This is a question, long on the public's mind, that Warden Lewis E. Lawes will answer Friday night at 8 p. m. over WJZ in a trueprison dramatization called "The

To be Criminal Case History Number 759-384, one of the warden's choicest stories, the inmate in question says . . . "The cops sure patted themselves on the back when I was nabbed. But don't you believe them. They wouldn't have gotten to first base without my pals doing dirty work."

However, as Warden Lawes points out, the police forces thruble, as a rule, to play their part in the fight against crime. Relying phase of the law. Police and that in dealing with crime, we are functioning outside the pale of respectability. And the law cannot always find reputable citizens to supply all the evidence necessary. The police owe no apology to crooks. For using information from any source whatsoever is serving the ends of justice.

On Friday, via WABC, from 10:30 to 11 p. m., Robert "Believe It Or Not" Ripley, America's number one purveyor of the unbelievable, begins his 11th year of radio broadcasting.

It was on the old Collier's Hour that he first shyly approached his first microphone and hesitantly mubled a few ad lib phrases. Since then Ripley has presented a mighty parade of amazing happenings representing thousands of hours of entertainment. More sons to the microphone and more than 3,000,000 milees have been traveled by these people.

Ripley, recently returned from his latest tour of South and Cene dramatization will recall how She returns by popular request, tral America, will soon face the microphones and astound the radio listeners of America with his une Vallejo, commander of "Show Boat" several years ago usual drams, unbelievable puzzles, and bizarre personalities.

The world's welterweight title fight in Madison Square Garden between champion Henry Armstrong and Davey Day will be broadcast Friday from 10 p. m., until the finish, over WJZ.

Armstrong is the only man in ring history to hold three world's titles at the same time - the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight — and is favored to defeat Day. However, according to sports experts, Day stands a better chance of defeating Armstrong than any opponent who has faced the miniature edition of the Brown Bomber.

HOME AFTER ELOPEMENT

There's no "make believe" in the faces of Clark Gable and his bride, known to the film world as Carole Lombard, in this picture taken at the home of Miss Lombard's mother after they had returned from an elopement to Kingman, Ariz. It took no "play acting" to produce the same starry eyed look that any honeymooning couple might have.
