

Loretta Young Joins Tracy For Production Of 'A Man's Castle'

Crooks' Concert Will Be Aired From San Francisco Fair; Pearce And Gang Bid Farewell To New York City

With Spencer Tracy in the Radio Theatre's production of "A Man's Castle" Monday, will be Loretta Young in the part she originally created in the motion picture.

Loretta Young, whose current motion picture is "Kentucky," takes the part of the bewildered Trina whose simple ambitions are to have a home and a husband.

The Voice of Firestone concert Monday at 8:30 p. m., will come over WEAF from the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco.

On his San Francisco program, Crooks will sing Kreisler's "The Old Refrain," "The Dream," from Massenet's "Manon," Westendoff's "I'll Take You Home Again," Kathleen and Schubert's "Serenade," Orchestral numbers will include the Overture to Rossini's "Barber of Seville," "Dance of the Tumblers," from Rimsky-Korsakow's "Snow Maiden," and the Waltz from Tschalkowsky's "Eugen Onegin."

Al Pearce and his Gang will bid farewell to New York — for the current season, at least — during their program on WEAF Monday from 8 to 8:30 p. m.

Jan Pearce, popular radio and concert singer, returns for his fourth guest appearance, and the Merry Maes will also return as guest stars, to add their musical talents to the Monday fun-fest.

Carl Hoff's orchestra will feature "Rio Rita" and "Hurray for Spmach," while all the other "regulars" of the Gang will be on hand to bid their adieux to Manhattan.

Elmer Blunt, Arlene Harris, Elb and Zeb and Vince Barnett will wave tearful microphone farewells to the skyscrapers, Sixth Avenue's board walk, the traffic noises and Grant's Tomb.

Lum and Abner will enlist the aid of the National Education-act to help better schooling conditions in Pine Ridge during their broadcast over WABC Monday at 7:15 p. m.

The two storekeepers discovered that most of the progressive teachers in the country are members of the organization which aims to promote better schools and teaching facilities for rural communities.

Plans for a new Pine Ridge grammar school have been made, and Lum likes the architect's sketches so much that he's thinking seriously of starting back in the third grade again so that some day he can become a student at Pine Ridge university of which he is currently president.

Because his romance with Bertha Skimp has hit more snags than you would find in a ten cent pair of sheer silk stockings, Lum hopes that some of the new teachers from the city will be as pretty as the new building so he can begin a new romance.

Dr. Harry Hagen will journey to Cincinnati, Ohio, to present his Tute or False program Monday at 10:00 p. m., over WJZ. The conductor of the popular quiz program has arranged a match between two rival groups of Cincinnati citizens, whose teams have been poring over the Book of Knowledge in preparation for the contest.

Prowlers are scared away from church. Prowlers who entered the Church of Brethren located at the Allen and Hancock-co line and Sandusky-rd early Monday fled without taking anything, sheriff's deputies reported.

Schuyler Eatty, farmer residing directly across from the church, was awakened about 4 a. m. by the motor of an automobile, he told deputies. "I looked out of my bedroom window," Eatty said, and noticed a light in the church.

The sheriff's department was called and Deputies John Carder and Thomas Gallagher were sent to the scene. "While I was telephoning, the person or persons drove away in a car," Eatty related.

Author gives library copy of new book. Lima Public library has received a valuable technical book from the author, Cyril G. Veinott, of Lima. The book, "Fractional Horsepower Electric Motors," discusses 18 major types of electric motors.

The book is of practical use for those interested in the design, manufacture, use or repair of such motors. Elementary principles of operation, forms of construction, detailed diagrams of connections are included.

Veinott is design engineer in the small motor engineering department in the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. plant at Lima.

The manual is a 1939 publication of the McGraw-Hill Book Co. It may be reserved by calling the circulation department.

RESTRICTIONS PUT ON STAMP REDEMPTIONS

Ohioans Must Prove They Helped Collect Sales Tax To Profit

REDEEMABLE AFTER MAY 1. Receipts In Use Now Are Valueless; Lots Of $100 Each Required

COLUMBUS, O., March 27 (UP)—Thrifty Ohioans who plan to cash in on the new law permitting the redemption of sales tax receipts by acting on the claim they helped collect the tax should acquaint themselves with the new regulations laid down by the state tax commission.

