Robert Benchley's New Show To Introduce 4 Highlights

Writer-Actor Will Have Guest Star; Artie Shaw Back On Air Lanes After Serious Illness

When Robert Benchley's Melody and Madness program makes its hilarious debut over WJZ Tuesday at 8:00 p. m., the program will include four opening-day highlights.

The writer-actor star of the program will introduce a guest star on his program, an innovation for Melody and Madness. Altho Benchley will introduce guest talent for the first time, his familiar Bounding Broomstick will be in evidence, ready to fly off for parts as yet unknown, on one of the exploration tours which emphasize the second half of the program title.

Artie Shaw will be responsible for three highlights of the broadcast. His appearance Tuesday will be his first since the severe illness which confined him to the hospital. He will return, in good health for the first time in many weeks, to join a dual celebration, his first NBC appearance on the program also being his birthday.

Hugh ("Woo! Woo!") Herbert of the movies and Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, Bronx Zoo snake authority, will be interviewed on their widely divergent occupation by George Jessel on the For Men Only program Tuesday. They will be heard, together with two other notables to be announced, over WEAF at 7:30 p. m.

Herbert went to Hollywood as a writer and remained to become the familiar absent-minded comedian who originated the expensive "Woo! Woo!" Dr. Ditmars, curator of the New York Zoological Park, is the author of a number of scientific books.

Gilbert F. Close, confidential secretary to the late President Woodrow Wilson; Evelyn and Gladys Swarthout, talented musical cousins; Colonel J. W. Blizzard, Confederate veteran who saw Stonewall Jackson shot, and Lady Diana Taylour, a woman of nobility who runs a gas station, will headline Gabriel Heatter's "We, The People" program over WABC Tuesday, at 8 p. m.

Close, confidential secretary to the War time President from 1916 to 1920, accompanied Woodrow Wilson to Europe and was entrusted with the first copies of the Treaty of Versailles. Gladys Swarthout, famous operatic prima donna, will introduce her cousin and protege, Evelyn Swarthout, pianist, who will make her network debut.

Another author of best-sellers, Clarence Budington Kelland, will be set up as a target for Clifton Fadiman's questions on all subjects when he joins the regulars of the Information Please board of experts for the WJZ broadcast Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m. On the last program, his contemporary, J. P. Marquand, represented their fraternity. The other guest expert to serve with the regulars, John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams, will be Bernard Jaffe, noted writer on popular science.

Kelland is the author of the highly popular "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" as well as many other best-selling novels and short stories adapted later for the movies. A native of Portland, Mich., he began his writing career as a reporter on the Detroit News.

Pat Reed, convict who recently released from "the Rock," will tell the inside story behind what he predicts will be "the world's worst prison break from the world's most famous prison—Alcatraz" when he appears as guest of the Inside Story program over WJZ at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Reed will be one of three headliners on the program. The other two are Cliff Bergere, ex-speedway racer, and Charles B. Roth, personal friend of Buffalo Bill.

Bergere will reveal the story behind Hollywood's most sensational crack-up in a recent pic-

Charles Haughton Scheduled To Open Wednesday At Ohio

"The Beachcomber" Title Of New Film; Double Bill To Replace Burns Hit On Sigma Screen

Charles Laughton in what is said to be his greatest role will be seen in "The Beachcomber" an unusual story based on the novel by W. Somerset Maugham. Co-starred with Laughton in the film comedy Wednesday to the Ohio is Elsa Lanchester.

Tuesday is the closing day for the showing of the picture, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" starring Deanna Durbin, Nan Grey and Helen Parrish, at the Ohio.

Opening Wednesday on the Sigma screen are two films just filled with exciting action. They are, "Twelve Crowded Hours" starring Richard Dix and Lucille Ball and "King of Chinatown," starring Anna May Wong.

Bob Burns in "I'm From Missouri," with Gladys George and Gene Lockhart, is the picture which closes Tuesday at the Sigma.

Continuing thru Friday at the Quilna is the thrilling love story of a girl who loved as only some women can and who waited thru the years for this one man to return. "Rose of Washington Square" is the title of the film and it co-stars Tyrone Power and Alice Faye with Al Jolson singing many of the favorite hit tunes of today and yesterday.

"Kentucky," the stirring drama of people whose very hearts beat in time with the hoof beats of a pure blooded race horse, is now showing at the Lyric. Richard Greene, Loretta Young and Walter Brennan head the cast of this technicolor picture.

Riding, roping, loving and shooting are all a part of the fast moving western epic, "Oklahoma Kid," which is now showing at the State. James Cagney, Rosemary Lane and Humphrey Bogart head the cast in this blood-tingling drama.

"Beauty For the Asking," a light romance picture, starring Lucille Ball and Patric Knowles is the second offering at the State.

QUILNA

The romantic stars of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" — Tyrone Power and Alice Faye—are joined by Al Jolson, the star who sings back the past everyone wants to remember, in "Rose of Washington Square," hailed by critics as the entertainment highlight of 1939.

