Chicago Town Meeting to Examine American Foreign Policy Tonight

Peter Van Steeden has probably batoned shows for more comedians than any other radio conductor. Currently he directs the music on the Fred Allen series and the George Jessel Only show. Among others he worked with are Jack Pearl and Ray Perkins. He's funny himself and Allen has given him a number of comedy parts in his broadcasts.

The Madison Wrend Builders will make their fifth start of the season Sunday afternoon when they play the Cambridge Danes at Cambridge. The Builders this season rank as one of the out-standing amateur nines in Madi-

The Builders opened their season three weeks ago with a 13-8 win over Gardner Baking co. and followed with a 13-2 win Horeb. They battled the East Side Businessmen to a five inning 1-all tie and scored a 16-3 win at Mauston Sunday.

Norbert Hilgers is the team's ace pitcher, backed up by Reuben 'Red" Dorman and Dave Schmitz. The Builders will play at Camoridge Sunday and at Black River Falls Tuesday. They seek games for the following open dates: 11 and 18, July 2-4-30, and Aug. With the bout still nine days off, 6 and 13. Teams desiring games Baer is down to 212, just two pounds over his best fighting weight. He seems to have pared down too rapidly

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK-(U.P.)-Young Bob Feller stood before his locker in the Stadium dressing room, swabbing perspiration from his big, beautifully muscled body with a towel. As he rubbed himself to a dry glow, he talked.

The Indians' fire-ball flinger had just come in from the field. before the Yankee game. He had done a bit of practice pitching and running to keep in shape for his mound duties against the Red Sox at Boston. Some of the other Cleveland players also were changing to dry uniforms.

school lad started his first full major league season. We chatted lengthily that day in his room at a New York hotel. Despite the fanfare of publicity that introduced him to the big time, Feller was self conscious then—shy of words and ideas and easily embarrassed by personal questions. Philosophy About-Face

Young Bob has not changed much physically. He has grown his height to six feet, exactly. And he has gained only about four pounds to scale 186.

But his philosophy of life and baseball has done an about-face. We asked him about pitching when he first came up. He said, "There's nothing much to it. Just go out there and bear down on that brought him control. C-o-nt-r-o-l is the difference between youth and confident manhood every batter and strike him out. That's all there is to pitching. Just strike them out." seasons ago, poor Bob never was about women. He said, "really now, I'm not keeping steady company with any particular girl. Nope, I don't know how to dance." But when we talked to the great conversationalist today about But I'm trying to keep ahead of baseball, he said, "it's all a matter each batter in balls and strikes of pace. You don't worry so much about any one batter as about the season. You don't pay much at-tention to your earned run average or to the number of strikeouts you get. The big idea is to win the most games possible for your club, and at the same time trying to pitching man. lose the least possible number." And when we talked of gals, Feller denied emphatically that he was engaged to the sweet young thing who won that Van Meter beauty contest. He said, "it was just a publicity stunt for her

The difference between Feller and any big name pitcher may name is this: Feller still has his blinding speed. Despite his difficulties of '37, and a fairly good season in '38, he still can depend upon the steam of that unusual right arm instead of his head.

Feller admits that he is throwing harder now than ever before. He said, "naturally I've got more speed. I'm older and stronger.' He emphasized, "I'm pacing myself now I don't bear down and try to strike out every batter. I try to keep ahead of every batter on strikes and balls. I try to make them hit—grounders that can be thrown out or flies that can be caught. That doesn't require so many pitches. In the clutch I really bear down, and strike them out I mean, when I get men on bases.' Better Seasons to Come

It isn't the increasing years that nakes Feller feel like a man. It's the experience and concentration

The Plain-Loganville contest also may produce some close come petition, but the latter appears to have a bit more power although Plain forced Cassell Prairie to the limit last Sunday before losing. Hal Baumgartner will toe the rubber for Loganville against Plains' Bill Mattiz or Teddy Diehl.