The new stamps will be redeemable at 3 per cent of their face value after May 1, but stamps must be presented in lots of not less than $100 face value ($3 redemption value). Stamps must be sorted by denominations, with those of the same denomination "securely fastened together by clipping, tying or binding," and "any intermingling of one denomination with a group of another denomination will be grounds for disallowing the claim."

An application for redemption on an official form prescribed by the commission must accompany each lot of stamps. "The determination of the tax commission as to the redemption value of receipts presented is final, and all receipts will be promptly destroyed upon the rejection, adjustment or approval of the application, and in no event will any receipts be returned."

Stamps for redemption must be mailed to the tax commission's sales tax section, redemption division, 68 E. Gay-st., Columbus, or presented at other stations designated later by the commission.

Only stamps of new colors and designs to come into use May 1, when the redemption plan takes effect, are redeemable specifically mentioned, religious, educational and other civic bodies as eligible to participate in the redemption scheme, it also provides that anyone else who gives evidence that he has assisted in the collection of the sales tax is eligible. For those in the latter class, the regulations indicate, a letter claiming "in general terms" to have given such assistance is necessary.

The May 1 issue of sales tax stamps, the commission has announced to merchants, will be on sale at all county treasurers' offices and at the state treasurer's agencies by April 24. They may not be used before May 1, unless in the intervening week the merchant exhausts his supply of the present issue.

LIONS TO VIEW SOUND MOVIE ON PIONEERS' TREK

Members of the Lions club will be taken on a cross-country trip in an ox cart cavalcade in a sound movie to be shown at the weekly meeting Wednesday at the Argonne hotel.

The picture, re-enacting last spring's history-making emigration of the hardy band of pioneers from Ipswich, Mass., in 1787 to the great Northwest Territory, is the only sound movie taken of the event.

The film, being shown thru the courtesy of the Standard Oil Co. of which C. A. Doyle is Lima division manager, is entitled "The Ohio Country," and is part of the company's "Let's Explore Ohio" series. The series is providing entertainment and instruction for thousands of Ohioans. A. M. Wohlgenuth, chairman of the Lion's program committee, is in charge of Wednesday's entertainment.

On Thursday, members of Leatherwood grange will be privileged to see Standard's pictures "Ohio From the Air," "Beautiful Ohio" and "Industrial Ohio." The show will be staged in the Rimer school building beginning at 8 p. m. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. E. C. Humphreys, Elida.

On Tuesday, April 11, Lima South high school pupils will be entertained in the school auditorium beginning at 12:45 by the picture "Ohio Trails" and "The Ohio Country."

MAN FINED IN THEFT. Carmen Parkswell, of 126 E. Fourth-st., arraigned in municipal court Monday morning on a charge of stealing $1 worth of copper wire from the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs by Judge M. B. Jenkins.

Jackie Cooper Heads Double Bill On Lyric Screen Tuesday

Dazzling Ice Spectacles Seen In Feature On Ohio Program; State And Quilna Have Double Offerings

Opening Tuesday at the Lyric will be "Gangster's Boy" starring Jackie Cooper and "There's That Woman Again," the hilarious mystery comedy, with Melvyn Douglas and Virginia Bruce.

Closing Monday at the Lyric are the two features, "Room Service," starring the Marx Brothers, and "Gun Packer," starring Jack Randall.

Stars, romance, music and dazzling ice spectacles are all seen in the film, "Ice Follies of 1939" which is featured at the Ohio. Joan Crawford, James Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone head the principle cast. The famous skaters who appeared in the "International Ice Follies" also are featured in the ice specialty numbers.

The life and long ambitions of a young Irish lad are depicted on the Sigma screen in the film, "The Flying Irishman," starring Douglas, Corrigan, Paul Kelly, Robert Armstrong, and Eddie Quilna are in supporting roles. A story which unmasks the horrible effects of marijuana on the youth of today in its quest for thrills, is told in the picture, "Assassin of Youth," which is one of the features now at the Quilna.

