By JOSEPH LEWIS CHADWICK

Laid against the background of old-world Europe, painted in the bewitching color and beauty of fairyland, tinged with the brusqueness of present-day reality is this new thrillingly romantic novelette.

Caught in a web of intrigue, betrayed by the emotion that every woman some day feels, the beautiful young American girl Virginia Warren lost for a moment the balance of reality in the exotic fancy of Ian Gregori's Markstane. And when the chaos in her heart was gone there remained there one man-and there was room for nothing more.

Don't miss the unusual new serial novelette beginning Monday in
