CHAPTER VI

That morning Sidney had discovered a white organdy dress with a blue sash hanging at the back of the closet. Lais had bought it a month before she was drowned to wear to a debutante dinner dance in Chicago. It had been cunningly designed to make a girl look exquisitely young and innocent, and after purchasing it Lais had decided that it made her look entirely too childish and had not worn it.

Not knowing this, thinking only ionned it, drew up a zipper, fastened a snap and ran a comb through her hair. If she had taken time to really look at herself in the mirror she would have been as amazed as Cory was when she rushed into the drawing room.

"I have never seen any like them before," she rushed on. "I "Oh! Eloise and David are not stead of losing these as club tricks they were conceded to East's high trumps.

This hand is a very simple illustration of a type that occurs more often than may be realized and hence is worthy of study. Very often a declarer cannot draw trumps for the simple reason that an opponent holds higher trumps or perhaps more trumps than declarer himself holds. In such cases declarer's low trumps are worthless unless they can be brought home as ruffers. When this is true declarer should make every effort to shorten himself deliberately. The usually sound philosophy of trump conservation must give way to one of trump squandering. There is a time to save and a time to spend.

Check Forgeries Alarm U.S.

(Copyright 1939, by United Press)
WASHINGTON — Federal law enforcement agencies have begun a drive to curb federal check forgeries and thefts, which have increased alarmingly, especially in the Works Progress Administration, it was disclosed today. Machinery was set in motion after Frank J. Wilson, chief of the secret service, informed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau of the seriousness of the matter, and Nelson demanded a roll call prison bureau officials complained that arrests for such offenses are that arrests for such offenses are overcrowding their jails. An official treasury checkup shows that in the fiscal year 1934 there were 1,529 forgeries in a total of 104.616.644 checks issued and paid. This increased to 7,498 out of 114,210,934 checks in 1938, and for the first five months of the current fiscal year, which began last July 1, there were 4.893 for geries out of 62,577,630 checks paid.
