

DRAMA
STAGE SCREEN
In Madison
By Sterling Sorensen

THAT MASTER IN DISGUISE, the Lone Wolf, is at the Parkway theater in an adventure called "The Lone Wolf Spy Hunt." On previous occasions he has taken the form of Bert Lytell, H. B. Warner, Melvyn Douglas and Francis Lederer. He now has the outward semblance of Warren William.

MAJESTIC—Andy Clyde in "Not Gaily Enough" at 1:35, 3:35, 5:40, 7:40 and 9:45. "Lost Patrol" with Boris Karloff and Victor McLaglen at 1:30, 3:35, 5:40 and 7:40.

CAPITOL—Charles Laughton in "The Beachcomber" with Elsa Lancaster at 12:40, 3:50, 7:40 and 10.

Plan Staging, Seating For City Music Festival
A miniature model of the interior of the university stock pavilion was the week-end center of interest of principals of three Madison high schools.

All Around the Town
By MADCE YONN

KATIE KERSHAW, former secretary in the supreme court of Wisconsin, and beloved by scores of Wisconsin people who are now mourning her passing, has gone to the supreme court of heaven.

Leora Westlake, secretary to Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry in commenting on the death of Miss Kershaw who was her predecessor, recalled the following teaching incident which took place when Miss Kershaw resided and left Madison to make her home in Milwaukee.

Her for service cannot be surpassed. But now that we know it is not to last. We trust she will come to her Supreme Court home. E'en though she has a chance in far countries now to roam. This little gift with its friendship chain carries with it "Good Luck" and "Wishes Best" in sunshine or rain. To this Katie Kershaw, a gifted writer, replied: "Gipsy Trail! The words will echo long Adown the road that leads away. Will keep me close to blessed friends With whom I laughed but yesterday."

SERVED 25 YEARS MISS KERSHAW, a modest, retiring, quiet personage, had friends in all walks of life. She had that rare gift of making friends and keeping them. Anyone who knew Katie Kershaw never forgot her. Her delightful personality elicited itself into one's memory, there forever to remain. Her efficiency and loyalty to her work is belokened by her long years of service in the supreme court office... almost a quarter of a century. She served under Judge W. H. Timlin and Justice Frank S. Fishweiler and Edward T. Fairchild.

Their ability in a emergency was proved by two Boy Scout Sunday when they aided two young men whose canoe had overturned. The Scouts are Pat Hayes, 14, and Vernon Skama, 15.

Had Indian Mother

But Miss Kershaw's real heart-and-soul interest was in her brethren... the Indian tribes. For she, herself, was of half Indian blood. She was born at Big Springs, Wis., 79 years ago, of a full-blood Menominee Indian mother... a beautiful Indian mother... a Che-Qua-Ni-Ko-Top. Her father, Col. W. J. Kershaw, served in the Civil War.
