburg, Fla., and the players had it all ribbed up for Gutteridge to race Vance when Frankie Frisch called off the match. Frisch sald he did not want his ball players to come up with a "charley horse" running a foot race.

9 Gutterirdge is really a flyer, and because of his diminutive size his speed is accentuated. He's the same type of runner as eGorge Simpson, former Ohio State sprinter, and Frank Wykoff, ex-Southern California speedster, Charging around the bases Gutteridge may be the fastest man in baseball, but for a straightaway race he may not be the speediest. Tried to Frame Him

Vance is a power runner like Ralph Metcalie, Marquette Negro, and Charlie Kifksey, the Stanford sprinter of Charlie Paddock's time. Gutteridge may give him a good licking at 40 to 60 yards but Vance's speed increases in the latter part of a race. Ben Chapman, himself one of the fastest men in baseball, is willing to bet that Vance can outrun any man in baseball for 100 of harpoons over his liberal spend-ing policy. Once in explaining his motives to sports columnist Joe Williams, Yawkey said: "Well, it's my money isn't it?"

Which was a million dollar answer in any league. No Explanation Necessary
"I-do not feel that my actions
call for an explanation or apology," Yawkey continued. "Inasmuch as it's my money I should be permitted to spend it as I see fit. But I The Red Sox today are in the do not look upon baseball as a west with an eight-game winning business. Very frankly, I do not streak intact and temporary commoney out of the Red Sox.. It may be that I won't make any money ers I bought are worth every cent I paid for them. I think Joe Cronin is worth every cent of the $250,000 Yawkey's millions, sucker deals, is worth every cent of the $250,000 frustration, bitter disappointments, money for other things besides players. I estimate a third of my outlay was for improvements of Fenway park. But I don't want to get mixed up in an explanation of my financial affairs. Baseball is my hobby. It's more than that because I'm just a baseball fan like the fellow who pays his way into the park. I find it a distinct into the Red Sox trying to get a pleasure to be connected with the

And for four million bucks, don't you think Tom Yawkey deserves a run for his dough?. Come