Completing the Quilna bill is the musical comedy, "Swing It Professor," starring Pinky Tomlin and Paula Stone.

A blue-blooded lady and a red-blooded cowboy are the stars of the unusual romantic comedy, "The Cowboy and the Lady," which is current at the State. Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon head the cast with Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan and Mable Todd in supporting roles.

"Pirates of the Skies" starring Kent Taylor and Rochelle Hudson, is the other State feature.

QUILNA. Marshall Neilan, famous screen director, who officiated in the making of "Swing It Professor," the Pinky Tomlin musical which is the current feature at the Quilna theatre, has just about given up the idea of making the trip to China he had planned. A number of months ago Producer Maurice Conn met Neilan when the pair were vacationing in Cuba. Neilan has a contract to make several pictures in China, but was induced by Conn to handle Pinky Tomlin's "Sing While You're Able" first.

The Sino-Japanese trouble started before it was done, so he stayed for "Thanks, for Listening." Both were such hits that Conn signed him for the new Tomlin musical. Other players whom Neilan directs in this picture are Paula Stone, Pat Gleason, Mary Korman, Milburn Stone and a long list of favorites.

Captain Leroy Bowery, Captain of Detectives in Wichita, Kan., who also is an instructor in the Wichita university, has made an intensive study of, and has written several articles, on the ravishing effect of Marijuana, particularly upon the youth of America. When the producer of "Assassin of Youth" screened the picture for Captain Bowery at Wichita, Kan., the Captain had this to say:

"Assassin of Youth" is a splendid picture from a crime-prevention standpoint, yet it escapes being dull by having a fast-moving, interesting story with considerable humor. The story deals with Marihuana so that it can be understood by the lay mind. Every high school boy and girl of the United States should see this picture. It portrays the evils of the smoking of a drug weed that is gaining recognition as one of the most dangerous practices in the country. It is particularly dangerous to young people."

OHIO. There is such a thing as the Land of Mother Goose. It was especially created for "The Ice Follies of 1939," starring Joan Crawford with James Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone, and currently playing at Ohio theatre.

Not even Grimm in his wildest flight of imagination could have conceived the picture. Erected on a floor of solid ice, one lunched and forty by eighty feet in size, stood a house of sugar cookies and gingerbread with peppermint sticks serving as pillars. Strange, puffy bushes surrounded the building and giant trees with silver trunks and foliage that looked like green silk balloons towered eighty feet overhead.

There was a bust of music from behind the foliage glided Little Red Riding Hood in a costume of flaming satin and carrying a gold basket to her grandmother. Her image, as well as that of the entire set, was mirrored in the ice which had been cooking," she said. "And I'm the one to give it to you. Want to come to dinner at my house some night?"

Doug said he'd love to. "But don't call me on the set," he admonished. "I don't want these fellows to know."

So she phoned his hotel, leaving her name and phone number. The clerk, however, misused it, and Doug was unable to trace the call back.

Later the two met by accident. Corrigan mumbled: "All those nickels I spent on the phone, and no dinner after all."

He got a rain check—this time with address noted.

LYRIC. Picture patrons who object to changes in a play or book when it is translated to the screen have a pleasant surprise in the case of the Marx Brothers' new screen uproar, "Room Service."

The film version of the famous Broadway hit has probably been less altered from the original than any other play ever brought to the silver sheet. In every essential of plot and situation, the film and play are identical. The necessary compression of a two-and-a-half hour play to fit the one-and-a-half hour requirements of a film offering was achieved by cutting down the dialogue and incidental bits of "business," thus enhancing the pace and entertainment value of the picture.

The original play took place entirely in a single hotel room. The camera's flexibility allows other scenes elsewhere in the hotel building and a theatre. Harpo Marx's role, that of Faker Englund, was necessarily played in pantomime, following his inviolable custom. In all other respects, however, the picture faithfully copies the play that kept New York audiences rolling with laughter for more than a year, with Groucho in the role of the harassed producer and Chico as his resourceful—and sometimes crazy—aid.

Lucille Ball and Ann Miller have the feminine leads in the Lyric film, with Frank Albertson also in the supporting cast of "Room Service."