Featuring, as did "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the heart songs and hit songs of today and yesterday, the film opens the gates of memory, rich with the emotion of years of beloved melody, and tells the stirring dramatic romance of Rose, a girl on the level about love, no matter how it tricked her.

Those milestones of melody fill the film: "My Man," "Toot Toot Tootsie, Goodbye," "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," "Ja-Da," "The Vamp," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "April Showers," "Mammy," "Rose of Washington Square," by James Hanley and Ballard Macdonald, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "California Here I Come" and "Avalon."

In addition there is Gordon and Revel's latest hit, "I Never Knew Heaven Could Speak."

The screen play by Nunnally Johnson, who also served as associate producer, opens in a popular burlesque house on Fourteenth-st in New York, just after the war. Al Jolson is a candy-butcher in the theatre, but he has great ambitions for the stage. The film traces his ascent, as well as the climb to fame of Alice Faye, a singer who wins an Amateur Night performance at the start of the story. It tells, also, the tender, heart-breaking romance between Alice and Tyrone Power, a handsome young man who unfortunately prefers to live by his wits.

"Rose of Washington Square" is current at the Quilna theatre.

"I'm From "Missouri," a hilarious story about a Missouri mule magnate on the loose in London, continues the trend started in the recent "The Arkansas Traveler," which marked Bob Burns' switch from musical comedy roles to the portrayal of down-to-earth American types. It was such a sensational success that Bob is now rated as the screen's A-1 player of native characters and has stellar rating for the second time in the picture at the Sigma theatre.

Starred in a cast that includes Gladys George, Gene Lockhart, George P. Huntley, Judith Barrett, Patricia Morison and William Henry, Burns plays a rough-hewn mule magnate from the Missouri farm country. The role, incidentally, marks Bob's third change of "allegiance" in three pictures: he was an Oklahoma senator in "Tropic Holiday," an Arkansas editor in "The Arkansas Traveler," and now he can say with justification, "I'm From Missouri"!

The John C. Moffit-Duke Attebury plot deals with the escapades of Bob and his wife, Miss George, when they make their first trip abroad, he to convince the British army not to stop buying mules, she to have a fling in British society. Altho Burns' plain, Western view of society threatens to ruin Miss George's campaign at several points, his good Yankee hard-headedness not only wins them a real social triumph but cinches a neat deal with the mule-buyers as well.

SIGMA

Richard Dix, one of the few stars of the silent film era whose popularity has never decreased, is back in a new picture, "Twelve Crowded Hours." Lucille Ball plays opposite him.

Noted for his virile characterizations, Dix plays a two-fisted newspaper reporter who virtually conducts a one-man crusade against crime in a graft-ridden city. The current offering marks the first time the star has played a news reporter since the immortal "Cimarron."

Dix made his cinema debut in 1921 in a film entitled "Not Guilty". At that time he was a leading man for the Morosco Stock Co., in Los Angeles. His first picture met with such success that he quickly soared to stardom, has remained there ever since.

In "Twelve Crowded Hours" the action revolves around the operation of the numbers racket, and the efforts of a reporter to smash a gambling ring. The film begins Wednesday at the Sigma.

A cast of expert character players and a fast-moving crime story with an unusual twist make "King of Chinatown," which opens Wednesday at the Sigma theatre, as exciting a racket picture as this reviewer has seen in many a month. Such top-notch performers as Anna May Wong, Akim Tamiroff, J. Carrol Naish, Roscoe Karns and Sidney Toler are responsible for the sharp portrayals; Paramount for the satisfying production.

Miss Wong, who always brings an air of Oriental self-assurance to her roles, is especially well cast as the hard-headed woman-surgeon and daughter of Chinatown's chief citizen. Driven by two devotions: one, to be a good surgeon; the other, to secure an ambulance corps for war-torn China, she achieves the latter by sticking to the former in face of all obstacles!

LYRIC

Showing at the Lyric theatre, "Kentucky," a production filmed in technicolor, is a romance of the Blue Grass state, and it features in the leading roles Loretta Young, Richard Greene and Walter Brennan. Also included in the cast are Douglas Dumbrille, Karen Morley and Moroni Olsen.

From all reports, "Kentucky" contains the most spectacular climax of any picture in recent years as it presents, for the first time in the history of the motion picture, the Kentucky Derby filmed in technicolor. Much of the picture was filmed on location in the heart of the Blue Grass country and the luxuriant beauty of the land where the thorobreds roam the meadows is reproduced on the screen in complete naturalness thru the perfection of technicolor.

It is interesting to note that Richard Greene and Loretta Young share the romantic leads in "Kentucky," just as they did in Greene's first picture, "Four Men and a Prayer." According to reports they are ideally suited to the roles and the story of their love, all fire and pride, makes a great theme for the film.

David Butler, famous director whose list of hits reads like a Hollywood history, directed "Kentucky" and considers it the finest picture he has ever been associated with. The screen play was by Lamar Trotti and John Taintor Foote. Darryl F. Zanuck was in charge of production with Gene Markey associate producer.
